The YWCA "Ladies Day Out" series, postponed the first time because of Hurricane Esther, had a good turn out, as usual, for registration last week. This series seems to grow in popularity each year with local women. And it's no wonder. The courses are informative and entertaining, and so varied that they offer something for almost every woman.

Of great interest this year is the addition of a money course which will be conducted over the 6-week period by 10 financial advisors and consultants from many fields.

Reunion

It was just like "old home week" for Little League enthusiasts when Midget League Football got under way recently at the high school. Of the hundreds of boys turning out the first day, many of them also participate in Little League. Although there are only four leagues sponsored in the city, there were enough interested youngsters to make up six or eight teams, one coach said.

The managers and coaches have been working with the youngsters almost every afternoon trying to narrow the number down to the number of uniforms on hand. It hasn't been an easy job and many boys will go away disappointed when the final teams are selected. The first games are scheduled Saturday morning at the high school.

Chirping Good Time

Mrs. Laura Lamb, the ball-of-fire advertising head who lives and breathes Virginia Beach, invited her son, Dr. Vell McGee, an intern at Bellevue Hospital in New York City, his wife, Rosalind and their friend, Dr. Bill Cristy, formerly of California but now of New York, down last week-end to enjoy resort living.

In the two days they were here they went fishing, water skiing, golfing and sailing—and cricket hunting. They had had such a good time, they said, they wanted to take something back to their New York apartments to remind them of the fresh air and "wide open spaces" of Virginia. And what could sound more suburban than the chirping of crickets?

So when the trio boarded a plane in Norfolk Sunday night they carried three crickets tucked away in bottles in the luggage. At last report the crickets were thoroughly enjoying the sights of New York and were subsisting quite comfortably on one of Dr. McGee's wool socks.

The rain has slowed down construction of the new Bow Creek Country Clubhouse, manager Ralph Hewlett said this week, but the golf course is thriving. Many outstanding golfers in this area have compared the Bow Creek course at Princess Anne Plaza with that of the famous Greenbriar course at White Sulphur, W. Va. and other popular courses.

Paper carriers out in Great Neck Point get a big kick out of "Barron," James P. Sadler's huge dog. He will retrieve the paper and carry it inside—only if it is thrown in the Sadler driveway.

Series Correspondent

Mr. and Mrs. V. K. Almond Jr. left Tuesday for the World Series. Both are avid baseball fans and have many close friends in the leagues. Mrs. A., better known as Barbara, has promised to write an article about her experiences at the Series for this paper next week.

Ben-Hur

W. F. Crockett has been kind enough to bring "Ben-Hur" back to the Beach Theatre again. It is scheduled October 10-14 for those people who missed it the first go around or wish to enjoy it again. Featuring Charlton Heston, Stephen Boyd and Jack Hawkins, the award-winning technicolor film is a rousing tale of Roman soldiers, struggling Christians and of course the much-publicized chariot race.

At It Again

Mrs. Soni Werner, the young Navy wife who did such a commendable job in making the figures for Storybook Village at King's Grant, now has another project. She is decorating the nursery in the new wing of Portsmouth Naval Hospital. She saw the need for such an undertaking after her own child spent five months there.

City Ways

An area growing as fast as this one is bound to have headaches and not the least of these is mail delivery. Postmaster Joe Crosswhite said this week that it would help the post office tremendously if residents would use a full address—not "John Doe, Virginia Beach."

"The old days are gone when a letter addressed like that can safely reach its destination. We are living in a booming area and must keep up with progress," he said.

VIRGINIA BEACH—The Virginia School Boards Association will hold its annual meeting at The Cavalier today through Saturday with a full schedule of events.

A pre-convention visit to Norfolk County School Administration Building and Great Neck Elementary School will be held today from 2 to 5 p.m. followed by registration at the hotel.

New Manager

Hamner Named Cavalier Head

VIRGINIA BEACH—Burks L. Hamner Jr., who once served as managing director of The Cavalier, has again been named treasurer and general manager of the large resort hotel.

The announcement was made this week by Gene Dixon, president of Kyanite Mining Corporation, the organization that recently purchased interests in the hotel held by Sidney Banks.

Hamner, who will assume his duties early this month, was formerly associated with the Palma Ceia Golf and Country Club in Tampa, Florida, the position he took after his previous association with The Cavalier.

Established policies and procedures of the hotel will remain unchanged, Hamner said, but plans are underway for a $250,000 redecoration project in the near future in both the hotel and the Beach and Cabana Club. Other plans for the winter program will be announced prior to Nov. 4 when club activities will be moved to the Ship's Lounge and Captain's Table.

A native of Tampa, Hamner graduated from the Georgia Military Academy, attended the University of Florida and Tampa Business College. He is a member of the Palma Ceia Presbyterian Church in Tampa, the Club Managers Association of America and the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Alumni Association. He and Mrs. Hamner, the former Margaret Webb of Virginia Beach, and their son B. Latham Hamner IV, will reside at Virginia Beach.

Direct Dialing To Begin Oct. 15

VIRGINIA BEACH—This city's Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company branch office has joined others throughout Tidewater in installing a Direct Distance Dialing (DDD) system. It will become effective October 15, manager L. H. Patrick said.

Cities in the Tidewater area adding the system will be Norfolk, Portsmouth, Suffolk, Virginia Beach and Whitewater as well as Princess Anne and Great Bridge. Presently the only cities in Virginia having DDD are Richmond, Petersburg, Williamsburg, Roanoke, Fredericksburg, Danville and Northern Virginia.

There are over 50 million telephones and 3,000 exchanges throughout the U.S. and Canada using the direct dialing, Patrick said.

There are several things local residents need to remember:

State Code
The area code of 703 is only used when calling into the state of Virginia from another state. When dialing within the state, a person must dial the access code of 1 followed by the regular telephone number. For instance, a person in Richmond wishing to call 428-1122, would dial 1-428-1122.

DDD is available only on station-to-station calls. Any call requiring the assistance of an operator, such as credit card, person-to-person, coin station, collect calls, calls requiring time and charges or calls billed to a third number, must be made through the operator.

Information

To get the number in a distant city, a person may dial the operator who in turn will connect him with the information operator in the city he is trying to reach or he may dial the universal information code 555-1212. Some cities will have an information operator that may be reached by the customer by dialing the area code of the city. There will be no charges on information calls.

The machine handling the DDD system will automatically record and bill calls placed from a one or two-party line. But calls placed from a 3-party line will be interrupted by an operator

Sidney Banks To Be Honored

VIRGINIA BEACH—A testimonial dinner honoring Sidney Banks, who recently sold his holdings in The Cavalier here, is being planned by a group of Virginia Beach citizens. It was learned this week.

All plans for the dinner to serve as a testimonial to Banks are tentative until it can be learned just what date would fit best into Banks' future schedule. He is in Florida at the present time.

The idea of a testimonial dinner to Banks came to several of his friends after it was learned that he had sold his Cavalier interests. The group has formed a committee on arrangements for the dinner and are awaiting word from Banks before announcing the date of the affair.

Those making up the committee for the Banks testimonial dinner are Fred A. Haycox, Albin R. Malheis, Sidney S. Kellam, Mayor Frank A. Dusch and James Powell.

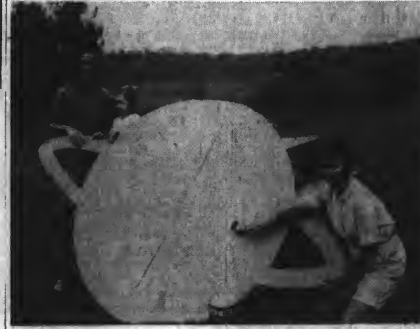

Fire Auxiliary Seeking Gifts

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Virginia Beach Fire Department start canvassing for gifts or donations today through October 14th for the annual Merchants Halloween Party.

The party will be held in the Alan B. Shepard Convention Hall October 31st at 6 p.m. This year will mark the 14th annual party. Judging of costumes will be in the following categories: Most original, most appropriate, prettiest and funniest in each age group up to 15 years then 15 years or over in one group.

There will be numerous door prizes and candy for all.

VIRGINIA BEACH—A more-than-a-century-old house will be just one of the unusual items featured at the Woman's Club of Princess Anne County's third annual Antiques Show and Sale at the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center October 13-15.

The house, located in Eastville on the Eastern Shore, is the home of Bailey's Antiques, one of the show's dealers and features two large chimneys, beaded weather boarding, wide doors with oversized hinges and nine over six windows with the original glass.

Displays, not for sale, in the registration foyer of the center will include antique toys by Goodwill Industries, old eyeglasses by Traylor Optical Co. and another exhibit by Rhodes Antiques of Norfolk.

The 38 door prizes to be given away hourly throughout the show will also be on display in the foyer.

Chairmen for the event include: Mrs. Joseph deCreny, general chairman; Mrs. J. James

Business Leaders To Begin Work Immediately; Seek Aid

An 11-member executive committee has been appointed to make a study of the possibility of consolidating Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County into a single political subdivision and approximately 100 citizens were asked at a meeting held Wednesday afternoon to serve as a general committee to assist in the proposal study.

The Wednesday meeting was held in the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center at which time the 11-member committee was named by Mayor Frank A. Dusch and S. Paul Brown, chairman of the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors.

Named to the merger study executive committee are Sidney S. Kellam, board chairman of the Banks of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne; Frank Dickinson, Norfolk & Western Railway executive; Clayton Q. Nugent, president of Mutual Federal Savings and Loan Association; Lee Bonney, president of Bonney Motor Express.

Roger L. Riggs, an executive of Western Auto Stores; A. L. Bonney, county businessman; Charles Burlage, attorney; J. W. Wood, retired executive vice-president of Colonial Stores; Alton Williams, extensive county farmer; D. W. Gregory, building contractor; and Roland Chandler, general manager of the Chesapeake Bay Ferry Company.

Hines, a civil service employee working at Craney Island near Portsmouth, became a member of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Rescue Squad about a year after it organized in 1952. He has held various offices since 1955, including secretary, sergeant and second lieutenant and is now serving his second term as plans and training officer.

A native of Norfolk, Hines resides with his wife, Irene, a native of Virginia Beach, and their two children, Wendell S. and Karen S., on Carolina Avenue.

The proposed consolidation of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County was first announced last month in a joint statement signed by Mayor Frank A. Dusch and S. Paul Brown, chairman of the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors.

Last month's statement by the heads of the two political subdivisions pointed out that they had received numerous requests regarding the feasibility of the consolidation of the county and the city, and that "there is a possibility that a study along this line may be initiated."

First Children Play Set For December Date

VIRGINIA BEACH—The Virginia Beach Children's Theatre, under the sponsorship of Friends School, will present its first production, Bird's "Christmas Carol," early in December. Mrs. Mary Deal, director, said this week.

Try-outs will be held at the school in the near future and will require five to six weeks of rehearsal, she said.

Children between the ages of kindergarten and early teens will be eligible to try-out for the 15 parts—five older children and 10 younger ones.

Committees Underway
Committees for the production are being set up, she said, but positions are still open for persons interested in the project. These committees include costumes, sets, properties, tickets, publicity, lighting and make-up.

"If the play is a success," Mrs. Deal said, "we may take the production to some of the schools in the county before Christmas."

Although the children's group is sponsored by Friends School it is a community project and anyone interested in participating are invited to do so. Mrs. Robert D. Wilson, school principal, said.

Next the consolidation question would be voted on by voters of the city and county.

Oceana Lions in Sight Program

OCEANA — The Oceana Lions Club got its annual Fall Sight Conservation Project underway at a meeting last week.

To raise money for the project club members are selling tickets to an all-expense trip for two to New Orleans and the Sugar Bowl football game. The drawing will be held Dec. 12.

Two teams are competing for the sale of most tickets: Princess Anne Trawlers, headed by Jack Hudson and Ocean Bunchers, captained by George Crispin.

Second Loss

Norfolk Academy Trips Seahawks

A fired up band of Norfolk Academy Bulldogs visited the Virginia Beach high school stadium last Friday night and when the smoke had cleared the scoreboard read: Norfolk Academy 14, Virginia Beach 0.

It was the second defeat of the young season for the local Seahawks, who will be attempting to even the record this Friday night here when they tangle with James Blair.

The outcome of the Norfolk Academy game surprised some observers who felt that the Seahawks would triumph. However, it was all Academy after the first five minutes of the game.

Early in the contest the Hawks marched to the Bulldogs' ten-yard line, but were thwarted in their scoring attempt. After that it was mostly Academy as they controlled the ball and the game.

The Bulldogs scored on an eight-yard run by Tom Maxwell

What makes a woman beautiful. One famous photographer says it's mostly the imagination of her audience. Many of the loveliest ladies I know were not born with perfect features. But they've faced the mirror without fear and found new ways to soften defects by "playing up" their best features. Analyzing you is part of our job. We'll be happy to discuss frankly every line and curve of your face. We'll show you how to make your entire figure look more graceful by choosing a hair style that flatters your whole silhouette.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

The Merger Study Is Underway

Although there is much discussion and much study in prospect steps taken so far toward the possibility of the consolidation of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County seem to be quite in order and as any study of this magnitude should be.

Following the joint statement made last month by Mayor Frank A. Dusch of Virginia Beach and S. Paul Brown, chairman of the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors, that numerous requests have been made to look into the feasibility of such a merger, an executive committee was appointed this week by the heads of the two political subdivisions.

The makeup of the executive committee indicates that the study now getting underway will have the minds of tried and proven businessmen and the minds of men who are well versed in the problems of such a question.

The executive committee has asked and should receive the constructive thinking of all citizens in this very important matter. It is a broad subject with many complex angles. However, none of the problems created by such a merger are insurmountable and with proper study and thought such a consolidation can be worked out if that is the wishes of the people.

Certainly the executive committee appointed by Mayor Dusch and Chairman Brown is filled with high grade talent and it is a representative body that should produce a careful, well thought out study of the question of consolidating Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County. It is an excellent start.

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING

A Matter of Course

"Most consumers are not aware of what goes into a mass-merchandising operation," writes S. O. Kaylin of Chain Store Age. They just know that they can find virtually anything they need or want in a retail store at the time they want it."

Mr. Kaylin's observation was prompted by a visit he made to a chain store in the construction stage in New Jersey. As building was going on, with all of the orderly confusion involved, merchandise was being moved in at an incredible rate. And this takes a word of coordination. Deliveries, in-store handling, warehousing operations, the installation of fixtures—all these and other elements involved must dovetail. A thousand and one unforeseen obstacles can crop up, and when that happens they must be swiftly and efficiently dealt with.

What it all amounts to is that we take the world's best, most efficient, and most economical system of retailing for granted. And the fact that we do that is about the best tribute we can pay to our retailers. The system works so quietly and smoothly that we almost never see its complications. Chain store men see nothing remarkable about stocking a store while construction is still under way.

As Mr. Kaylin puts it, the mass merchandisers accomplish minor miracles as a matter of course. Let them be given the credit that is their due.

Sacrifice For What?

The people of the nation have been told by high government officials that they must be prepared to "sacrifice." They can understand that, when sacrifices are essential to defense or war, but it is difficult for them to enthuse about sacrifices for purely domestic spending by the government on schemes that smack of nothing but expanding political power.

The Wall Street Journal of August 24 cited a classic example. It quoted a citizen of Corsicana, Texas as saying, "This is one year people ain't going to get the grass hood out of their cotton, because we ain't going to do it." It gave facts and figures on "Groceries Day," which occurs once a month over the nation when free food is handed out.

Only 40,031 Georgians got free federal food in January. By June the number had risen to 154,429. In Oregon, the number jumped from zero in January, to 7,435 in June. A Louisiana official notes that 200,000 people are getting federal free food in the state now, compared to 90,000 a year ago. In North Carolina, in June 1960, only 58 citizens called for food. But by June 1961, the number was 147,269.

The Journal article showed the expanding giveaway program has gained new customers rapidly by adding fancier fare, such as chopped meats, beans, eggs, oatmeal, powdered milk, and peanut butter, in addition to the basic list of flour, cornmeal, rice, lard and butter. "By mid-1961, some 6.2 million Americans, officially classed as 'needy,' were receiving free federal commodities . . . compared with . . . 3.3 million who were on the free list in June, 1960."

Commenting editorially, the Journal said, "No doubt there are, among these millions, many who are in true need. But nowadays needs is something it is not nice to inquire about; it might embarrass men with pride . . ."

Other give-away political programs are costing the taxpayers billions of dollars. Apparently the only persons who are supposed to "sacrifice" are the workers who must prepare to pay higher taxes to provide the money for the public spenders to dole out.

Cinerama To Be Shown in Norfolk Theatre Oct. 18th

NORFOLK—Cinerama comes to Norfolk's Rosna Theatre Oct. 18, marking the first appearance of this revolutionary new medium of film entertainment in Virginia or North Carolina.

The first program, "This is Cinerama," is the same Lowell Thomas-Merian C. Cooper production that opened the original Cinerama Theatre in New York, enjoyed the longest run of any film in Broadway's history and won Academy Awards in two consecutive years.

The Rosna Theatre becomes only the second theatre South of Washington, D.C. to be equipped to show Cinerama. The other installation is in Memphis, Tenn. In all there are only 30 American cities with Cinerama theatres.

Cinerama is a unique process of making and showing motion pictures which utilizes not just one projector but three separate ones which join in throwing a giant image on a huge screen that curves in front of the theatre. The picture is six times larger than conventional motion picture size. There are also several speakers, and pictures and sound seem to emanate from the back of the screen, the sides and the rear of the auditorium. It gives the audience a feeling of participation in what is going on, seemingly, around him.

"This is Cinerama" consists of a series of short and varied experiences including the beauties of Grand Canyon, seen from the air, a gondola ride in Venice, a roller-coaster ride and a Spanish bullfight.

It will open its regular run to the public on October 19 the day following the premiere. There will be 10 performances a week—nightly shows at 8:30 o'clock (Sundays at 8 P.M.) and matinees Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday at 2. All shows will be presented on a reserved seat basis.

Prices are $1.25 for the Wednesday matinee; $1.50 for the Saturday and Sunday Matinee and $1.85 for all evening performances. The Rosna Theatre is located at 628 W. 25th St. in Norfolk, Virginia.

Direct Dialing

who will ask for the number the call is being placed from, record it, then complete the call.

Wrong Numbers
If a person dials the wrong number he must find out what city he has called and the number he reached, notify the local operator immediately and tell her what happened. She will make out a credit slip on the call and there will be no charge.

Each city will have its own exchange and there will be no duplication anywhere in the state. The exchange at Virginia Beach is 428. This number will not be found any place else in Virginia.

To receive a DDD call a city must have a 7-digit number. As such as Princess Anne, who still have 4-digit call numbers, must add an exchange prefix to it before the system goes into effect.

There will be no change in rates, Patrick said, through this new system and it will not affect the number of telephone operators the company will need.

As new cities are added to the system, the customer will be informed by the long distance operator until the information comes out in a book. The company will soon mail a small blue book giving complete information on the system to all its customers.

In the not-to-distant future Hawaii and Puerto Rico will be added to the DDD system.

"It's conceivable that a micall on one digit to Hawaii might land the call 13,000 miles away in Puerto Rico," Patrick said. "It will be important to dial correctly."

KING'S GRANT P.T.A.

Following the business meeting, a social hour was held. Floral arrangements were presented by the Chesopian Junior Garden Club.

DETROIT — American Motors today introduced its 1962 Rambler American models. The newest versions of the car that pioneered the compact field incorporate many advanced engineering features and mechanical improvements designed for greater economy and reduced maintenance.

Roy Abernethy, executive vice-president, said the new models will be displayed in Rambler dealer showrooms throughout the country Friday, October 6th.

"In accord with our announced policy, we are maintaining styling stability on the entire Rambler American line for 1962," Abernethy said. "However, with more functional improvements, high quality standards, and greater durability, our compact American offers more usefulness to the user than any other comparable compact car on the market today."

Twelve Models
The 1962 Rambler American line offers 12 models in a new Deluxe, Custom and "400" series, providing more luxury at no additional cost, Abernethy said. They include two and four-door sedans and station wagons, and a two-door convertible.

The optional all-new automatic clutch transmission, called "E-Stick," combines the economy of a manual transmission with the partial convenience of an automatic. The three-speed transmission completely eliminates the clutch pedal. It also is available with optional over-drive.

The E-Stick's clutch has a conventional disc and pressure plate which are engaged by levers, without requiring springs or centrifugal weights. Engine oil pressure and intake manifold vacuum are combined to perform the function of operating the automatic clutch.

The driver simply engages the gears as if he were driving a standard transmission car, without employing any separate clutching action.

The completely new Flash-O-Matic automatic transmission, offered as optional equipment, is more compact and better suited for the power and torque output of Rambler's six-cylinder engines.

The new torque converter with less hydraulic fluid capacity has a minimum of inertia loss and less spin loss, resulting in higher, all-around efficiency. It also provides better fuel economy and three-speed operation.

In addition to the E-Stick and Flash-O-Matic, the Rambler American also offers standard synchromesh transmission and standard transmission with over-drive as optional equipment.

In all, the consumer has a choice of five transmissions on all American models, the widest choice in the industry, Abernethy said.

An entirely new Double-Safety brake system is offered as standard equipment for the first time on all American models.

With the tandem brake master cylinder, the hydraulic system for the front brakes is completely separate from the rear brakes. In the event of hydraulic brake failure in the front, the rear hydraulic brakes still operate, and vice versa.

Self-adjusting brakes, previously offered as optional equipment, will be standard on all 1962 American models, Abernethy said.

Lubrication and oil change recommendations will be increased on 1962 Rambler American models, thus lowering the cost of normal maintenance to the car owner.

Front suspension and steering linkage lubrication will be extended from 1,000 to 2,000 miles. Normal drain period for engine oil is changed from 2,000 to 4,000 mile intervals.

A new larger cellulose-fiber carburetor air cleaner element will require cleaning every 4,000 miles instead of 2,000, and replacement every 25,000 miles instead of 10,000 miles. Drain and refill mileage for automatic transmission fluid is changed to every 25,000 miles rather than 15,000 miles.

The 12 months or 12,000-mile warranty will continue on all models, Abernethy said.

The engine cooling system is filled with Dowdard Full-Fill coolant as an extra cost factory option on all models. It is guaranteed for 24 months or 24,000 miles, and the cooling system drain period has been extended to once every 24 months.

A choice of five seats are offered on the new 1962 Rambler American models. The non-reclining, split-back type seat is standard on all models. Optionally, the customer will have a choice of reclining seats with the split-back, solid cushion; individually adjustable reclining seats; bucket-type reclining seats; and the new Lounge Tilt Seat and headrest as a combination option for the right seat on individually adjustable and bucket-type front seats.

Lounge Seat
The Lounge Tilt Seat is an exclusive optional feature on all Ramblers. A handle, located on the right side of the front passenger seat, actuates a hydraulic cylinder which raises & tilts the cushion to any desired degree. It adds comfort in supporting the legs above the knees. When used with a headrest, offered for the first time on Americans this year, and the reclining feature, the ultimate in travel comfort is attained, Abernethy said.

A two-inch thick Urethane foam cushion pad is standard on the front seat of all models, and optional on the rear seat. Seat springs are coated with rubber to soundproof and stabilize the coils.

As a new standard feature on all American models, front seat belt attaching plates, plus rear seat belt locating indentations, are provided at the factory. Seat belts are offered as a factory-installed or dealer-installed option.

Safety-padded instrument panel and sun visors are standard equipment on all "400" models, and optional on Deluxe and Custom models. The sun visors on the Americans have been increased in depth for greater glare protection.

To further enhance the American's durability, the rocker panels are initially protected with a galvanized coating to improve the rust protection provided by American Motors' "Deep-Dip" paint primer process.

For the first time, every Rambler body will be subjected to a unique water-spray test directly in production. While the body is being conveyed through the test chamber, water is sprayed under high pressure from every angle. An inspector rides inside each body to check for possible water seepage.

The overall steering ratio has been increased to reduce steering effort. The steering idler arm and bushing have been redesigned and contribute to easier, smoother steering action. Improved power steering, offered as an extra cost option, also is available on all models.

Rear springs and shock absorbers are revised for improved riding qualities. Load-Leveler rear shocks are a few factory option.

The Rambler American's clean-line styling has been enhanced by a new die-cast grille insert. The "floating" grille is all new with a fine-textured horizontal bar pattern. Both Custom and "400" models will have side and rear deck moldings.

The color-keyed interior upholstery and trim materials combine luxury and practicality. The finest quality fabrics, vinyls, porous vinyls and pleated vinyls are available on the new Rambler Americans.

Fifteen solid colors and 44 two-tone combinations are offered on the 1962 models.

The floor covering materials are new for 1962. A loop-pile carpet is standard on Custom and "400" models, and black rubber floor mats are standard on Deluxe models.

The American has completely new interior door handles and window regulator handles both in shape and style.

On the Rambler American station wagons, a new locking-cam mechanism provides a more secure locking action between the lower tailgate and the upper lift-gate. A cane-shaped outside handle replaces the current T-shaped design.

All Americans feature a new low-friction windshield wiper blades to prevent roll-over action of the rubber blades.

Two six-cylinder cast-iron engines, both with a displacement of 195.6 cubic inches & designed for regular grade fuel, are offered on the Rambler American. The American Deluxe and Custom models are equipped with the "Super Flying Scot" L-head engine, developing 90 horsepower, as standard equipment. The "400" models are powered by the "Custom Flying Scot" overhead valve engine, developing 125 horsepower, as standard. The latter engine is offered as an option on both Deluxe and Custom models.

As standard equipment, all American models for 1962 will be equipped with the new "4-Ply Rating, 2-Ply" tires. The new tires provide additional riding comfort and greater flexibility, resulting in better road traction.

All tires and wheels will be static-balanced in production as a unit assembly to within five inch-ounces or better. This new standard feature will insure a smoother running car and pro-longer tire life.

Road clearance on the American for 1962 has been increased a full inch, giving it a clearance of 6-3/8 inches.

The ceramic-armored muffler and tailpipe, first introduced on Ramblers in 1961 models, will continue as standard equipment on all models. The ceramic exhaust system is guaranteed for life while the car is in the hands of the original owner.

The engine cooling system thermostat is changed from 180 degrees to 195 degrees on all American models. The hotter thermostat provides more rapid engine warm-up and higher operating temperatures for better fuel economy and heater operation.

All 1962 models will be equipped with special batteries called "Powr-Guard-24." The batteries are designed to require water additions only three to four times a year under normal operating conditions. It carries a warranty for 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever occurs first.

All-Season air-conditioning, Weather Eye heating and ventilating system, and power brakes, continue as optional equipment.

Meet the Principal

Fair, Just Discipline Rule at Beach High

(This is the first in a series of articles to appear each week on the men and women who serve as principals of the Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County schools.)

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

VIRGINIA BEACH—James M. Helmer, who this year stepped in as principal of Virginia Beach High School, is a man with great understanding of young people. He neither expects, nor demands, perfection.

"I can understand and forgive most anything a youngster might do," he explained, "except not telling the truth."

After 22 years experience in the educational field, Helmer has helped students face, and overcome, almost every type of problem.

Fair Discipline

"If there is one thing I have learned," he said, "it's that young people today expect discipline and actually want it—providing it's fair and just. But a teacher should be positive she is right before administering it. To correct a child unjustly can be a serious mistake."

Many rewarding things have happened during his years working with youngsters, Helmer said, but two are outstanding.

Two boys came running into my office one day yelling that young Bill had socked another boy in the mouth. I said "thank goodness." That youngster had been the underdog so long, and had taken so much off of other students, that I was actually thrilled when he finally started taking up for himself."

Another time Helmer was principal of a small school in the hills of Pennsylvania, his home state. A 16-year-old boy, still in the fourth grade, who had been causing a great deal of trouble, came into his office with a small book under his arm.
"That boy, as big as I was, sat down and read me a story that a second grade child could have read. I'll never forget it — it was about a family of small animals. But that boy had finally learned to read and as he sat there with that book it was as if a whole new world had opened up for him. And he let

Activities, Too

Though Helmer believes that extra emphases should be placed on academics in a school he is just as emphatic that extra-curricular activities have a place.

"Clubs and activities are just as important in a school as studies," he said. "They help a child adjust to the society they must face as they get older. I am also a strong believer in student government. It is helpful in teaching self-discipline."

A native of Port Allegany, Pa., Helmer graduated from Mansfield State College in his home state and received his masters degree from the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg.

He met Mrs. Helmer, Sara, while serving with the U.S.
Maritime Service at Big Stone Gap. He stayed on there to teach in the high school and has been "a Virginian ever since."

His oldest daughter, Mrs.
Fred A. Bush, and her law student husband, are presently attending William and Mary and their young child, Kathy, 7, is in the second grade at W. T.
Cooke. The Helmers live at 611
21st Street.

"Spare time" activities include tennis and bridge. With 10 master points to his credit, the high school principal is "chomping at the bit" to once more get back into duplicate bridge.

Bicycle Riders Get Warning on Traffic Safety

RICHMOND—Virginia's state police superintendent has warned bicycle riders that they are subject to the same traffic laws which govern the operators of motor vehicles.

C. W. Woodson Jr., noting that nine bicyclists died in traffic accidents through Sept. 20, said a better knowledge and observance of traffic laws might help reduce this toll.

Under Virginia Law, Woodson said, bicycle riders are required to ride to the right of the road with the flow of traffic, must give hand signals and must obey all traffic lights and signs.

State law forbids persons from operating bicycles on sidewalks or attaching their bicycles or themselves to any other vehicle in traffic.

Woodson said any bicycle operated between sunset and sunrise must be equipped with a front light casting a white beam visible from at least 500 feet in clear weather and a red reflector on the rear visible from all distances from 50 to 300 feet when in front of the upper beams of automobile headlights in clear weather. A red light, visible from 500 feet, may be substituted for the reflector.

The superintendent said a common misunderstanding is the opinion that different laws prevail in cities and counties.

"The state laws prevail under all conditions we have outlined," Woodson said.

Tuesday Luncheon

Chesapeake Beach Woman's Club Celebrating Birthday No. 21

The Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach will celebrate their 21st Birthday Tuesday with a luncheon at Shore Drive Inn at 1 p.m.

Senator Mills E. Godwin, Jr., of Suffolk, as guest speaker, will address the group on the "Coming of Age." The club has declared this meeting open to all County women who would like to hear the Senator.

The club was the second organized Woman's Club in Princess Anne County. The prime reason for their organizing, according to a recently compiled history of the 21 years, was to seek better residential living for and isolated beach area which was beginning to grow out of a "vacation spot."

Isolated Area
Chesapeake Beach was at that time geographically handicapped for year round living. It was one mile from the nearest main highway, seven miles from Virginia Beach and fifteen miles from Virginia Beach and Norfolk.

Shopping in one of these areas was a must. There was no recreational facilities for the adult or Youth, street lighting was poor and road conditions left much to be desired.

In their 21 years, the club members have seen two shopping areas go up in their local area, and many other luxuries unknown in a rural community. They have seen Chesapeake Beach become a part of the growing and thriving Community of Bayside, a division of the old Lynnhaven District. They are now enjoying, some due to progress, others to their own efforts, a better and more livable neighborhood.

While the area grew, the ladies were busy growing with it. They bought and donated property towards the Chesapeake Beach Community Center. Today they share the responsibility for this undertaking with the Chesapeake Beach Fire Dept. First and last, through the 21 years, the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach has raised better than $50,000 for various drives and good causes. Their most recent accomplishment was the establishing of the Bay-side Scholarship Fund.

The Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach has been recognized throughout the Tidewater District as a working club and has received many awards for their outstanding achievements. Some years back, they received top state award in the Community Achievement Contest sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, for their work with the Youth in their section.

Face Progress
"We asked for and got progress. Few have ever asked for and got quite so much," club president Louise Rieder said. "For our 21st birthday we are getting the Southern Approach road to the Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel."

"The ladies see nothing but the hand of progress in this despite the fact that the road will travel directly through the middle of Chesapeake Beach & directly through the middle of the hard-worked for Community Center."

"Nothing" is too big or too much for Chesapeake Beach, is our theory. If this be progress, then we must make the most of it. As a club, we must become a bigger and more active organization in order to support the Community which progress has brought to our doorsteps."

The Board of Directors of the Woman's Club will be hostess for the Birthday affair, with Mrs. George Robbins and Mrs. Thomas B. Petty in charge of arrangements. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Rieder at HO 4-3864 or Mrs. Fulford at HO 4-1877.

Learn Difference Between Foods Graded and Those Inspected
By LOIS M. ERDMAN

INSPECTED AND GRADED FOODS
Inspected foods! Graded foods! Sometimes it's difficult to keep the differences straight. Yet, there is a difference, and to food shoppers, an important difference.

Meat offers a good example of a food that has both inspection and grading. So, let's look at it a minute to get the difference in mind.

In meat inspection, well-trained meats men carefully look at the meat to see whether it is safe for us to eat. If it passes their inspection, it may be sold to us. If it doesn't it has to go into some product people do not eat. A sign or stamp that tells you this meat was inspected and passed by a government inspector is your seal of safe eating.

Meat inspection is done by three levels of government. The federal government requires that all meat moving from one state to another be inspected by federal inspectors. Since most meat does move from state to state or comes from a plant that does sell across state lines, a large share of our meat is federally inspected.

In addition, states have their own inspection services to handle meats not federally inspected. Virginia has such a service available for meat-packing plants that operate strictly within Virginia. It is a voluntary service. Plants may or may not use it as they choose.

"I Can't Believe It"

Norfolk Ford Plant Dedicates New Building With Ceremony

NORFOLK—Another milestone in Ford Motor Company's 36th year of auto production in Virginia was marked today with the dedication of a new 58,425-square foot building at its Norfolk Assembly Plant.

The building, adjacent to the main assembly plant, houses equipment for welding body side panels of Ford passenger cars. Body side panels previously were assembled in another plant and shipped to Norfolk. Ford decided to enlarge the Norfolk plant to handle the operation rather than ship the completed body side panels.

"The decision to transfer the body panel assembly operation to Norfolk emphasizes Ford Motor Company's faith in the economic future of the Tidewater area," Donald W. Merrick, plant manager, said at the formal opening of the building today. "It also underscores our determination to assure Ford car buyers of still higher standards of production, because now we will have even more effective control over such important quality factors as door, window, and rear deck openings."

Construction of the cement block and structural steel building began late in April, 1961. The bulk of the work was done locally, with over 250 Norfolk tradesmen having worked on the job before it was finished a few weeks ago. No special problems were encountered during the construction, according to Mr. Merrick.

"The building went up on schedule, the shipments of heavy welding and conveyor equipment arrived on schedule, and the first completed body side panel for our 1962 models went out on schedule," he said.

Some 50 Ford employees currently are producing 22 body side panels an hour in the new facility. They man the battery of 42 welding guns that are used to weld 19 pieces of the body side panels as they revolve slowly on a "merry-go-round"—complicated clamping fixtures or jigs on wheels which hold a complete set of body side panel parts until they are welded. One revolution of the merry-go-round and the body side panels are completed. A 1,200-foot overhead conveyor then carries them to the main assembly plant.

"Training people to work on this specialized sub-assembly line was very important in order to insure quality," the plant manager pointed out. "We were able to fill key jobs with many of our veterans, then who, on the average, have been building Fords for sixteen years. Being experienced in this business, they needed a minimum of on-the-job training."

Hardin School To Broadcast Series

20 Year Absence

Former Resident Overwhelmed With Building Progress of Beach

Salvation Army Among UCF Agencies Serving Beach

(To better serve the Virginia Beach, Princess Anne County area a new Community Service office was recently opened. This is the final article in a series describing Services now available through the Salvation Army.)

In 1865 the Reverend William Booth stood on a street corner in the East End of London, England and preached to the people of "Mile End Waste" and the Salvation Army had its beginning. Fifteen years later, in 1880, the Army planted its flag in New York City, making the United States of America its second battlefield.

The familiar emblem of The Salvation Army, the Red Shield, can now be seen in 86 countries and colonies of the world where its members speak 136 different languages. More than 20,000 centers of operation have been established in the 95 years since that first street corner meeting in London. This means that an average of 200 new centers have been established each year. This Army of Salvation invaded Tidewater Virginia in 1908 and has made its own unique contribution to the welfare of the people of our area for the past 56 years.

The program of the Army has expanded and changed to keep pace with the international, national, and local needs. It has developed into a highly organized, closely knit organization, enlisting the aid of interested community leaders in its program of meeting the needs of people who can find help nowhere else.

The Salvation Army is a religious and charitable organization which engages in many activities. A complete schedule of religious services are held each week for the entire family. Their youth work is extensive and includes Boys' Clubs, Girls' Clubs, leadership training classes, summer camps, and other recreational and educational activities. During 1960, 382 adult and 534 youth meetings and classes were held with a total attendance of almost 43,000. The Norfolk Corps has the distinction of having the third largest Salvation Army Sunday School in the entire 15 southern states which make up the Southern Territory.

In the social welfare field, The Salvation Army aids local families in the Norfolk, Princess Anne County, Virginia Beach, South Norfolk, East Norfolk County areas which are not eligible for public assistance. They furnish food, clothing, fuel, rent, utilities, and furniture to needy families who cannot qualify for help from the local welfare departments. For example, Mr. X came into the Army's office just recently and produced a notice from his landlord stating that he would be evicted from his home if the rent, which was two months past due, was not paid within 48 hours.

During the course of the interview, it was revealed that Mr. X had a wife and six children, 4 of whom were in school, that he had been unemployed for 10 weeks, and that he had drawn Unemployment Compensation Insurance for 6 weeks. This amounted to $32.00 per week with which he must buy food, pay rent of $60.00 a month, buy fuel, and pay utility bills, as well as try to keep his four children in school. In this case The Salvation Army, after verifying the information, was able to help this family by paying one month's rent and giving the children some clothing. Two weeks later Mr. X went back to work and was soon able to meet the needs of the family again.

In another case, Mrs. Y was referred to the Army by the welfare department. Her case worker revealed that Mr. Y had been sick for several weeks and was unable to work. The welfare department had taken the case over but the gas and electric service had been discontinued because the bill had not been paid. Because the welfare department could pay only current expenses, The Salvation Army paid the arrears and the service was restored.

Through its Rehabilitation Program for men, the Salvation Army helped 92 persons to find a better life. In this program a man is given a chance to earn his board and room while receiving help in regaining his health and self-respect.

As an example, take the case of Gene. A group of Salvationists had gathered, as usual, in front of People's Drug Store on City Hall Avenue on Sunday evening for an open-air meeting. As the service progressed a man, unshaven, ragged, and looking somewhat weak, appeared on the scene and stood in front of the group to listen to the Army folk tell of the love of God for all men. Before the closing prayer, the Army speaker asked all those who would like to be remembered in prayer to life their hand.

The ragged, unshaven man, whose name was Gene, raised his hand. After the prayer, Gene was invited to the service in the Army's chapel on Talbot Street. After the service, Gene revealed that he had left home sixteen years before at the age of sixteen and had not been in touch with his parents since. Gene worked as a seaman but had fallen into the habit of drinking heavily. Now Gene had no job and no place to go.

VIRGINIA BEACH—"If someone had dropped me down in a helicopter in the center of Virginia Beach, I wouldn't have recognized the place," one-time Norfolk resident Clifford F. Jesse said. "It looks more like Miami."

Jesse, who was visiting here last week, along with his wife, Miriam, with Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Haycox in Cavalier Park, lived in Norfolk for many years when he served as plant manager of the Ford Motor Co. plant. He moved from the area in 1941 when he was sent to Dallas, Texas, to serve as plant manager there.

Many Changes

Twenty years can make a great difference in an area, Jesse discovered. After arriving here last Tuesday by plane, he and Haycox began a week-long tour of "old stomping grounds" and revisiting friends of bygone days.

"The only thing that still looks the same is Seaside Park," he laughed. "And, of course, the boardwalk hasn't changed."

He and Mrs. Jesse stopped here to visit the Haycox's after spending some time in Westport, Conn., with their only child, Mrs. Guy L. Ashley (Betty Jane) and their three granddaughters, Patricia, 6, Susan, 10, and Debbie, 14. Mrs. Ashley was quite active in Norfolk Little Theatre when the family lived here.

Beach "Cliffed"

The resort was nothing more than a group of boarding houses and summer cottages 20 years ago, Jesse said, but today it has become a bustling full-time city.

"The growth here has been terrific," he said. "I was especially impressed with the large convention center and the many beautiful schools. The nice banks and modern hotels here also done a great deal for the beach but Pacific Avenue is probably one of the greatest improvements. When I used to come to the beach Atlantic Avenue was the only decent street here."

When the Jesse's lived in Norfolk they were adopted

"beach-ites" holding memberships in the Princess Anne Country Club, the Cavalier Beach and Cabana Club, and the old Surf Club, located where the Cape Colony Club presently stands.

Jesse was with Ford Motor Co. for 36 years before his retirement in 1958. He also worked with the same company in New Orleans and Memphis before coming to Norfolk.

Since his retirement he has devoted a great deal of time to the Scottish Rite Crippled Children's Hospital in Dallas and taking part in a very active civic life. When he's "taking it easy," he enjoys golfing and do-it-yourself projects but in past months has been rather limited in strenuous sports because of illness.

Former Resident Has Unique Duty

VIRGINIA BEACH—A former Virginia Beach resident recently had the distinction of commissioning his daughter in the Navy—even though he is a colonel in the Army.

Col. William J. Pritchard, First Army Engineer located at Governor's Island, New York City, commissioned his daughter, Virginia Lee, an ensign in the Navy Nurse Corps.

Col. Pritchard formerly lived at Virginia Beach and is the brother of Mrs. Mary P. Maddux of 70th Street. He was a "printer's devil" on the first Virginia Beach News in the early 1920's and was president of the 1926 graduating class at Oceana High School.

He was taken into the Men's Social and given a chance to work for his room and board while regaining his health and self-respect. After several weeks, Gene was like a new man. He obtained employment and promised to see his parents as soon as he could get a few days off. This is only one of 82 stories behind the Red Shield at the Men's Social Service Center.

Everyone who has seen the little red kettles on the street during December is familiar with the Christmas Cheer Program of The Salvation Army.

Last year 982 families received food baskets, 1,150 children and adults received toys and gifts, and 1,100 persons in hospitals and jails were given presents.

A Salvation Army worker will be available for consultation at the new office at Virginia Beach. The Community Service office of the United Communities Fund is located at 211-19th Street. Appointments may be arranged by telephoning MA-7-2358. This article concludes a series on the recently opened Community Service office.

Billy's getting bigger, and Susie's catching up. And Mom—like any proud mother—is delighted. Their physical progress is one indication that she's doing a good job.

But is she being just as careful about other, equally vital parts of that job? Is she also measuring their spiritual progress? As it happens, she is. Billy and Susie are both already going to church and church school.

If you have been thinking that your own children are too young to begin their religious education, why not give them the chance to measure up spiritually, as well as physically? They're apt to surprise you!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL - ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, spiritual values are not available to the young. There are four reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The MIXING BOWL...
IT'S Fun TO COOK.

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food fads and fables... for practical, down-to-earth recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, read the "Mixing Bowl" by Lucile Clark each Thursday in the Sun-News.

Early Autumn Stack Cake

Ginger, cloves and nutmeg give spicy goodness to this Early Autumn Stack Cake with apple filling.

Impressive and flavorful, Early Autumn Stack Cake follows a traditional Southern recipe that's been simplified with today's time-saving ingredients. Enriched self-rising flour shortens mixing time and insures against mistakes because the baking powder and salt have already been added in just the right proportions. In this recipe, the cake layers are similar to "dent-size" cookies. The dough will prove quite soft, but easy to handle when you roll it out on a cookie sheet.

Canned pie apples make an extra-quick filling to spread between cake layers. The apples, whipped cream and spices are a delectable combination. It's a pleasure to know that such a delightful dessert is good for you. Enriched self-rising flour gives your family calcium, food iron and three essential B-vitamins.

EARLY AUTUMN STACK CAKE

3 1/2 cups sifted enriched self-rising flour
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar

1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup dark molasses
1/2 cup butter/oil or sour milk
Apple-Cream Filling

Sift together flour and ginger. Cream butter or margarine and sugar. Add egg, molasses and milk. Mix well. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture, stirring until well blended. Place 1/2 of dough at a time on greased baking sheets. Using a floured rolling pin, roll out each portion to 8-inch circle. (Dough will be slightly sticky.) Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 10 to 15 minutes. Cool and fill layers and top with Apple-Cream Filling. Refrigerate until serving time.

APPLE CREAM FILLING:
2 1/2 cups pie apples
(1 pound 4 ounces can)
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Dash ground cloves
Dash nutmeg
1/2 cup whipping cream

Combine apples and spices. Whip cream and fold into apple mixture. Makes one 4-layer stack cake.

It's apple harvest time, and your favorite food store has an ample supply of delicious, tasty Virginia-grown apples!

It may be too much to place any faith in the old saying: "An apple a day keeps..." Even so, we all know that a fresh, ripe apple has nutritive value, perhaps one of the best buys for your money anywhere.

Your doctor and your dentist will recommend an apple a day for your diet, because:

- An apple carries a good healthy punch.
- An apple contains levulose... this is an excellent sugar item which the human body easily can convert into energy.
- An apple has high pectin qualities... these, along with cellulose, help to step up one's digestive action.
- An apple is Mother Nature's tooth brush... a few bites of an apple perform wonders in oral hygiene; those bites help you clean your teeth, they massage the gums the easy, painless way, and they may disinfect the mouth and sweeten the breath as you munch the tasty fruit.

Buy a Virginia-grown apple today!

Here are recipes that suggest canned apples, but since this is apple harvest time again, use the fresh apples for the suggested recipes.

APPLE CRISP WITH CUSTARD SAUCE

1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup evaporated milk
1 can (1 lb. 4-oz.) sliced pie apples

2 tablespoons butter, softened
2 tablespoons shortening
1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar

1/2 cup flour
Mix together in a mixing bowl the 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 cup flour, salt, and cinnamon. Stir in the evaporated milk. Add apples with their syrup and stir gently with spoon to coat slices. Turn mixture into a baking dish about 10x6x1 1/2 inches. Stir the softened butter and shortening together in a small bowl. Stir in the brown sugar, then the 1/2 cup flour and mix well. Crumble mixture evenly over top of apple mixture. Bake in a preheated hot oven (400°F.) until filling is set, about 30 minutes. Serve warm with custard sauce. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

EASY CUSTARD SAUCE

1 cup evaporated milk
1 cup cold water
1 pkg. (about 4 oz.) instant vanilla pudding mix

Measure evaporated milk and water into a mixing bowl. Add the instant vanilla pudding mix and beat slowly with an egg beater until well mixed, about 1 minute. Stir in 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, if desired. Chill. Serve over apple crisp. Sauce is excellent, too, for use with baked apples, or other fresh or canned fruits, or plain cake or gingerbread for dessert. Makes 2 cups sauce.

Applescotch Pudding

1/2 cup cold applesauce
1 tall can evaporated milk (1 1/2 cups)
1 pkg. (about 4-oz.) instant butterscotch pudding mix

Place applesauce and evaporated milk in a mixing bowl, and stir to mix. Add instant butterscotch pudding mix. Beat slowly with an egg beater until well mixed, about 1 minute. Let stand about 5 minutes to set. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

APPLE BROWN BETTY

4 slices dry bread
1/2 stick butter (melted)
4-6 apples—peeled, cored and sliced
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup water

Cut dry bread into small cubes. Toss together with melted butter. Put 1/2 of these crumbs in bottom of shallow baking dish, well buttered. Cover with 1/2 of the apples and 1/2 of other ingredients except water. Repeat and top with last of bread crumbs. Add the water. Bake in 375° oven for 40 minutes or until the apples are tender. Serve with whipped cream if you wish.

WHEAT STABILIZATION PROGRAM

The government will rent up to ten acres of your wheat history on any farm, not to exceed your highest year acreage. Depending on the payment option you select, you can then plant the difference between ten acres and your highest planted. For instance, if you had fifteen acres in one of the three years, you can get payment for reducing ten acres and still plant five acres. The man with a high of twelve acres could only plant two after reducing ten.

The ASCS Office is now signing contracts with those farmers who want to participate in the Wheat Stabilization Program. An advanced payment of one half the acres times the lower payment rate showed on your notices which you have received can be received at the time you sign up with their office.

The wheat acres you leave out of production can be on the same land you left out for this year's corn land, which you put in the feed grain program.

An important issue to many people is double cropping. On those farms that double cropped soybeans behind wheat in '59, or '60, soybeans can be planted on wheat diverted acres on June 15, or thereafter. Total acres double cropped on the farm may not exceed the total double cropped in the highest of '59 or '60. Farms that grew wheat the first time in 1961 cannot double crop diverted acres but will have to leave them idle the entire year.

Fertilizer Recommendations For Small Grain

A new bulletin has just been received from VPI on fertilizing small grain in the Coastal Plain area. This is an excellent bulletin, adapted to our area, and is one of the best that I have seen.

In summary of this bulletin, the VPI Agronomy Department says that it is absolutely essential that adequate plant food be applied at seeding time if high yields of quality seed is to be had. They strongly recommend that twenty to thirty pounds of nitrogen, forty to one hundred pounds of phosphate and 30 to 60 pounds of potash be applied per acre at the time of seeding. This amount may be obtained in 400 to 600 pounds of 5-10-10, or 300 pounds of 3-18-18.

In this program, top dressing is not omitted, but rather your small grain should receive around 400 pounds of nitrogen per acre between February 1, and March 15.

D.A.R. Women Hear Mrs. Ober

Sarah Constant Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held its annual Constitution Week dinner, arranged by the National Defense Committee, at the Navy YMCA in Norfolk, Friday at 6:30 P.M.

Mrs. Elizabeth Beaman Wells, Chapter Regent, presided. The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. R. Allen Brown, Chaplain General of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, and pastor of the East Ocean View Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Wells introduced Mrs. William V. Tynes, Honorary State Regent, Past Vice-President General of the National Society DAR, who spoke briefly on the Constitution and its importance to all Americans, especially in these times. Also she introduced Mrs. Lawrence Whitehurst, Vice-Regent Sarah Constant Chapter, Mrs. Thomas A. Moore, Past President, Sarah Constant Chapter and State Honorary Roll Chairman of the Virginia Daughters DAR and her husband, Thomas A. Moore, Area Director of the Virginia Department of War Veterans Claims and Mrs. R. Allen Brown, Organizing Regent of the chapter.

Mrs. J. Edward Johnson, chairman of the national defense committee and member of the state resolutions committee, DAR, introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Leroy Ober, who made a strong appeal to patriotic Americans in her review of J. Edgar Hoover's book, "Master of Deceit."

Mrs. Ober handled her subject well, and the audience responded with great enthusiasm. Mrs. Ober has received favor-

Virginia's Art By Leslie Cheek, Jr.

Director, Virginia Museum of Fine Arts

The Rediscovered Chief

From the time of Cortez until 1840 no person who lived outside the area had seen the magnificent Mayan ruins in Yucatan and Chiapas. Then an American traveler named Stephens rediscovered these traces of an almost unknown but clearly most advanced civilization.

Although some of the priests who had been with the forces sent by Cortez or the later governors of the area had made records of the pre-Spanish civilization, their records were buried in official archives and their missionary zeal tended to ban rather than appreciate the native culture. But Stephens' accounts of his journeys published both in this country and England brought this pre-Columbian culture to the attention of the world in a serious way.

able comments from Mr. Hoover on his previous reviews, and is constantly in demand for such appearances before civic, religious and patriotic organizations throughout the state.

Decorations were provided by Mrs. Vivian L. Ott, Chapter Registrar and Mrs. Allen R. Thompson.

MAYAN STONE RELIEF

To this day his record of his finds remains a careful, absorbing and accurate narrative. Subsequent archaeologists, although they have found many more sites than Stephens knew have still not been able to penetrate the mysteries of the Mayan glyphs, or picture writing.

Until this problem is solved, there will be many unanswered questions about the details of

HURRICANE
Hurricane you, have come and gone. We are thankful you did us no harm. Esther, you are a very bad girl. For you surely had us in a whirl. There is always some good in the bad. Mayan life. It is thought they reached the height of their civilization about 1000-1200 A.D. Though they knew neither the wheel nor the use of metal tools, their arts were far superior to those of their successors, the Toltecs. It is supposed that most of their remaining structures were connected with rituals and religion and they are richly decorated with either reliefs or cut stone mosaics in spite of the lack of metal tools.

Not many of these reliefs have come to this country. Stephens and the artist he took with him to record his finds brought back a selection of objects, but they were lost in a disastrous fire while being shown in Philadelphia.

The Virginia Museum of Fine Arts has just acquired a beautiful Mayan relief from the border between Chiapas and Guatemala. The figure, a chief so identified because of the jaguar skin tied about his waist, wears a plumed headdress and below his right elbow appear two of his attendants.

It is most subtly carved in very low relief with some of the markings from the stone tools still visible, a remarkably sophisticated work of art executed with remarkably primitive methods.

Little Creek Ferries Show Traffic Rise

NORFOLK—Increasing popularity of the Little Creek Ferries was reflected in the gain in traffic here this summer. Nolan C. Chandler, general manager of the system, reported that toll revenue in August was 5 per cent ahead of 1960. Traffic during the three months of June, July, and August set an all-time record and was up 4 per cent.

The number of vehicles moved on the ferries during August was 85,294, a gain of 3,311 over August, 1960. Toll revenue totaled $544,678, an increase of $25,122.

The five-day Labor Day holiday also set a new record, Chandler reported. A total of 16,548 vehicles were carried on the ferries during the holiday period. The steady increase in travel on the seven-fleet ferry system, Chandler said, is due primarily to two factors. First, more people are discovering the pleasure of the 85-minute Chesapeake Bay trip on U.S. 13. Also, he said, many tourists are traveling on the ferries in order to see the construction of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel. Work on the 17.5-mile crossing can be seen from the decks of the ferries. The bridge-tunnel is scheduled for completion in the fall of 1963.

LAWNS ARE BIG INTEREST IN SOUTHEASTERN VIRGINIA

This is the time of year when folks are busy harvesting corn, making pumpkin pies, and seeding and improving lawns.

The question brought more often to my attention is this: "What grass or mixture of grasses is best for my lawn?" This is one question that you cannot give one answer to. There are many different combinations of grasses which are adaptable to our area, however, lawn grasses should be selected according to the soil type and the use you will make of the lawn. In general, it is usually wise to plant on dark heavy, poorly drained soils a grass which is adapted to poorly drained soil, which could possibly mean fescue. On light, sandy soils, Bermuda or strains of Bermuda grass might be desirable. However, you should still consider the use of your lawn before deciding on the exact grass to plant in your yard.

There are many commercial mixtures on the market — some good, some bad. And, there are many individual grasses which would do a good job. And sometimes it is quite difficult for a homeowner to decide exactly which grass he wants to have around his home for the next forty years.

See Grass Mixtures

Your lawn is an attractive addition to your home. Without a desirable lawn, your home will not look its best. Therefore, I would like to suggest that you make a complete study of grass mixtures and grasses before deciding on the grass which you will plant in your yard. There are two places where you can see, at one glance, many grass mixtures and combination mixtures and individual grasses. The closest place where you can see these demonstration plots is at the Virginia Truck Experiment Station, which is located on Highway 13, just south of the Little Creek Ferry entrance. Dr. Frank Stewart, of the Station will be happy to show you and explain to you the differences and to identify the grasses. He will also be able to point out to you what you can expect from these grasses on a twelve-month basis.

The second place to see a good demonstration of many grasses is at the Tidewater Experiment Station, located at Holland, Virginia. Holland has a very extensive lawn demonstration and experimental plot, which is probably one of the best in Virginia.

BULLETIN AVAILABLE

An excellent bulletin entitled, "Lawns for Virginia," is available free for the asking from my office. This bulletin outlines all of the different grass mixtures and grasses, tells how to establish a new lawn, makes recommendations on improving old lawns and gives excellent information on fertilization, watering, and clipping. Anyone interested in better lawns for their home are invited to write for this bulletin.

Lawn Fertilization

Babies, men, and women need to be fed, and so does grass. The food for grass is lime and fertilizer. If you expect to maintain a desirable lawn throughout the year, then the lawn must receive adequate plant food. A continuous year-round fertilization program is essential for a long lasting beautiful lawn. The best three times to fertilize your lawns are: early fall, late winter, or early spring, and late spring.

Therefore, now is the time to fertilize your lawn in the fall. Lawns require about 15 pounds of 10-10-10 per 1,000 sq. feet. This will actually give you about a pound and a half per thousand square feet each of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash.

The soil should be limed as needed to maintain a pH of 6.0 to 6.5. Only through a soil test can you determine your lime needs. A sample of soil can be brought to my office for analysis and we will be extremely pleased to make recommendations for you based on this soil analysis.

HEPTACHLOR FOR ALFALFA WEEVIL

Acceptance for use of Heptachlor at a rate not to exceed one pound per acre in the control of the Alfalfa weevil has been granted by the Pesticides Regulation Branch, USDA. This acceptance for heptachlor application was based upon additional residue information obtained during the past year.

In keeping with the intent of the federal authorities and existing conditions here in Princess Anne and to avoid any violation of residue, it is considered extremely advisable that heptachlor treatments for the control of the Alfalfa weevil be applied prior to October 15.

Dairymen and beef cattle producers growing alfalfa, wishing to use heptachlor on alfalfa, should contact my office immediately for specific and detailed recommendations for the use of this insecticide.

To apply heptachlor other than through specific recommendations can possibly lead to violation to federal regulations regarding to use of this material, and therefore may jeopardize a producer's position on the market.

be a producer's position on the market.

SOYBEAN INSPECTION

Soybean inspection time is here for those of you who are growing certified or registered soybeans. I have been requested by the Virginia Crop Improvement Association to stress upon you the need for having your fields ready for inspection when the inspector arrives. It would be appreciated if you could have your fields properly rogued prior to the time the inspector arrives.

ATTENTION CERTIFIED SMALL GRAIN GROWERS

Since small feeding time is here, please keep in mind the following points when planting your fields for certified seed production.

1. Clean out 'rill thoroughly before planting certified seed crops.
2. Do not plant your certified seed crop on land which grew small grain this year, unless the crop grown this year was the same variety grown from certified seed.
3. Plant crop for certification on best land that is not contaminated with wild onions and other objectionable weeds. If you have objectionable weeds, control them by spraying your crop at the proper time according to our recommendations next spring. Most of these weeds can be controlled by spraying.
4. Do not spread stable manure of fields on which you are growing certified small grain. If you do, your are almost certain to have other crop mixtures in the field.
5. Don't forget to save the certification tag from each lot of seed planted.
6. Don't forget to send in your application blanks from our office.

WHEAT HIGHLIGHTS

Norman Deal, from the Princess Anne ASCS Office, has informed me that in Princess Anne County fifty percent of the eligible voters voted during the recent Wheat Referendum, for 1962. There were eighty-five who voted for the referendum and four against. The outcome is the wheat price support will be about $2.18 next year. No producer can grow over 13.5 acres unless his allotment is more and no wheat can be grown for harvest on any farm that did not grow it in 1959, 1960, or 1961.

Those farms with less than 13.5 acres in all three of the base years will not be able to grow more than their highest year history. There will be a penalty of around $100 an acre on farms exceeding their permitted acreage.

Any farmer who wants to grow wheat for feed can sign a feed wheat agreement in the ASCS Office, and grow up to thirty acres, none of which can be sold. This agreement is valid only on farms that grow the wheat where the livestock or poultry are located. In other words, if you have two farms, you cannot grow thirty acres of feed wheat and feed it to the livestock located on the other.

Kempsville Area Bird Sanctuary May Be Defined

PRINCESS ANNE—The Board of Supervisors Monday approved the establishment of a wildlife sanctuary in the Kempsville area. A public hearing of the ordinance will be held at the next meeting of the group October 23 in the County School Board Building at 10 a.m.

Kempsville supervisor Swindell Pollock presented the proposal on behalf of the Westview Garden Club and the Westview Recreation Department.

Proposed Site

According to the ordinance the designated area will be bounded on the north by the Eastern Branch, on the east by Great Bridge Road and Whitehurst Landing Road, on the south by Indian River Road and Providence-Kempsville Road and on the west by Military Highway.

Before the sanctuary can be permanently established, the General Assembly must act on this recommendation of the supervisors.

Other action taken at Monday's meeting included: Rejecting a request for a permit to operate a Go-Kart strip on the south side of Shore Drive. The County Planning Commission recommended the rejection.

A proposal to rezone property on Virginia Beach Boulevard near Pine Tree Inn was returned to the Planning Commission for reconsideration after the Commission had rejected it. If approved, the site will be used by a cabinet-making shop.

The proposed Pembroke Manor subdivision on Virginia Beach Boulevard was rezoned for commercial use in accordance with an approved shopping center site plan.

Parts of Maynard Avenue and Potomac Street in Bayside were discontinued and a permit for a garage in Seaboard District was approved.

Blue Book Numbers For DD Are Issued

Direct Distance Dialing is on its way and so is the "Blue Book of Telephone Numbers" according to L. F. Patrick, local manager of The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia. C&P is sending out some 175,000 Blue Books to subscribers in Virginia Beach and the surrounding exchanges who will receive DDD on October 15.

This little Blue Book is the key to help telephone subscribers speed up their long distance calls to localities in distant cities.

The Blue Book of Telephone Numbers contains instructions for customer dialing of Long Distance calls. It lists some 200 principal points in Virginia that can be dialed direct and over 2,200 principal out-of-state points which also can be dialed direct. Patrick said the out-of-state points are listed alphabetically by state and city together with the applicable state area code as shown in the following example:

Point	Area Code
Alabama
Bessemer	205
Birmingham	205
California
Alhambra	213
Anaheim	714

Four Steps To place a station-to-station out-of-state long distance call to Bessemer, Alabama, for example, beginning on October 15, all the user must do is:

1. Dial "1". This connects the calling party to the Direct Distance Dialing equipment.
2. The three digit Area Code — 205 — for Bessemer, Alabama, should next be dialed.
3. The subscriber then dials the Bessemer telephone number. In this case — 425-2486.
4. There may be instances when the distance phone is busy. Under such circumstances no charge will be made unless the call is subsequently completed.

Patrick said the Blue Book also describes procedures to be followed when a wrong number is inadvertently

Many Factors There will be overwhelming problems facing this committee when it begins to function. Some of the major factors to be considered include:

- How will the sewerage problem be solved?
- Is it possible to have various tax rates in the various sections of a city and if not what is necessary to allow this feature?
- What taxable powers will the new city have and how do they compare with the present status?
- How would the new city fit in with the overall development of the Hampton Roads area of the State?
- What will be the immediate effect on the urban, suburban and rural sections of the new city and what will be the ultimate needs of these areas?
- What will be the future relationship with Norfolk and what will be the ultimate effect on Norfolk?
- In general, what is the will of the people to the proposition?
- What are the alternatives to becoming a city?

Other Factors to be Considered:

1. What will be the status of the new city in relation to representation in the State legislature?
2. What will be the type of city government in the new city?
3. What will be the name of the new city?
4. Where will be the site of the new government?
5. What are the problems involved in furnishing the services which will be needed in the new city and what are the organization plans?
6. What is the procedure in setting up a city?
7. How will the governing body of the new city be elected? Just a few of the lesser problems will include: schools, police, fire, refuse collection and removal, zoning planning, public health, street construction and maintenance, parks and recreation, courts, traffic control, mosquito control.

Don Truett of Burrow-Martin couldn't miss as he posted a beautiful 204-261-185—650 set, but it was for naught as his team was defeated by Cavalier Coin 4 to 0. Dunn of Cavalier Coin (191-211-197—599) and John Lumpkin (199-185—564) again were the big guns for Cavalier Coin. Robbins Corner Grocery won for forfeit over State Farm Ins. They bowled for average and Rieky Dinkins had a 140 average for the boys and Janet Umberger, 104 was high average for the girls.

It looks like a very fine season is in store for Bayside Bowl as some of the top bowlers in the area are really knocking down the wood as of late. Some of the top bowlers in Tidewater that frequent the Bayside Bowl are Dick Rust, Nick Nicholson, Troy Davis, Mike Cimmino, Dick Ariz and many other fine bowlers that their names are not familiar to this reporter at present. And of course, young Warren Hiteshaw and very good women bowlers like Kitty Roman, Myrt Muehlberg and the like. Even Dot Williams probably the states best woman bowler is seen often in Bayside Bowl learning the lanes as she is a member of one of the Tidewater Traveling teams.

The Bayside Major League again stretched its muscles and proved itself as the strongest league in Tidewater with perhaps the strongest team in Virginia and one of the strongest in the entire southland. The first place C. E. Womack team having lost their first game of the season in their last match last week evidently got mad. Cavalier Coin walked into the lions den and were calmly devoured. Carr Labeled Best End at P.A.

PRINCESS ANNE—They are raving about Chuck Carr at Princess Anne High School after last Friday's resounding football triumph over a good Churchland team. The Cavaliers won their second game, 40 to 6.

But, back to Carr. His coach, Pete Sachon, says he will be better than the fabulous Wayne Waff, Craddock's all-american end last year.

Carr is a 6 foot, 4 inch 175 pounder, who can catch passes like no one else can. Carr was the favorite receiver of Buster O'Brien, the sterling Cavalier quarterback.

In all the Cavaliers gained 294 yards through the air against the Truckers. Besides Carr, O'Brien heaved to Doug Miller for 17 yards and the game's first touchdown. In the second period O'Brien tossed to Jim Miller on a seven-yard play and another TD.

Seahawks Even Record at 2-2

VIRGINIA BEACH—James Blair fell victims to a smooth functioning Virginia Beach Seahawk eleven last Friday night at the Virginia Beach stadium and the locals evened their season record with a strong 19 to 7 victory.

The Seahawks performed much like they did in their win over Poquoson in the second contest of the season. They dropped the opener to Deep Creek and were beaten, 14-0, by Norfolk Academy.

Senior Quarterback Charlie Reid and Senior Halfback Jim Allen were outstanding for the winners. Reid scored twice and repeatedly ran out of the pocket when he was apparently trapped in attempting to pass. Allen was effective up the middle and on off tackle slants. He piled up valuable yardage through the Blair line and several times made the necessary third down yardage for first down.

Halfback Mike Reese tallied the game's first TD in the opening period on a one-yard sneak. Outstanding in the Seahawk line were James Tartar, Footsie Borum, Tommy Dennis and Bill Russell.

What the Seahawks can do against a Group One team will be learned this week as they step into the higher classification at Suffolk.

Liquor-By-Drink Committee Expands

Since the formation of the Virginia Local Option Reform Committee (VALOR) several weeks ago there has been a growing feeling that the whole idea has more widespread support throughout the State than ever before.

The support for VALOR became more evident this week when the original committee released the names of 20 more Virginians, who have joined the committee. This brings the total membership now to 62.

VALOR, comprising prominent citizens from throughout Virginia, believes that moderation in consumption would be encouraged by the change. The committee maintains the change would cut down the State's considerable bootleg liquor traffic, bring in more than $15 million annually in additional revenue and prevent drunkenness encouraged when a person wishing one drink is forced to purchase an entire bottle.

The VALOR has some good arguments and the question can be debated endlessly. Never has the saying "there are two sides to every question" more true than on this subject.

However, VALOR is made up of outstanding business leaders and men of proven good judgment. Their plea for a change just might be looked upon favorably this time.

The Antique Show Is Growing

The third annual Antique Show and Sale is scheduled this weekend in the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center. The popular annual event is sponsored by the Woman's Club of Princess Anne County.

The Antique Show is a perfect example of teamwork and cooperation. It started three years ago on a small scale and has grown into quite an attraction.

This year the annual Antique Show has attracted more than 30 dealers and visitors to the show will be amazed at the variety of exhibits.

As for the sale the most talked about item that will be offered is a more-than-a-century old house. The house is located on the Eastern Shore of Virginia and is presently owned by one of the dealers entered in the show.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday are the days for the show and the ladies of the Woman's Club, have, as usual, put their collective shoulders to the wheel to make this an outstanding event on the Virginia Beach calendar of events.

We congratulate the Woman's Club of Princess Anne County for sponsoring and promoting this fine project. In years this is the oldest club in our community and through the years it has sponsored many worthwhile projects and have contributed immeasurably in the betterment and welfare of the community.

Breakfast Club Speaker

The Rev. Clifton J. Robinson, Minister-At-Large in India, under the auspices of Friends Church, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Virginia Beach Breakfast Club Tuesday at 7 a.m. at Calvary Episcopal Church. He will also speak at the church Monday at 8 p.m.

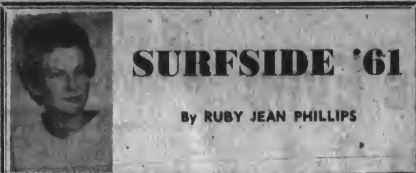

Tom Ellis in First Solo Hop

PENSACOLA, Fla. — Navy Ensign Thomas S. Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Ellis of Goodspeed Rd., Virginia Beach, completed his first solo flight, Sept. 16, while assigned to Training Squadron One at the Saultfield Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

He made the flight in a Beech "Mentor" trainer. Student aviators attached to Training Squadron One, receive instruction in communications, navigation, engineering, athletics, aerology and civil air regulations, as well as flight training.

Upon completion of 18 months instruction, including pre-flight, basic and advanced flight training, and aircraft carrier landing qualifications, student pilots receive their "Wings of Gold" and are assigned to squadrons around the globe.

Before entering the service in June 1961, Ensign Ellis was graduated from Princeton University.

SURFSIDE '61

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

A talent party for the forthcoming "Out of This World" Cabaret Folies, scheduled later this month under the sponsorship of the Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County, brought some enthusiastic response Tuesday night at the Cape Henry Club.

After New York director Tom Stokes, of Jerome Carigill Productions, outlined the show for the large group he sat back and waited for them to sign up. They did. And the result should produce an interesting and worthwhile show. There will be faces in the chorus line that will probably surprise a few husbands and shapes in the "outer space fashion show" that will surely shock a few wives.

LOCAL MODELS

Radio fashion coordinator Alice Brewer White was also in on the proceedings and succeeded in talking clubwomen Mrs. V. K. Almond Jr., Mrs. Sam Mason and Mrs. Lee DuPre into modeling at Ames and Brownie in order to promote the show and sell tickets.

The three Virginia Beach women will appear in the Norfolk store's tea room next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. This is first of many women's organizations that will furnish models to promote club projects, Mrs. White said. Other local groups will also soon take part in the program.

FOOTBALL BITS

It was an enthusiastic crowd that left the high school stadium Friday night after watching the Seahawks drive on for their second victory of the season. The next three games will be played away from home—Suffolk, Northampton and Smithfield—but it is hoped that most of the Seahawk supporters will be with them to cheer them on.

Anyone interested in football, and even those not interested in football, would enjoy watching the midweek Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the high school stadium. The youngsters may be pint-size, but they play as if they were 10 feet tall.

WADE 'N' WEATHER

The ring of a familiar voice brought me dashing to the television the other night and who should be spouting forth the latest weather news but that popular Virginia Beach thespian, Wade Williams. With the Sandpiper Playhouse tucked away for the season, Wade is apparently devoting his talents to television. His friends and supporters should tune in to the weather broadcasts on Channel 3.

"OLD STUFF"

Friday, Saturday and Sunday are the Big days for the Woman's Club of Princess Anne County. Once again the club will sponsor its annual Antiques Show and Sale at Convention Center. This show has grown to such enormous proportions that the general chairman, Mrs. Joseph deCreny commented "it has jumped from a club project to big business." A few changes may be made in the show procedure next year that will make it even larger.

Also scheduled Friday night in Norfolk, at the Municipal Auditorium, is the famous comedian-pianist, Victor Borge. This is one of 60 personal appearances the popular personality has scheduled before the first of the year when he will tour Australia and New Zealand, appear in Las Vegas and star in a movie. His many fans will undoubtedly turn out in mass for his Norfolk appearance.

Homesickness apparently has overcome the three Virginia Beach crickets that left here for New York in the luggage of Dr. and Mrs. Vell McGee and Dr. Bill Christie. They haven't chirped since they left here, according to Mrs. Laura Lane, who had the three New Yorkers as her guests. That just goes to prove that even crickets know that Virginia Beach has more to chirp about than New York.

Local photographer, and active Lions Club member, Horace Simmons mentioned to Mrs. C. T. S. Keep recently that the next Lions International convention would be held in Nice, France. A native of Hungary but a visitor of France, Mrs. Keep surprised Simmons this week with a lovely banner from the Dijon Lions Club in France.

Most people are egotists and like to see or hear their name—I'm no exception. Imagine my surprise Sunday night when friends Mr. and Mrs. Roy Niel asked smooth-voiced Oceana Officers Club entertainer Dick Drew to sound forth with "Happy Birthday!"

Dependents Enjoy Oceana Open House

OCEANA — Newly commissioned, Attack Squadron Sixty Four held dependents open house recently at the Oceana Naval Air Station. This marked the first opportunity the "VA-64 Family" has had to gather as a group and show off its aircraft, working spaces, and off-spring.

The "kick off" for the day's activities was a personnel inspection by Commanding Officer, Lcdr. Paul A. Anderson. After the inspection squadron personnel escorted their wives and children through a series of static displays which included a partially disassembled A4D-2N "Skyhawk," two "Skyhawks" connected for in-flight refueling, and a display of the weapons the "Skyhawk" is capable of delivering.

Later in the morning Lcdr. Anderson spoke to the squadron families regarding the Navy's role in world peace, how VA-64 fits into the picture, and the important role each member of a Navy family plays. A film titled "Jet Carrier" was shown to the group to give them an "on the spot" experience with modern naval jet carrier operations.

Refreshments were served in the squadron ready room and the children were given colorful prints of modern naval aircraft.

Local Resident Views World Series Opener at Stadium

(Mrs. V. K. Almond, married to one of this area's most devoted baseball fans, wears who spent her honeymoon on this base at Yankee Stadium. Quite a fan herself, she has come to know many major league personalities through Vic and their regular attendance at the World Series. Taking time away from her Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County's Cabaret Folies duties, Barbara consented to write this account of her "adventures" at the World Series last week.)

By BARBARA ALMOND

VIRGINIA BEACH — Have you ever had to pack for the World Series? By now I should be an old pro but with the weatherman calling for colder weather, the rain pouring, and a limited wardrobe, I was tempted to stay home and watch the televised game in the quiet comfort of my den. But finally, with cloudy skies and spirits a little higher, Vic and I arrived at the Roosevelt Hotel Tuesday evening, October 3rd.

The lobby of the Commodore, Biltmore and Roosevelt Hotels were crowded with baseball dignitaries from all over the United States. Staying at the Roosevelt were The Cincinnati Reds; Chuck Dreesen, ex-manager of the Milwaukee Braves; Paul Richards, Gen. Manager of the new Houston Colt; Calvin Griffith, Pres. of the Minnesota Twins and his newly appointed manager Sam Mele, Mickey Vernon, manager of the Washington Senators; Lee McPhail, President of the Baltimore Orioles; and George Selkirk, a great Yankee of the past now with the Baltimore Orioles.

Some Missing
Missing from the Series this year were Jeff Chandler, the famous movie actor, and avid baseball fan, and Jack O'Conner, former Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians scout who signed Roger Maris to his first contract in the Cleveland organization. Both died shortly before the series got under way.

Wednesday, opening game, I risked my life on that horrible mode of transportation called the Subway. Once in the crowd you go to Yankee Stadium whether you want to or not.

Our seats were between home and first base, a near-miracle made possible through the efforts of Clyde McCullough, former big league player and coach his past season with the Minnesota Twins. Joe Dimaggio threw out the first ball and then made his exit by way of the Yankee dugout. Ford Frick, Commissioner of Baseball and Mrs. Frick were seated in front of us in the official Yankee Box. Sitting along side was Mrs. Ralph Houk wife of the Manager of the New York Yankees. Manager Houk's son, who is stationed in Norfolk, was also there.

As far as the first game goes it was strictly a pitching battle. Credit must be given Bobby Richardson for his three hits, Howard and Skovron's home runs and Boyers several outstanding defensive plays. All of this plus Whitey Ford's masterful pitching gave the Yankees a 2 to 0 win over the Cincinnati Reds.

Wednesday evening Vic and I met Pete Whensant, coach for the Reds, and Bill Skiff of the Yankees. We went to Al Schachts Restaurant. Al is better known as the "Clown Prince of Baseball." If you are a baseball fan his restaurant is a must—the stairway is made of baseballs and bats and you sit in left field, right field, center field or the bleachers.

Thursday morning I saw Bob Allison, player representative of the Minnesota Twins. I also talked with Howie Fox, Traveling Secretary for the Twins. Howie is a close friend of Dr. and Mrs. L. O. Clark of the beach.

The game that day was blessed with perfect weather. From where we sat you could not help but see the brilliant red hat worn by Edna Stengel and sitting beside her that great baseball man, Charles Dillon Stengel, better known as "Casey," newly appointed manager of the New York Mets.

Joey Jay's pitching combined with Elito Chacon's spectacular dash for home with the score tied and Gordy Coleman's homer with one on plus some erratic plays by the Yankees defense led Cincinnati to a 6-2 victory.

Let's not forget that homer of Berras to tie the game—you can't beat the old pros.

It was all over now but the rush back to the airport, the flight with everyone yelling back and forth predicting the outcome of the Series, the memory of old baseball friends not to be seen again until World Series 1962, and my prediction that CLASS will show and the Yankees will win the 1961 World Series four games to two!

Key Market Will Open Beach Store

VIRGINIA BEACH — Key Market, well known area grocery chain, is planning the grand opening of its new Virginia Beach store in about two weeks, according to a spokesman for the company.

The new Virginia Beach Key Market will be located on Atlantic Avenue at 26th street, the former location of the A & P store here.

What makes a woman beautiful. One famous photographer says it's mostly the imagination of her audience. Many of the loveliest ladies I know were not born with perfect features. But they've faced the mirror without fear and found new ways to soften defects, "play up" their best features. Analyzing you is part of our job! We'll be happy to discuss frankly every line and curve of your face. We'll show you how to make your entire figure look more graceful by choosing a hair style that flatters your whole silhouette.

Kempsville Church Holding Community Carnival Outing

KEMPSVILLE — Final plans have been made for a community carnival to be held Friday and Saturday at the Community Methodist Church. The event will be sponsored by the Methodist Men's Club and the WSCS. More than 5,000 persons are expected to attend and participate, general chairman Winston B. Parsons said.

About 20 booths will provide carnival activities under a large tent. These booths will feature a fish pond, duck pond, baseball pond, food, refreshments, candy, country store and auction, baked goods, Christmas sale goods, photographs, weight guesser, fortune teller and a dart throw.

The Kempsville Junior High School band will present a special program on Friday, when a Black Cat Booth will be featured, and WNOR will have its mobile unit on the carnival grounds. There will also be pony and amusement rides for kids.

The Marine Corps Air Reserve of Norfolk will also have a display booth.

The carnival will be open on Friday from noon to 10 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

A fried chicken dinner will be served in the Junior High School cafeteria from 5 to 7 p.m. Plates will be $1 for adults, 50 cents for children.

Advance sale tickets are available at 12 tickets for $1. Parsons said. Proceeds will be divided between the two sponsors for church projects.

VIRGINIA BEACH, VIRGINIA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1961

Mrs. Parks

Cooke Principal Loves Children

(This is second in a series of articles to appear each week on the men and women who serve as principals of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County Schools.)

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS
VIRGINIA BEACH—"There is nothing nicer a person can do than work with children," Mrs. Emily Parks, principal of Wiltoughby T. Cooke Elementary School for the past 11 years, said.

"The teacher benefits as much, if not more, than the child. You can't work with children and not have a little of their personality and enthusiasm rub off on you."

Trends Change
Education, Mrs. Parks said, is very much like a pendulum—it swings in one direction for a while then swings back. During her 22 years in this field she has watched this pendulum change education many times.

"The present trend is emphasis on phonics," she explained. "This method of reading has always been in the schools but suddenly the public becomes aware of it and the trend swings in that direction."

A balanced curriculum is quite necessary, she said. Reading, writing and arithmetic are important but schools need other things... physical education for the development of strong bodies and music and art for well-rounded personalities.

"If these things are taught as they should be," she said, "they have a very important place in the school program."

Bright Children
An accelerated child doesn't necessarily need an accelerated class. A good teacher is the answer. "Though we probably don't do as much for the bright child as we should."

"An advanced child should be in a smaller group where he can receive extra attention. But in the event that is impossible a good teacher can still keep his inquiring young mind busy with additional work."

A good teacher can handle most situations. Mrs. Parks said. She related the story of a teacher in her school who had a class of unruly, uncooperative teen-age boys.

"The boys kept bringing snakes in the classroom in an effort to upset the teacher," Mrs. Parks said. "She was deathly afraid of snakes, and so was I, but neither of us could let those boys know it. Finally this teacher turned her problem into a project."

"She got the boys so interested in collecting and preserving snakes that the book room shelves were filled with jars of specimens, each one identified and labeled. Those boys learned a great deal from that project but so did the teacher."

A lovely, gray-haired woman with a warm, friendly smile, Mrs. Parks is beloved and respected by all who know her. She believes in and trusts people, a quality that children and parents alike recognize.

"Everyone has feelings," she said, "and the worst thing a person can do is hurt another's feelings. I would rather see a teacher spank a youngster's bottom than hurt his feelings."

Shore Native
Originally from the Eastern Shore, Mrs. Parks took her first teaching job on a small island in Chesapeake Bay, some distance from her home.

"I was so homesick that when I looked out the classroom window and saw the Bay I started to cry. I left the room so the children wouldn't see me but when I returned there were two sparkling clean handkerchiefs on my desk."

Victor Borge Appearing at Norfolk Center on Friday

NORFOLK — Coming on top of his successful television spectacular recently, will be Victor Borge's appearance in Norfolk October 13 at the Municipal Auditorium at 8:30 p.m.

This outstanding personality, acclaimed as "the funniest entertainer in the world," recently returned from Europe where he broke all previous records at the famed Saville Theatre in the heart of London's Piccadilly.

From the London stage Borge went directly into television abroad. Within two weeks he filmed hour long special one-man shows in London, Copenhagen, Berlin and Stockholm. He is the first American to ever appear in these countries and perform in the native language of each country. When his programs are seen this autumn throughout Europe and the U.S. he will be viewed by more persons than any entertainer in show business today.

It is estimated that over 100,000,000 persons will have seen Borge on television between September and December. This summer he also played one week at the Greek Theatre in Los Angeles where he broke his own record and established a new box office gross of $108,700 for the week. While he was in Los Angeles his competition was "My Fair Lady," "Bye, Bye Birdie," "Mousetrap" and "The Hollywood Bowl Concerts. Borge outgrossed every attraction in Los Angeles that week by as much as $40,000.

In addition to his diversified theatrical activities, Borge has planned a number of benefit concerts to aid numerous charity associations. At the top of the list is the American Cancer Society's Virginia Division in Roanoke, Wednesday, October 18.

Cancer of the colon and rectum accounts for more deaths among men and women than any other cancer; some 70,000 cases are diagnosed each year and over 39,000 die of the disease annually. Because of the importance of this problem, the Virginia Division is inaugurating an active program about cancer of the colon and rectum which is expected to be one of its major activities in the next year.

At the Annual Meeting which begins at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, over 200 volunteers from the Division's 103 local units will see the newly released film, "Life Story." This film has a major role in the Cancer Society's concentrated program to save lives from cancer of the colon and rectum. Dr. Claiborne W. Fitchett, Chairman of the Division's Professional Education Committee, is in charge of the presentation including the film showing.

Principal speaker for Wednesday's luncheon will be Dr. Donald B. Koonce of Wilmington, North Carolina. An active member and former President of the North Carolina Division of the American Cancer Society, Dr. Koonce is a former President of the North Carolina Medical Society. His topic will be "Care of the Cancer Patient."

Students Benefit
Victor Borge celebrates his 20th Anniversary this fall in the United States. Three Victor Borge Scholarship funds have been established by the University of Connecticut from the interest earned on the perpetual scholarship fund that he has established at the University, a tribute to the man who came to the United States penniless in 1941.

Following his extensive fall tour, Borge will take his family to their new winter residence, a 250-year-old plantation house situated in the Village of Christenstedt in St. Croix, Virgin Islands.

Plans are now being completed for next year when he will make his first tour of Australia and New Zealand, a return engagement to Las Vegas, and a movie. A Broadway musical has also been written for Borge, but must be delayed until previous commitments have been fulfilled.

BEACH ROTARY CLUB
VIRGINIA BEACH — Arch Coleman will be first of a series of Virginia Beach Rotary Club members to speak on "Is My Face Red?" when the club meets Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Black Angus Restaurant.

Miss Hiteshew Attends Ferrum Junior College
OCEANA — Miss Margaret L. Hiteshew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard S. Hiteshew of 308 East Lane, Oceana, is among freshmen enrolled at Ferrum Junior College for the fall semester, which began Sept. 23, according to an announcement made recently by the college's dean, Dr. Sidney Sandridge.

Six hundred and twenty-five students are enrolled, the largest number in Ferrum's history. Of that number, four hundred were freshmen and two hundred were sophomores. Total enrollment last fall was four hundred sixty-four.

To accommodate the increase, seventeen additional persons have been named to the faculty and staff, a new dormitory for women is open, and several new classrooms and laboratories are in use.

Ferrum's opening, originally set for Sept. 9, was postponed because roads linking new dormitories with the main campus were not finished in time.

Ferrum is a Methodist related, co-educational junior college located in Franklin County, Virginia.

Special Program Planned for Cancer Meeting in Roanoke

A program on colon-rectum cancer, called "A Life-Saving Opportunity," will be a special feature of the Annual Meeting of the American Cancer Society's Virginia Division in Roanoke, Wednesday, October 18.

Cancer of the colon and rectum accounts for more deaths among men and women than any other cancer; some 70,000 cases are diagnosed each year and over 39,000 die of the disease annually. Street Walker Warned by AAA

KEEP FROM BETWEEN PARKED CARS

WINNER, AAA TRAFFIC SAFETY POSTER CONTEST

The dangerous practice of stepping into the street from between parked cars causes about eight per cent of all pedestrian deaths in cities, according to Frank Cox, Local Director, Tidewater Automobile Association.

The contributing factor in most such accidents is that the motorist fails to see the victim in time to stop, the AAA Club Official said.

All pedestrians were urged to cross the street only at intersections where traffic signs and signals are located for their protection. He pointed out that Safety Patrols provide additional help at school crossings.

The theme, "Keep from Between Parked Cars," is featured on a safety poster now being distributed to elementary and junior high schools this month in Virginia Beach by the Tidewater Automobile Association as part of its regular monthly safety education program. It was designed by Ben Alexander, age 10, a fifth-grade student at Ashland School, Denver, Colorado.

The poster won a first-place award in the American Automobile Association's National Traffic Safety Poster Contest. It has been reproduced for distribution by AAA Motor Clubs, after being selected by a nationally-known board of judges.

VIRGINIA BEACH — Whether its weight control, muscle toning or just plain old relaxation, Olympia Athletic and Health Club offers a wide program for each member in restful, plush surroundings.

Now in its fourth month of operation, the private club already has 110 members, leaving only 40 openings. It has been well received in the community and enthusiasm for its facilities is growing steadily.

The gymnasium, located on the lower level of the two-story old brick structure, resembles an expensive display room of elaborate equipment rather than the usual gymnasium.

Gay yellow curtains hang at the windows and deep pile beige rugs cover the floors. The 20 pieces of silver and white "working out" equipment gleam and sparkle in their newness.

Well Equipped
There are pieces of equipment for every type of exercise, from passive calisthenics to violent Judo. They include punching bags, racks of dumbbells, sit-up boards, calf and squat machine, and assorted benches and tables. One corner of the room is devoted to a thick mat where manager-director John Wareing teaches limited classes of Judo—the art of self-defense. There is also a refreshment bar serving health foods.

Catering to businessmen and housewives, the club also has a second floor for relaxation. It includes a massage center, quiet room, sun solarium, steam room, dry heat, locker rooms and a shower room. There is a swimming pool at the rear of the club, overlooking the tennis courts and a vast view of Linkhorn Bay.

Wrestler, Strongman Wareing, who helps members set up a program according to specific needs, has been an athlete for 22 years. While in the Navy he was a professional strong man and wrestler. He has appeared in "Life" magazine and on the "You Asked For" television show for his amazing feats of strength and has wrestled on TV. He was also a boxer for seven years and is a graduate of the Honolulu Police Department's School of Judo.

Not all his time in the Navy was spent in athletics, however. He received 14 decorations for combat in the South Pacific during World War II and in Korea. He retired from the Navy about a year ago and settled in Oceana with his wife and seven children "because we loved Virginia Beach."

The club, which is owned by Pine Harbor Corp., has facilities for both men and women. It is open to men on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 12:30 to 9 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturdays from 11:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.

It is open to the women Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 to 9 p.m. Most members average about two workouts a week, Wareing said.

Built by Kirk and Reid, the athletic club is only one part of an elaborate layout that will also include the White Haven Motel and the Bay Harbor Club, a private social facility, scheduled for completion in March.

cause it is still being negotiated. Participants will work as two-person teams, and help develop 4-H rural youth programs. They will help Agricultural Extension Service workers of the county recruit and train local volunteer 4-H leaders and help club members with projects, demonstrations, meetings, exhibits, and recreation.

The Peace Corps assignment will be for two years, starting about December 1. The assignment includes a three-months training program in the language of the country, its customs and culture, at the National 4-H Club Center in Washington, D.C. Those selected will be accompanied to their assignments and guided in their work by a project director and three regional supervisors representing the National 4-H Foundation.

Youth of Princess Anne County who are interested should call, write or visit my office, as soon as possible for further information and application forms.

Dr. W. E. Skelton, state 4-H Agent at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, has been named Peace Corps coordinator for the Virginia Agricultural Extension Service.

Fall Sheep Management Jobs Outlined

Time spent now the sheep flock can by-pass trouble later.

For instance, plan the winter feed supply now. Sheep don't need much feed—but they need high quality feed. Good legume hay is essential. Green, leafy alfalfa, lespedeza or clover hay should be the basis of the winter feeding program. If you haven't chosen your sheep hay yet, do it now. Set aside about 800 lbs. of your best legume hay for each ewe. Avoid hay that is moldy, coarse, or which has lost most of the leaves.

Good quality corn or grass silage is excellent sheep feed, and can be used to replace about one-half of the hay needs. Silage is especially valuable if winter grazing is not available.

Winter pasture can reduce stored feed needs by one-half. An acre of regularly seeded small grains such as those normally used in a crop rotation will furnish grazing for about five ewes and lambs during a normal winter. Special winter pastures, seeded at high rates and fertilized well, may furnish excellent grazing for 10 to 12 ewes and their lambs per acre.

Next year's lamb and wool crop won't be any better than this winter's feed.

Be on the alert for symptoms of parasites. Clear up any parasite trouble before cold weather. Fall is also the best time to check and get rid of foot rot. My office can give details.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a schoolhouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Opportunity Comes Knocking

Right in the middle of harvest, Smiley Roberts' hired man hurt his shoulder. So it was a stroke of real luck when a stranger knocked on Smiley's door asking for work.

"You can start right now!" says Smiley. "O.K.," says the stranger, "but what about wages?" With that Smiley pauses and says, "Well, I guess I can pay you whatever you figure you're worth."

The stranger thinks it over for a minute, shakes his head, and starts to walk away. "Sorry, mister," he says, "it's just not worth it to work for that kind of money!"

From where I sit, a man who undervalues himself is bound to lose out in a lot of ways. But even worse is the man who undervalues other people. Chances are he's the kind of man who thinks only his own ideas are worth something—the kind of man who respects no opinion but his own. If he prefers tea, he's likely to object to your choice of coffee—or, my choice of a glass of beer. Intolerance like this in no way to "reap" the rewards of good friendship.

P.A. County Farmers Must Sign for Wheat Payments

Payments for acreage retired from production of 1962-crop wheat are not automatic, Russell Dudley, Chairman of the Princess Anne County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, explained today. The farm operator must sign up prior to the closing date for the mandatory minimum diversion as well as for the additional voluntary diversion of wheat acreage and devote such acreage to approved conservation practices.

Such farmers may have thought that when Congress made the mandatory 10 per cent reduction in the national wheat marketing quotas, they automatically became eligible for payments. However, each farmer growing wheat must sign up for conservation practices on the mandatory diverted acres if he wishes to comply with the law regarding the wheat stabilization program for the 1962 crop and receive payment. So for his best interests, the Chairman declared, a farmer should be sure to plan participation sign-up.

Farmers who normally grow more than 15 acres of wheat and who hold allotments for more than 15 acres normally will be able to sign up for program participation, have their retired acreage payment computed, and immediately receive an advance payment of up to one-half of the value of their total participation figured at the minimum rate. The advance payment will be by sight draft. This sight draft may also be used to purchase wheat at the market price as determined by the Commodity Credit Corporation. Wheat purchased in this manner can be marketed without penalty but is not eligible or price support.

Farmers who grew 15 acres or less of wheat for harvest in any one of the years 1959, 1960, or 1961, can sign up for diversion payments, but because there are a variety of computations involved, the local ASC committees will make the calculations as soon as possible so each farmer will receive the kind of payment requested and it will be mailed. The operator in signing his statement of intention to participate in the program can select different courses of action to guide the ASC Committees in figuring the payments: 1. To earn the highest total payment; or 2. to retain the highest permitted wheat acres.

BAYSIDE LIONS CLUB MEETS

The Bayside Lions Club met Wednesday night, October 4, at 7:00 P.M. at Shore Drive Inn. Gordon Hughson, president presiding. This was a "Father-Son" meeting and the club members enjoyed having a goodly number of youngsters present.

Program Chairman, Kenny Jarrod introduced the guest speaker, Ray Melton— noted Stock Car Racing Official from Rocky Mount, N.C., who spoke briefly about the tremendous growth of the Stock Car Races in recent years. From an infant sport at the end of World War II this sport has grown into the Nation's number one spectator sport.

At the conclusion of his remarks Melton showed a film of the "Southern 500" classic which was run at Darlington in 1959. This film showed in color all the pageantry and excitement preceding the big race. In showing the actual race the film covered all phases of the preparation and maintenance work necessary to keep the cars going at breath-taking speed for about 4½ hours. This was really a very exciting race with plenty of thrills and spills.

Third vice president, Jack Talbot, announced that on Saturday, October 14, firemen from Little Creek Amphibious Base, Boy Scouts and Sea Scouts will meet at the Ocean Park Fire Department at 10:00 A.M. from whence they will proceed through the various Bayside communities collecting bicycles, toys, and clothing to be used to help the needy families in the club's annual Christmas Joy Fund.

Second Vice President, Charley McCoy announced that the club's annual Thanksgiving "Turkey Shoot" will be held November 18 and 19 at the Wal-tonian Gun Club. He asked those present to sell a large number of tickets before the shoot in order to insure a good turnout.

Past president, George Lyon, presented 100% attendance pins to twenty-five members for the 1960-61 club year. Five year pins were presented to C. G. Hughson, Ivan Mapp, C. B. Ostrander and Ray Shields. Roy Twiford received an eight-year pin. President Hughson presented ten-year pins to George Lyon, "Mac" Wilkins and Gene Caldwell. These three are charter members and past presidents of the club.

Cheddar Apple Crisp

Cheddar Apple Crisp—a savory layer of apples covered with a crisp cheddar cheese topping—offers the same tempting flavor combination as fresh-baked apple pie with a thick slice of cheese.

Have those "six-o'clock-what's-for-dinner" blues? There is a delicious solution in Cheddar Apple Crisp—a tempting apple dessert with a rich, crisp topping of cheddar cheese and cinnamon. Preparation couldn't be easier and takes but minutes in the kitchen. Just place sliced apples in a baking dish and sprinkle on the topping made with enriched self-rising flour, cheddar cheese, sugar, egg and cinnamon.

Cheddar Apple Crisp is simple with self-rising flour, eliminating the bothersome sifting together of flour, baking powder and salt. What could be easier? Self-rising flour saves precious minutes for other meal preparations. Your dessert can be ready at the end of your meal.

The goodness and convenience of Cheddar Apple Crisp shouldn't be reserved for the family alone—it's ideal for both expected and unexpected company. Serve it piping hot from the oven or chilled, under a mound of whipped cream.

CHEDDAR APPLE CRISP

1½ cups sifted enriched self-rising flour
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg, slightly beaten

1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
5 cups sliced apples (two 1 lb. 4 oz. cans)
½ cup melted butter or margarine

Sift together flour, sugar and cinnamon. Mix in egg thoroughly. Stir in shredded cheese. Spread apples in 7 x 11-inch pan. Sprinkle topping over apples. Pour melted butter or margarine evenly over topping. Bake in moderate oven (350°F) 35 to 40 minutes. Serve warm or cold.

Makes 8-10 servings.

It's desired, cut out apple pattern from brown paper. Place on top of apples. Sprinkle topping around paper pattern. Lift out pattern. When baked, pipe whipped cream or softened cream cheese around edge of apple. Less topping is required when Cheddar Apple Crisp is decorated this way.

I just can't let the opportunity go by of reminding you that though our apple appetite is year-round, it's apple time again in Virginia.

Everybody loves apples. Most every grocery list includes apples—a bag of beauties for the family to enjoy.

October is the peak month for apples and heads a season of plenty that will last all winter.

There's the right kind of apple for every purpose, of the more than 2,000 recognized varieties, about a score supply and satisfy our yen for this nutritious fruit.

The relative order of varieties according to crop size, and regardless of season is as follows: Delicious, McIntosh, Winesap, Rome Beauty, Jonathan, Stayman, York, Golden Delicious, and Newton Pippin. Of these Winesap, McIntosh, Jonathan and Stayman are all purpose, equally good for dessert, for cooking, baking, in salads or for eating out of hand.

Delicious is a general favorite for eating, just as is.

The United Fruit & Vegetable Association come some excellent apple recipes.

Choose a tart, juicy apple which holds its shape well during cooking. Delicious is perfect for salads. Nobody need tell us apples are good for us, so let's make a habit of eating apples often.

Why not get yourself a crisp apple to eat, right now while you look over these recipes?

Breakfast Club Will Hear Guest

VIRGINIA BEACH—Monday evening at 8 P.M. and Tuesday at 7 A.M. at Galilee Episcopal Church, the Virginia Beach Breakfast Club will be host to the Rev. Clifton J. Robinson, currently home on furlough from his work in India as Minister-At-Large under the auspices of the Friends Church, Ohio Yearly Meeting. Appearing with him will be Dr. Abraham Vereide, of Washington, D.C., who for many years has been the Executive Secretary of the International Council for Christian Leadership, the organization with which the Virginia Beach Breakfast Club is affiliated.

Mr. Robinson is an American who completed his professional training at Malone College, Canton, Ohio in 1941 and then served four years as pastor of a new church congregation which he organized in Cleveland. After a year as Promotional Director at Malone College, he and his family sailed to India where he served as missionary for the Friends Church until 1953. He spent two years of furlough in the USA in Friends Church activities and then returned to India after being commissioned Minister-At-Large.

During these past six years of service in India, Mr. Robinson has engaged in a variety of interdenominational activities centering around the "Fellowship House" which he founded in New Delhi. An Associate Secretary General of the International Council for Christian Leadership, he has been instrumental in the establishment of twenty or more breakfast, luncheon, tea and other groups for business and professional people in all the major cities of India. For two years delegations from these groups have for all-India ICCL Conferences. Substantial delegations have also gone from India to the Annual World ICCL Conferences which usually meet in Europe, the next one scheduled for Paris in May, 1962.

Dr. Abraham Vereide is well-known locally. He first came here about 10 years ago as guest speaker for the Galilee Episcopal Men's Club, at the invitation of the Rector, the Rev. Edmund Berkeley. The next morning a group of local men joined Dr. Vereide in the first meeting of the Virginia Beach Breakfast Club in the Newcastle Hotel. With few exceptions the Club has met every week since then.

Both guests will deliver inspirational messages and report on the latest advances in the work of the ICCL organization. Both meetings will take place in the Parish Hall. They are open to the public and all interested persons in the Tidewater Virginia area are cordially invited to attend.

chiefs laying on my desk I have never again underestimated the depth of a child's understanding."

Mrs. Parks attended Mary Baldwin College and received her BA degree from Longwood College. She has also done graduate work at the University of Virginia. She was a teacher for 11 years, in both high school and elementary school, and served as assistant principal at Kempville for three years before accepting the position at Cooke.

Cooks, Too

Fortunately for her husband, Phillip, she considers cooking one of her hobbies. Her favorite dishes are clam chowder and green apple cake.

Also high on her list of enjoyable past-times are knitting (she wore her own lovely loose-knit pink sweater during the interview) and gardening. Most of her weekends are spent moving plants around the yard of their Bay Colony home, she said.

The third member of the Parks family is "Topper," a honey and white-cocker spaniel who "likes dogs—not people." Mr. Parks works at the Naval Yard in Portsmouth.

Manufacturing Milk Price Structure Explained

Why is milk for manufacturing selling below the support price set for it?

If this is a question in your area, you'll be interested in this explanation.

The price support program for manufacturing grade milk is designed to maintain an average price for the year equal to the established support price. By taking excess butter, cheese, and milk powder off the market, the Government expects the actual market price to rise to the support level. The Government does not require each individual plant to pay the support price. Furthermore, the program is guided largely by conditions in the principal producing areas.

Such a program gives rise to many situations where the actual price differs from the support price. The market price fluctuates seasonally so at times it is above the support price, at other times it is below the support price. Butterfat content may cause the market price to be high or low. Prices also vary according to location. The support prices are likely to be followed more closely in the principal producing areas where most of the government purchases take place.

Another case in which the market price may differ from the support price is where excess Grade A milk goes into manufacturing uses. This milk is often sold under market regulations which results in a price that differs from the support price. However, the level of the support price does influence the excess Grade A price.

Treat Small Grain Seed For Higher Profits

Money invested to treat small grain seed comes back in the form of profits.

Some people think treating of cereal grain seed is done mainly to control smut, and that it isn't necessary to treat if there's no serious smut problem. Not so. Economically several other diseases are more important than smut. These diseases can seriously reduce yield, and under severe conditions can cause a complete crop failure. Many diseases affecting cereal grain crops are easily controlled by seed treatment with a good mercurial.

Be sure your small grain seed has been treated with an approved mercury treatment. If you have your own seed cleaned and treated by a custom operator, be sure to specify that it be treated. If you prepare your own seed on the farm, be sure it is well cleaned and treated. Seed treatment doesn't cost much, but the return on the investment is large.

CROSSBRED MATINGS GIVE MORE CALVES WEANED THAN STRAIGHTBRED

Experimental crossbred matings of beef cattle have produced 14 percent more calves weaned per cow bred than with straightbred matings, report animal husbandmen at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Dr. J. A. Gaines says that these results were obtained from three crops of steers and four crops of heifers. The crossbreeding was done between three British breeds of beef cattle — Hereford, Angus, and Shorthorn.

Considering carcass weight & grade as economic traits, the crossbred carcasses averaged 20 to 30 pounds heavier than straightbred carcasses, with no difference in U.S.D.A. carcass grades. These figures are based on 200 heifers and 138 steers.

Phase two of this work will be a study of genetic variations in the dam and straightbred and crossbred dams raising calves of similar types. Results of this work will provide comparisons between calves produced by straightbred & crossbred cows.

Phase three of this experiment will probably be a study to compare rotational crossbreeding with purebreeding as methods of producing market cattle.

4-H's Gain Recognition For Top Work With Tractors

Thousands of 4-H club members will be recognized during the next few months for their top work in maintaining and operating farm tractors.

More than a million 4-H's have taken part in the national 4-H tractor program since its inception nearly two decades ago. In addition, some 50,000 adult volunteer club leaders have been trained in the program's objectives.

Progress and skill of the 4-H members are measured in various ways. Two annual events bring together the top tractor contestants from more than 40 states to demonstrate their abilities.

One is the Eastern United States 4-H Tractor Operators' contest which this year will be held September 26 at the Virginia State Fair in Richmond.

Francis B. Gray of Richmond County will be Virginia's contestant.

The other event is the central and western contest to be held October 15-17 at Dallas, Texas.

PULWOOD SALES CAN INCREASE INCOME

Pulpwood sales can increase income from Virginia woodlands.

Pulpwood can be cut from dense stands of trees grown for sawlogs while the trees are still rather young. Systematic thinning of such woodlands will fit in well with a good woodland management program.

Not only will the owner receive a cash return from the pulpwood, but he will improve the growing condition of the stand. As with other crops, when trees are grown too close together their rate of growth slows down.

Pulpwood production in Virginia that throughout the south has risen steadily in recent years. Virginia's annual pulpwood harvest has more than doubled since 1945. Over 21 percent of the harvest from the total growing stock is for this use. Most of the pulpwood cut in this state is from the southern pines, mostly loblolly, shortleaf, and Virginia pine.

The market for hardwood used for pulpwood is also increasing.

The pulpwood industry is a permanent and growing one. Each pulpmill represents a huge investment. Recent studies show there will be no oversupply of trees of the preferred species.

The market for trees as small as six inches in diameter will be great help in making the management of woodlands a more profitable operation.

The foresters caution that before any cutting is done the woodland owner should have a definite management plan. A thorough woodland examination should be the basis of such a plan.

Virginia woodland owners may receive help in preparing a management plan for the Virginia Division of Forestry, consulting foresters, or in some cases by industrial foresters.

My office, or the local forester will be glad to arrange a survey of your woodland.

Many Gardeners Like Apples In The Backyard

Apple trees trained on a trellis? The idea isn't as ridiculous as it sounds.

The idea is a practical one for the increasingly popular dwarf apple trees. Here's how:

Put up a trellis. You can use fairly large poles about 12 feet apart. Then attach four wires from one post to the other, and about 18 inches apart. Set out the trees. You can use two trees between each pair of posts. Tie the new shoots or limbs to the wire nearest to them as they start to develop. Get one limb attached to each of the wires, and cut off the rest. Be sure to keep the trees well trimmed. If you let too many limbs develop that aren't attached to any wires, the trees will get busy & hard to handle. Once the trees have reached the top wire, cut off growth that reaches too high in the air. Using dwarf trees trained to wires, you will start having a few apples at the end of three or four years. By the time the trees are five or six years old, you should have heavy crops of fruit growing on the trellis.

The apple-trellis system makes a good screening fence that can be placed along the back side of your property. Or it can be used to screen off a vegetable garden, or other area.

Whether you grow apple trees on a trellis or in the more conventional manner, be sure to follow a good spray program. Dwarf trees fit more easily into a backyard plan than do standard trees, and they also are easier to spray.

4-H'S RAGED FOR PEACE CORPS

Former 4-H Club members, 18 years old or older, are being urged by the Peace Corps.

The skills and training of these 4-H's are needed for a Peace Corps project now being considered for Latin America.

Exact location of the project cannot be announced yet because of industrial foresters.

SO SAID THE MAN who accidentally shot a six-foot-five companion on a hunting trip last year. Most hunting accidents—and there are between 600 and 800 fatalities each year—can be avoided if the men with the guns know how to use them. Here, by Jhan and June Robbins, is the story of what some states are doing to protect hunters themselves, and the innocent bystanders.

Carl Sandburg—Family Man ... page 12

In December, 1907, a young man escorted Miss Paula Steichen, whom he had just met, to a streetcar. In June, 1908, she became Mrs. Carl Sandburg, a status she has now enjoyed for 53 years. This month we are proud to tell you something about the life of the great poet and his family, as seen through the eyes of an admiring and devoted friend, Harry Golden.

You Don't Ever Cook Pancakes ... page 15

You make them, says Evan Hunter, famous author of "The Blackboard Jungle," and "Mothers and Daughters." He has been making them every Sunday morning since he was first married. It has become a ritual that never varies in his house—it means sleepy eyes and Sunday voices and love and warmth and security—and a steady procession of good, hot pancakes smothered in butter and sirup.

If You Can't Lick 'Em, Join 'Em ... page 28

Here's a story that should put the bloom back in the cheeks of all bumper-to-bumper commuters, told by the chief driver of "Readi-Riders, Inc." It's all about how 28 people pooled their fares and bought a bus and now slip comfortably through the Detroit traffic blockade twice a day, playing cards, catching up on their reading, chatting cosily, or just plain napping—and they're showing a profit on the books, too.

GETTING AROUND

... to Our Pleasant Places and People

WHEN FRANK J. INDOVINA, fishing near Crestline, California, ran out of worms, he tried green trading stamps and caught a trout, seven bass, and two bluegills.

It's almost fun to take out a mortgage with a University Heights, Ohio, bank which presents each prospective householding family with a flowering cherry tree to be planted on the grounds of its new home.

Eighteen-year-old Donald Weigel, of Mineola, New York, has confounded physicists by single-handedly building a cyclotron that can produce proton beams with energy levels of 0.8 million electron volts. Though scientists claim the building of a cyclotron is beyond the intellectual capacity of a high-school student, the result of young Donald's labors will be used, in the future, for research in atomic science at Mineola High School. Good work!

Mrs. Gwen Simonarson, of Blaine, Washington, thought you'd all like to know an unusual effect of dieting. It seems that a Miss Sylvia Sannar, while doing a stretch in the state prison, slumped down from 100 to 85 pounds, then squeezed through the bars on the window of her cell and escaped.

Whatever happened to these quaint old phrases, wonders Martin Tonn of Moorhead, Minnesota. His favorite four, which he so seldom hears any more, are: "Now, we have a rule here—no using silverware on the fried chicken. We always use our fingers"; "Don't be silly, I'll take the check. You're my guest tonight"; "I prescribe more rest for you. Cut down on the odd jobs around the house. Relax and enjoy a good cigar instead"; and "Sorry, but I couldn't find a single cavity in any of your children's teeth. See you next year."

GETTING AROUND

The two justices of the peace in Walters, Oklahoma, have started a new organization that, we hope, will catch on in one form or another all over the country. It's called the "100 Club." You are automatically made a member if you are caught driving 100 miles an hour or more. Dues are a fine of $100.00 or more. Now, what we'd like to see are some "Your Fine Is Double Your M.P.H." Clubs, to discourage anyone who goes way over the speed limit anywhere. How about it?

Brides-To-Be in Plymouth, Massachusetts, get more than a certificate from clerk M. Herbert Craig when they come to get their marriage licenses. Mr. Craig gives each of the prospective homemakers a box that he calls a "bridal pax." In it are 15 items, including soap powder, soap, amonia, dessert topping, sauces, instant coffee, and aspirin. Reminders of things to come—presented with the license, and "Compliments of Town Clerk M. Herbert Craig."

Thanks for the tip, Helene Fran Holmberg, of Lenexa, Kansas. Mrs. Holmberg and her family never argue or get into hassles about who does what, or who hasn't done what he was supposed to do. They use a Family Note Box made from an old oatmeal carton covered with a piece of wall-paper, which is left on a low shelf in the kitchen. Beside it are a pen, paper, and a roll of cellophane tape for sealing, to be sure no one peeks at someone else's notes. The Holmbergs have found the Family Note Box brings wonderful results, especially for the children, who respond more to these written suggestions than to scolding or orders for work to be done. The young Holmbergs particularly like the occasional "Thank-You" notes for jobs well done.

A sign by a used typewriter in a San Fernando, California, shop, reads "Used Only By An Elderly Pasadena Woman Who Never Went More Than 20 Words A Minute."

A supermarket in Dedham, Massachusetts, says Mrs. Anne Maids, has solved the problem of what to do with the children during a long shopping spree. The store has installed a miniature zoo, near the entrance that features a continuous program of colorful animated cartoons. It keeps the kids happy, lets the mother shop in peace, and saves the market quite a lot of breakage from well-meaning, busy little hands.

It's a tough job for any smallish group of people to patrol a large area—for any worthwhile reason—but the Garden Club Council of Grosse Pointe, Michigan, got around this problem by putting a large clip-out coupon in the local paper. It was headed "Sore Spots for Clean-Up," and asked friends and neighbors to help by filling in the locations of vacant lots, alleys, and other areas that were in need of attention. Then they got right down to the job of cleaning up instead of wasting time hunting around for sore spots on their own.

WE CAN STOP HUNTING ACCIDENTS

Hunter training could protect the principal victims—young beginners and innocent bystanders

BY JHAN AND JUNE ROBBINS

ON A BRISK NOVEMBER DAY last year the Edward Wilson family moved from their Philadelphia apartment to Bucks County, thirty miles away. Like thousands of others, they believed that the best way to bring up healthy children was in an environment of green trees and open fields. The mother, busy unpacking, smilingly told her six-year-old daughter, "You're a country girl now! Run along and explore the woods."

A few minutes later she heard a noise like a distant backfire. Her little girl fled into the house, sobbing, "There's a lot of holes in my dress!" The child's wide, red skirt, blowing before her in the wind, had been shredded by a shotgun blast.

On that same day, in Wyoming, an eighteen-year-old boy on his third hunting trip was stopped in mid-field by a reproachful deputy sheriff. "Quit dragging your gun by the barrel!" the deputy snapped. "You'll get hurt." An hour later the youth's body was found hanging over a wire fence, shot through the stomach by his own rifle. His father had shown him how to load, aim, shoot, and clean his weapon, but no one had ever taught him how to get under a fence with it.

Today no one can hope to ignore the hunting-casualty problem. Rapid transportation takes hunters to areas they have never invaded before. At the same time the rush to the suburbs has brought hunters into everyone's dooryard. Within the perimeters of our cities there is a tempting surplus of rabbit, woodchuck, and even deer.

One out of every ten American males over the age of fifteen owns a shotgun, rifle, or both. Fifteen million take out hunting licenses each year. During the usual ten-week season, they spend 169 million man-days hunting. Most use their weapons skillfully and responsibly. A lethal minority, however, each year kills 600 to 800 persons in hunting accidents and injures about 3500 persons more.

Some argue that, considering the large number of people engaged in the sport, this casualty rate is not high. Yet, if as many as 800 deaths occurred each fall on our high-school and college gridirons, there is no doubt that the sport would long ago have been abruptly halted or radically changed by outraged public protest.

A large number of hunting accidents involve the very young. Youths 16 to 19 years old are the group most likely to be shot down—or to shoot someone. They account for 46% of all accidents and supply 39% of the victims! No other sport is so dangerous for innocent bystanders.

HERE IS THE KIND of crass stupidity that causes hunting accidents: In Texas, a hunter used his gun to beat back brush in a deep thicket. A twig twitched the trigger. The man's closest friend, walking just behind him, was instantly killed. In Gasconade County, Missouri, an excited teen-age boy fired too fast and too low as his dog flushed a covey of quail. He shot his sister who was standing on the other side of the field. In a suburb near Des Moines, a young mother was killed when a car driven by her husband struck a bump and jolted the loaded gun lying on the back seat. In Vermont, a boy climbing a hill turned and extended his rifle, butt end first, to help his father ascend the steep trail. The father slipped, made a grab at the gunstock, yanked the trigger, and shot his son through the neck.

Protected by the Constitutional guarantee, "The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed," some hunters travel on public buses or even demand service in restaurants with guns clutched legally between their knees!

Says Bryan Burgin, head of New York State's

Hunter Training Program, "The dangers of hunting cannot sensibly be compared to those of other sports. The only useful analogy is to automobile driving. No one gets a driver's license until he has proved that he can drive safely. We know that innocent people's lives are in jeopardy when an ignorant and incompetent driver takes the wheel. We probably can't run all of those people out of the woods any more than we can get all of them off the road—but it's time for every state in the nation to try."

Eleven states now have laws compelling at least a part of its young hunting population to study and pass a hunter-safety course. They are New York, California, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Montana, Massachusetts, Connecticut, South Dakota, Minnesota, Washington, and Utah. All of them found out—the hard way—that a compulsory hunter safety-education program is easy to talk about but extremely difficult to get started. New York State's law, the first to be passed, originally ordered state game protectors to conduct all the training classes for youngsters under sixteen. Thousands of boys appeared. Game protectors were completely swamped.

OTHER STATES that followed New York's example recruited instructors by newspaper advertisement and word of mouth. Their skill with guns was vouched for but, unfortunately, many early safety instructors proved to be too negligent or too softhearted to weed out the very applicants the states were most anxious to bar from the woods.

In 1950, the National Rifle Association entered the state training picture. The organization, with a membership of 435,000 and 10,200 chartered local gun clubs, has been teaching young people since 1926. Under their sponsorship three and a half million youngsters have earned marksmanship ratings with a safety record of less than half a dozen minor accidents. While opposed to some gun-regulating legislation, the National Rifle Association came generously to the aid of state safety-training programs. They supplied equipment, instructors, and know-how. In the past ten years in New York and elsewhere, they have trained and certified 35,000 additional instructors, who in turn have trained 1,500,000 young people.

The course of instruction costs the state about fifty cents per pupil. It consists of four hour-long lessons, ten rounds of ammunition, a supervised field trip, and a written examination. At its conclusion students know—and can demonstrate—the answers to such questions as:

"When should the safety on a gun be in the off position?"

(Only when it's about to be fired.)

"How should a gun be handled when crossing a fence?"

(Unload, open action, place gun under fence. Climb fence, reload.)

"If three hunters are walking single file down a path, in what position should each carry his gun?"

(First man, muzzle pointing to the front or side. Second man, muzzle to the side. Third man, muzzle to the side or over shoulder.)

"How is a gun carried in an automobile?"

(Unloaded, with action open or gun in case.)

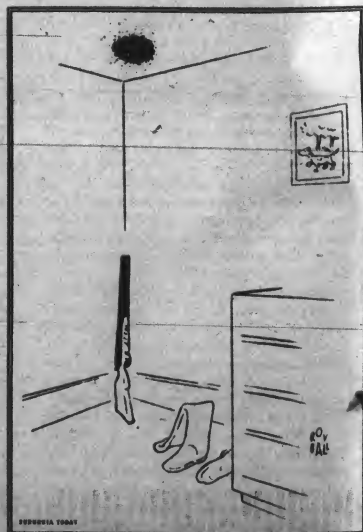

"If three hunters are advancing abreast down a field and a pheasant flushes to the right and flies off in that direction, which one takes the shot?"

(Man on the right.)

"If three hunters are advancing abreast down a field and a rabbit breaks between the man in the middle and the one to the left, who takes the shot?"

(No one.)

HUNTING ACCIDENTS

Under practical conditions in the field, young hunters are taught target identification. They hear the story of the man who shot a six-foot five-inch companion weighing 240 pounds and said, "I was sure he was a woodchuck." They learn to hold their fire until they answer the six basic questions of game recognition: Color? Size? Movement? Location? Behavior? And, finally, Where is everybody?

They are told it's dangerous to use Grandfather's antique shotgun. Old guns are usually made of twisted Damascus-process steel and won't hold together under the pounding of today's high-power ammunition.

They are warned against hair triggers, blind firing, arrogance, and alcohol. Basic physical examinations eliminate would-be hunters with defective coordination or dangerously poor eyesight. "Show-offs," along with the lazy, the undisciplined, and the defiant, are promptly kicked out of the course.

IN 1955, South Dakota reported that 49% of its accidents were caused by boys of twenty or under. That year, the state passed a hunter-training law concentrated on young people, and only three years later recorded a 53% decrease in juvenile hunting accidents. In New York, after ten years of hunter training, accidents have been cut in half. This year, applicants, regardless of age, who apply for a first-time license must take the hunter-safety course. There is no doubt that mandatory hunter training works.

Seven Lifesaving Tips

With the 1961 season upon us, and more than fifteen million hunters preparing to go out, here are seven tips that may save your life—or someone else's—this fall:

Keep calm. Tense, overanxious hunters are often trigger-happy and fire when they least mean to do so.

Don't count on red to save your life. Eight percent of all hunters (along with the entire U.S. population) are color-blind and see red as muddy brown—the exact shade of a plump deer. Safest color bet: Bright chrome yellow, the color used for most school buses, or a blaze orange.

Respect the .22 rifle. It isn't a child's toy, although many adults think it is. A .22 can kill at half a mile.

Take a coffee break in mid-morning. And quit early in the afternoon. Research shows there's a fatigue factor that seems to make hunting accidents rise at 11 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Store guns and ammunition separately. Be sure the wrong person can't get hold of both at the same time.

Be particularly careful during the early days of the season. The first few days usually see 27% of the accidents, the first two weeks, 69%!

Treat every gun as though it were loaded even if you have just unloaded it yourself. Two-thirds of all hunting accidents occur for a single, simple reason. A gun was loaded when it should not have been. Live to enjoy the lovely autumn foliage—and let others enjoy it with you.

CARL SANDBURG

AT HOME

The great poet and his family, seen through the eyes of an admiring and devoted friend author of "Only In America," "For 2¢ Plain," "Enjoy! Enjoy!"

Carl Sandburg at 83 — poet, historian, folk singer, journalist, and old-fashioned family man.

William A. Smith

THE IMPRESSION you get from Carl Sandburg's home is one of laughter and happiness; and the laughter and the happiness are even more pronounced when no company is present.

Carl has been married to Paula for 53 years, and he has not made a single major decision without careful consideration and thorough discussion with his wife. Through all these years, Mrs. Sandburg has pointedly avoided the limelight. She has shared her husband's greatness, but only within the confines of their home; a dedication which began the moment she met Carl.

Mrs. Sandburg received a Phi Beta Kappa key from the University of Chicago, and she was busy writing and teaching when she met Sandburg. "You are the Peoples' Poet," was her appraisal in 1908, and she stopped teaching and writing to devote herself to the fulfillment of his career.

She has rarely been photographed with him and, except for Carl's 75th anniversary celebration in Chicago in 1953, she has not attended the dozens of banquets, functions, public appearances, and dinners honoring him—all of this upon her insistence. Even now I will not intrude upon her except to state a few bare facts.

The only way to describe Paula Sandburg is to say she is beautiful in a Grecian sense. Her clothes, her hair, everything about her is both graceful and simple. She has small, broad, capable hands and an enormous energy.

She is not only a trained mathematician and classicist but a good architect. She designed and supervised the building of their Harbert, Michigan, house, most of which was constructed by one local carpenter who carried the heavy beams singly upon his shoulder. As the Sandburg goat herd increased, she also designed the alterations for the barn to accommodate them. When erosion threatened the foundation of their home in Harbert, Paula Sandburg planted grapevines and arranged the snow fences which helped hold the sands away.

SHE WAS BORN Lilian Steichen, her parents immigrants from Luxemburg. Her mother called her Pausl, a Luxemburg endearment meaning "pussy-cat." Some of the children of the family could not pronounce this name and called her Paula, a soubriquet Carl liked so much she has been Paula ever since.

Carl and Paula met in Milwaukee in 1907 during Paula's Christmas holiday visit to her parents. Carl was still Charles A. Sandburg. He legitimized "Paula" for Lilian Steichen, and it was Paula who insisted on "Carl" for Charles.

Victor Berger, the panjandrum of Wisconsin Socialism and member of Congress, had asked Paula Steichen to translate some of his German editorials into English. Carl, who was stationed in Appleton, was in Berger's office and made it his business to escort Paula to the streetcar. She left the next day for her teaching job at Princeton, Illinois. By the time the streetcar pulled away, he had fallen in love with Paula.

A letter awaited her at Princeton. Paula says that even though Carl's letters usually began, "Dear Miss Steichen," there was an understanding from the beginning that they would become husband and wife.

Her artist brother Ed liked him immediately.

The poet with his grandchildren, Karen Paula and John Carl, who are named for their grandparents.

Found "Only in America," Sandburg and Golden, whose "Carl Sandburg" will appear next month.

The Sandburgs — she was Paula Steichen — who were married 53 years ago, on June 15, 1908.

but there were misgivings among other members of the family. Victor Berger did some whispering; and to Paula, too: "Do you know he's a poet?"

Paula said she knew he was a poet, and twenty years before Carl became famous she repeated to Berger the lines from Robert Browning:

Ah, did you once see Shelley plain,
And did he stop and speak to you,
And did you speak to him again?
How strange it seems and new!

They were married in June, 1908, six months after their first meeting. There was no ring ceremony, the word "obey" was eliminated with a solemn agreement that one of the parties could call it quits any time he or she decided.

A few years later, after a half-serious argument, Paul wondered whether they should invoke the agreement and Carl said, "I'll be damned if I'll go through all that courtin' again."

Carl and Paula set up housekeeping in Appleton where they paid four dollars a month rent for three rooms upstairs in a one-and-a-half-story house. They bought a bed, a mattress, and some bedding; Paula made muslin curtains, and several store cartons served as dresser and shelves. In 1909, they moved to Milwaukee.

The first child, Margaret, was born in 1911 in Milwaukee about the time Carl became secretary to Emil Seidel, the mayor of that city.

At the age of nine, totally without warning, Margaret had an epileptic spasm accompanied by convulsions. The Sandburgs had no money and were not to have any until years later, but they strained their financial resources as well as their thoughts and energies for Margaret. Nerve specialists diagnosed her case as nocturnal epilepsy, as her seizures occurred only during sleep. They advised diet and drugs to relieve the number and severity of attacks.

YEARS LATER, after the Sandburgs had moved from Chicago to Michigan, Janet, the second daughter, was hit by a car while crossing the street in front of the Three Oaks High School in Harbort. She was unconscious for a week and lingered many weeks thereafter between life and death. X rays revealed innumerable fine fractures at the base of the skull. When she returned home, a many-windowed upper porch was set aside for her recuperation. After two years, she recovered enough to return to school but has been afflicted ever since with severe recurrent headaches. Despite this handicap, Janet is an active farmer and a fervent fan of both baseball and politics.

The girls were the Spink and Skabootch to whom "Rootabaga Stories" were dedicated.

The youngest daughter, Helga, Carl calls Swipes. Helga writes poetry and won a short story prize in 1958: She has also published two novels.

When "The Prairie Years" was sold for $30,000, the world did not know the tears Carl and Paula Sandburg shed that evening because of their concern about the future of Margaret and Janet. They felt that both girls, who would never really be able to earn their own livelihoods, were at last assured a fair chance of happiness. This is what has concerned Carl through all his productive years and explains his great care in handling of money.

Under the most rigid rules, daughter Margaret may be called an expert bibliophile. Newly developed medication and drugs have overcome her disability. She has inherited from both her parents a love of books and a mind capable of absorbing and analyzing great literature. Those who have worked around Carl have come to value Margaret's exceptional abilities.

Sandburg refuses to have his library catalogued, which numbers 15,000 volumes (this after the sale of a huge library, along with manuscripts of his Lincoln biography, to the University of Illinois).

"I know where everything is," he says, "and I don't want it touched."

I've discovered, however, that his confidence is based on Margaret, who can unerringly walk to a shelf or a sealed box and pull out the book or document he is looking for.

Carl Sandburg rarely spends money on himself and at the height of his career looks as unimpressed as he did when he was a $27.50 newspaperman.

When he goes out to make a speech, he'll put on a white shirt and his usual bow tie and Sunday suit, but when he is home he wears old pants and a lumberjack shirt, his favorite costume. He cannot get himself to throw anything away, including several pairs of shoes ranging in age from ten to thirty years.

He calls his throat the voice box and has all sorts of mufflers that he wraps around his neck when he goes out of the house to take his evening walks. Of recent years he has grown accustomed to having a blanket over his knees as he sits and writes or reads. At eighty-three, if he has such a thing as an ailment of any kind, perhaps his eyes are not as good as they were twenty years ago, but he watches them carefully and rests them as often as possible. He has thirty or forty walking sticks, but for his long walks along the mountain trails of Connemara he carries an axe and chops away at branches and dead wood along the way.

The friends and tourists keep winding up that long trail from the highway to the Connemara house. Sometimes he "can't see anyone today." On occasion, Carl will sit and talk for an hour or two with these strangers.

About a year or so ago a couple from Pennsylvania "dropped in" on the way home from Florida. They talked, got their autographs, and as they were leaving the porch the woman impulsively walked over to Carl and kissed him. The woman immediately stepped back embarrassed and started to apologize to Paula, who laughed and said: "That's all right, he belongs to the world."

I have seen Carl go into a lowering Viking rage if a letter or book has been misplaced. When Mrs. Sandburg or Margaret hands it to him, along with the evidence that it was exactly where he had hidden it himself, Carl always buries his face in his hands, and they laugh with him as he says, "Please forgive me, please forgive me."

UNLESS there's a heavy rain or snow, Carl, Paula, and Margaret take an evening walk. When I visit Connemara I join them. Janet, who helps her mother with the goat herd, keeps the regular hours of a farmer; she is at the barns at sunrise and usually says "good-night" after supper. The three Sandburgs walk a measured mile along the dark path, each one armed with a flashlight. The return is slower because it is uphill, and they stop every few yards to look at the stars and talk. To avoid using the flashlight unless it is absolutely necessary, they always walk holding hands, "a good habit to get into," says Carl.

When Sandburg is home his laughter rings through the entire house; and when he is off on a trip, Mrs. Sandburg and the girls laugh at every letter he writes. Since they have three telephone extensions, all join in laughing during his daily telephone call.

"I'll be home in February," he wrote from Hollywood to Paula, "we'll take our walks again, holding hands."

Mr. Hunter and The Pancakes, with twin sons Mark and Richard.

YOU DON'T COOK PANCAKES

BY EVAN HUNTER

The author of "The Blackboard Jungle" and "Mothers And Daughters" happens to be an authority—as he's more than willing to prove buy six jelly donuts and six crullers, and they would pack them in a white paper bag, and then we'd walk home and up the steps to the fourth floor. My mother would have coffee and cocoa on the stove, and the radiators would be banging all over the apartment. When we sat down to breakfast, we didn't think about pancakes. They were there, though. They were right there in that railroad flat, even though we ate jelly donuts and crullers every Sunday morning.

Then once, in 6B, my teacher whose name was Mrs. Manelli read to us from a book by Hamlin Garland called A Son Of The Middle Border, read only one chapter of it, but oh the things in that chapter! I sat there enthralled while Mrs. Manelli's voice conjured that prairie kitchen with its cooking smells. It was very cold outside that day, and the big windows on the left-hand side of the classroom were rimmed with frost. There was a lethargic feeling to the room, the kids leaning forward with their chins cupped in their hands, and Mrs. Manelli's low voice reconstructing a warm and wonderful past. She thought she was teaching us about the prairie—but she was really teaching us all about pancakes.

I learned a lot about them long before I first poured batter into a frying pan.

ONCE, after I had moved to the Bronx, some friends and I went fishing. City boys don't often go fishing. We got up at four o'clock in the morning, and my mother came into the bedroom while I was dressing and asked, "Are you really going?" and I said, "Sure we are!" We met in front of Artie's house. We were each carrying lunch in brown paper bags. We tied them to the racks of our bicycles and started off for City Island. Our first stop was an all-night hamburger stand where we ordered coffee and scrambled eggs like truck drivers, though we were only fourteen. We cracked a lot of corny jokes and laughed a lot, and the guy behind the counter said we should be on the radio with Jack Benny. We were learning about pancakes.

In the navy once, our squadron got caught in a hurricane going from Pearl to Japan shortly after the war ended. On the second day of the storm, I went up as bridge talker, standing the mid watch with a bunch of other guys who were wearing foul weather gear and wishing MGM were there to film all these wet heroics. The communications officer in the radar shack had arranged for the talker to be relieved every hour. At two o'clock, a talker in dry gear came up to relieve me. I went down the ladder to the radar shack, took off the foul weather gear, and hung it up to dry as well as it could before the next man put it on. I sat down with the other radarmen, and we drank coffee, and I told them how terrible it was up there on the open bridge with waves crashing in over the bow of the

YOU HAVE TO UNDERSTAND PANCAKES. If you call them griddlecakes or flapjacks, you don't understand them and you might just as well forget ever trying to make them. Griddlecakes are made in restaurants that have shiny steel stoves and chefs in big white pastry hats; they have nothing to do with pancakes which are made in people's kitchens. Flapjacks are made by gold prospectors in little wooden shacks in Grade-B movies; they also have nothing at all to do with pancakes. If you don't understand the distinction, then you won't understand pancakes, either. All is lost, and you should buy yourself a waffle iron.

You don't cook pancakes. You make them.

You don't say, "I think I'll cook some pancakes this morning." You always say, "I think I'll make some pancakes this morning." In fact, you never say that, either, because there's only one time to make pancakes, and that's on Sunday morning, and you don't have to think you'll make them, you know you'll make them. That is, if you understand them, you instinctively know they are irrevocably linked to sleeping late and people in robes with sleep around the edges of their eyes and dopey sleep-smiles on their mouths as they suggest, "Why don't you make some pancakes?"

YOU'D make them anyway. This is Sunday morning.

My own understanding of pancakes goes back a long way. It goes back to a city, and to the not unfriendly angling of asphalt street against brick building, the noise and sparks of the Second Avenue El. We would cross under the elevated structure and keep walking west toward Third Avenue. There was a candy store on the corner, and my father would stop to buy the Sunday News and the Sunday Mirror. Those were the days when Terry and the Pirates was still in the hands of Milton Caniff, who skillfully caused the Dragon Lady to reappear at intervals designed to delight the most avid reader of cyclical novels. I always knew when she was about to arrive again. I could sense it weeks before. And then, suddenly, there she was in all her mysterious Oriental beauty, and Pat Ryan would fall in love with her all over again in a nice, clean comic strip way, and then one Sunday she'd be gone. It would be a great many more Sundays before she, or Burma—whose top two blouse buttons were always unbuttoned—appeared once more. We would go up to Third Avenue where all the furniture stores were, and squeezed in between them was a bakery-restaurant where men sat around tables drinking early-morning coffee. The moment we stepped into the place, I could smell all the things baking. There were big polished coffee urns, and counter girls and waitresses in stiff white dresses, and my father would bringing up baby.

Hints collected
by Mrs. Dan Gerber,
Mother of 5

All of us know the basic protective measures for guarding baby but sometimes things just plain slip our minds. A few "I-just-didn't think-of-its":

For the active wee one. Crib sides should always be up when baby's in bed. Can't tell when that live wire will roll over. At bath-time, it's a good idea to turn a deaf ear to the phone. When diapering, powder can should be kept out of reach so baby won't inhale powder.

For the experienced creeper. A baby on all fours will make a bee line for any bright object so eagle-eye the floor for pins, bits of cellophane, etc. Iron and toaster cords or floor-drooping plants should not be left a-dangle when baby's on the prowl. Floor fans and heaters are a hazard.

For the into-everything toddler. Beware the burning cigarette and table lighter. A toddler's hand is quicker than your eye. Floor spills are an invitation to tumbles... should be wiped up immediately. Pills in your purse are easy to find—and take none in sight of your copycat one.

which we'd bought the night before on our way home, was spread on the table. My pancakes had made a lot of smoke in the apartment, but we didn't open too many windows because it was cold on that corner of the island, in that particular apartment exposed to the river on three sides.

I've been making pancakes every Sunday morning since. I guess I make pretty good ones now. At least, everybody tells me how lousy they are, so I guess they're pretty good or they wouldn't bother to say anything.

Here's how you make them.

You buy yourself any one of the commercial mixes. Don't bother trying to concoct your own batter with flour and all that jazz because the commercial mixes are fine, and if you understand pancakes you'll recognize there's only false pride in preparing your own batter. On the back of each mix box, there are very clear and explicit directions about how to proceed. Get yourself a big mixing bowl, a tablespoon, and a cup, and spread these out on the table. Now put the box where you can read the recipe. It will almost always read something like this:

7 to 8 pancakes

1 cup milk

1 egg

1 tablespoon melted or liquid shortening

1 cup pancake mix

14 to 16 pancakes

2 cups milk

2 eggs

2 tablespoons melted or liquid shortening

2 cups pancake mix

The only change I make in the prepared-mix recipe is to pour in about half a cup of heavy cream which, I find, gives the pancakes a richer taste and texture. Aside from that, pancakes shouldn't be tampered with. Don't go dropping diced apples into the batter, or blueberries, because then you're not making pancakes anymore. You're baking muffins or cakes, but you're not making pancakes.

Now, before you start putting all these things together into the mixing bowl, get your griddle going. If you haven't got a griddle, use a large frying pan. Don't let it get too hot or your pancakes will brown instantly on the outside and be pasty and gooey on the inside. It's a good idea to watch the temperature of your griddle all the while you're making pancakes. You'll find it does need constant attention. While your griddle is heating, do this: throw all of the above-listed ingredients into the mixing bowl in any order whatever, and stir the mixture with a large spoon. The batter doesn't have to be very smooth. In fact, a few lumps here and there will help the pancakes. By the time you've smoothed out most of the lumps, your griddle should be hot enough. Stick your forefinger under the kitchen faucet, wet it, and then shake the drops onto the griddle. If it's hot enough, the drops of water will bounce around crazily before they sizzle away into nothingness. Grease your pan lightly.

All right, you're now ready to put in the batter. Do it with a tablespoon. Keep a spoon rest or a dish handy because if you leave the spoon in the mixing bowl, you'll lose it and have to go fishing into the batter for it, and this doesn't add anything to the taste. Make the pancakes any size you like them. The average griddle will take eight medium-sized pancakes. By adroit maneuvering, you can get three into a single large frying pan. When they begin to bubble on top and the edges look browned, it's time to turn them.

IF YOU'VE DONE everything right so far, and if you understand pancakes, they won't stick when you turn them. If you do have a little trouble turning them, ease your spatula under one edge, inch it slowly toward the opposite edge, gently, gently, until the pancake is free. Then turn it. It's not necessary to flip a pancake up toward the ceiling. That's for the Grade-B movie about the prospector in the mining shack. If you do it in your kitchen, hardly anybody will applaud, and it will show that you don't understand pancakes at all. Just turn the pancakes gently and easily, and then allow them to brown on the second side. For some fantastic reason, one side will always be a little browner than the other. Don't ask me why. It's a phenomenon. When you take off your first batch of pancakes, put your second batch on before serving what you already have. By the time you get back to the stove again, the new batch may be ready for turning.

Don't serve pancakes in any fancy way, like putting ice cream on them or fruit or brandy or whipped cream. Just put a generous lump of butter on top of each pancake in the stack, and then liberally pour either sirup or molasses over them. It isn't advisable to put more than four pancakes in a stack. Excessive depth makes them difficult to cut and difficult to handle on the fork. If you put four in a stack, you can serve two people while your next batch is on the griddle. Pancakes don't encourage simultaneous serving, but there's a lively overlap and, as a result, a built-in anticipation, especially when children are sitting at the table waiting to be served. The cook always gets served last or, when the pancakes are especially successful, not at all. That doesn't matter.

With luck, there may be a few left for the cook.

A Short Time In Portugal

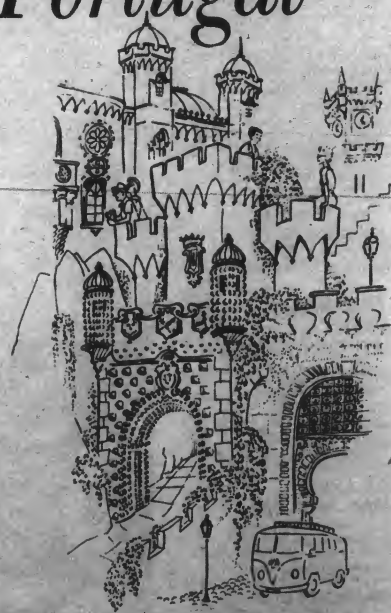

Here is a glimpse of the celebrated traveller's forthcoming book

BY EMILY KIMBROUGH

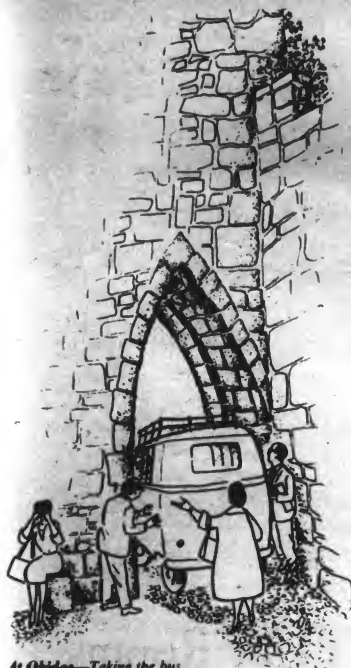

AUTHOR OF "OUR HEARTS WERE YOUNG AND GAY"

I have never been in a country in which the landscape changed so frequently and so abruptly from plains to mountains with barren, rocky sides to vine covered hills to lush pastures, to stark, ominous cliffs, to softy rounded coves, and sandy beaches... There were waterfalls of purple bougainvillea, carpets of geraniums, splatters of blue plumbago through dark ferns, mimosa like shimmering sunlight... I had tasted port before. I think my impression of the drink, as much from English novels as from my own experience, was that it is a heavy wine. It is nothing of the kind in Portugal. As a matter of fact, it is very nearly everything in texture, bouquet, taste, and color. Each place we visited had its own favorites and served them exclusively. We never found a port we did not like... There is no library in the world so beautiful as the library at Coimbra. It holds only three rooms. They are large and high, separated by a high and wide marble arch. Slender pillars along the side, patterned and embossed in gold, support stacks in a gallery above. As we came from the building and stood on the steps a moment, Sophy said, "After what we've seen, the sun looks vulgar."

Table Scraps Can Short-Change Your Dog

Do right by the dog
you love... balance each meal with
GRO-PUP Ribbon

When you feed your dog table scraps, you can never be sure he's getting all the nutrients he needs. And yet, to stay fit and strong, he should have a well-balanced diet every day.

That's why thoughtful families are adding Gro-Pup Ribbon to every scrap meal they feed. Gro-Pup is an unusual kind of dog food. It contains an extra bonus of vital protein, important vitamins and minerals—far in excess of the minimum levels set by the National Research Council. Even when fed with large amounts of "unbalanced" leftovers, the high nutrient level of Gro-Pup can safeguard against improper diet. When you feed Gro-Pup every day, you can enjoy the confidence that your dog is getting an abundance of the essentials he needs for a long and healthy life.

Why don't you start tomorrow?

Eight Rooms And Swimming Room

The Irving Stones of Shaker Heights, Ohio, swim in this house all year round

"WE HAVE only four months of summer in our region," says Mr. Irving Stone of Shaker Heights, Ohio, and he adds with indisputable logic, "The indoor heated swimming pool is the answer."

The pool in his house is free-form, nine feet deep, the central feature of a big, handsome room approximately 30 feet square. The ceiling goes up two stories to a height of twenty-four feet, and the walls are of narrow wood panels, stained a pale blue-green, alternating with side panels of a marble pebbled surface which matches the marble pebbled floor.

In addition to the pool, furnishings of the swimming room include all kinds of exercise apparatus, a small bar, and a wrought-iron bridge table and chairs upholstered in the same pale blue-green as the panels on the wall. Masses of tropical plants—palms and philodendrons and shiny-leaved ficus—flourish in the pleasant, moist atmosphere and make a living screen for a useful but unglamorous hot-air heating system.

A blower, built into the ceiling, helps remove excess moisture and keeps the room comfortable at all times.

The Stones' own bedroom adjoins the pool, and by an inspiration a blue wrought-iron stairway leads directly from the pool to the other bedrooms on the second story, making it possible for a happy child or guest to hurry through his white-shuttered door and down to the water the minute he is waked up in the morning. Showers and two blue-tiled dressing rooms open directly off the pool.

In addition to the swimming room, the house has other unusual features. There is a huge family room, for instance, with a built-in playpen and a hi-fi and TV and various game tables which are stored behind sliding teak panels when they are not being used. This room serves as a library, too, and reading lights concealed in the ceiling shine directly down on the comfortable, big leather chairs where the Stones retire with their books, sure of privacy when they need it in that 21' x 30' open space.

The color scheme here is amber and aquamarine against a light Italian marble floor.

Next to the family room, and a contrast in every way, is the small, brilliant breakfast room upholstered in white and gold, and decorated all around the walls with a conventionalized mural of Siam painted in the clear emeralds and sapphires and crimsons of Siamese silks.

There is not a single fireplace in the whole big house, a fact which seems surprising till you consider that a snapping open fire is hardly to be expected in a house where, winter or summer, people spend a great deal of their time in bathing suits!

One last note on a special piece of equipment in the family room—the Stones have installed a "real" soda fountain here for the benefit of the young, complete with ice-cream wells, siphons, and pumps that squirt out strawberry, chocolate, or vanilla, for the asking.

A pool to splash in, a rubber swan to ride on, and when you finally climb out a little breathless and waterlogged, a delicious homemade soda at hand—here, for once, is a house after a child's own heart.

New ideas for Old Fashion French Dressings no one can buy

...recipes with this favorite GOOD SEASONS MIX

Good Seasons Old Fashion French Dressing. Subtly flavored with herbs and spices, this is the kind of oil-and-vinegar dressing mixed by master chefs. Light, fresh—truly continental. Takes just seconds to mix. Easy directions are on the Good Seasons envelope. You combine your favorite oil, vinegar and a little water with the Mix. The water, or a substitute liquid, makes the blend smoother. You can use many substitutes—see recipes below for suggestions.

French Cottage Cheese Dressing. Prepare the Good Seasons Dressing but substitute two tablespoons of cottage cheese for the water. This makes the herb-spice flavor a little brighter. And the flecks of cottage cheese add a creamy contrast—nice touch in tossed salads.

Rum-Nut French Dressing. Just use light rum instead of the water in the dressing. Final touch: 2 tablespoons of chopped nuts. Delightful on all fruit salads. Or in one of mixed greens, slices of avocado and apple. This is one salad with fruit that men really like.

Sesame Seed French Dressing. Add two tablespoons of toasted sesame seeds to your Old Fashion French Dressing. Adds a crisp and nut-like taste to perk up all green salads. Especially fine in spinach salads.

Get the new Good Seasons crust, with measurements marked, where you buy the 8 Mixes: Italian, Classic, Cheese-Garlic, Onion, Blue Cheese, Exotic Herbs, Garlic, Old Fashion French.

Which word is older, Gin or Gordon's?

"Gin" came into the language around 1700 by way of the French "genievre," meaning juniper. "Gordon's" comes from Alexander Gordon, the genius whose secret gin formula set Londoners agog in 1769. The Gordon's you drink today harks back to this self-same formula. It's still secret, and as far as the people at Gordon's are concerned, that is as it should be, for in nearly two centuries no other gin has duplicated Gordon's distinctive dryness and flavour. Are you wondering if it's the world's biggest seller? It is. Indeed, to most people the words "gin" and "Gordon's" are by now synonymous.

Back in the 20's, that remark was a laudatory expression that might be paraphrased in the vernacular of the 60's as—the most! These two modes of expression have nothing in common. But—20's or 60's—there's one cocktail that's common to the cognoscenti and connoisseurs of both eras. Today—as in bygone days—everybody's buzzing about that bonanza of the bar: The Stinger.

The Stinger

1 1/2 oz. brandy, 1 1/2 oz. Cointreau White Creme de Menthe. Shake vigorously with cracked ice and strain into cocktail glass.

The author, at the wheel of the bus owned by 28 friends.

WE BOUGHT OUR OWN BUS TO COMMUTE

BY LOU ZIMELOW

En route—commuters play bridge, also sing, chat, and read.

Now they ride in style

WE CALL OURSELVES Read-Riders, Inc. (Our motto is "Either you're ready—or you get left.") I'm the chief driver of the do-it-yourself commuter bus that now slips twenty-eight of us through the Detroit traffic blockade twice a day.

We started, of course, as a routine car pool of five businessmen, living outside the city in Birmingham and Royal Oak, and one night at an investment club we all belong to we got to talking about the home-to-job transportation problems.

"It seems as if every time it's my turn to drive," said the president of the club, "that's just the day my wife needs the car."

"The same thing happens at our house," one of the group, Jack Keenan agreed. "Man, there's hardly a day that my wife doesn't need the car. If she doesn't have to take one of the kids to the doctor, she has to pick up something at the store."

Ted Sura, who is a lawyer (with a lawyer's imagination) said, "I know how we could leave all the cars home—all we have to do is buy a bus!"

That got a laugh—but then I began to wonder.

"It might not be as crazy as it sounds," I said. "What if we all chipped in and got a nine-passenger station wagon? Then we could take more fellows into the car pool to help pay for the wagon."

"Yes," said our friend, Pat Walsh, "and besides that, we'd be taking extra cars off the crowded streets that way. And all nine of the wives would have a car at home for errands, and if it's a spare, all the better."

Before the evening was over we had got to the point where Ted was volunteering to bird-dog the legal angles.

He learned that we could own and operate our own vehicle by organizing a nonprofit corporation. And we wouldn't need the expensive commercial licenses because this would be a private bus.

This gave us the green light to get one of those foreign station-wagon type busses, pick a name, and apply for incorporation.

THAT WAS IN 1956. Two years later, we traded the foreign job for a used 25-passenger commercial coach of American vintage, almost tripling our capacity. It was at this time that we started accepting members of the fair sex.

Then last May we acquired our pride and joy—a shiny new aqua-and-ivory dream seating 27 passengers. We call her "The Rocket" because she has so much more get-up-and-go than our other vehicles had.

From The Rocket's windows our shuttling gang can look snugly at the cars alongside, behind, and ahead of us. And they can rejoice because they're not out there squeezing cars through that paved bottleneck of squealing rubber and jumpy nerves.

Inside our bus, they're playing bridge or pinochle, reading their newspapers, or just talking. Sometimes they get going with a songfest or a round of jokes. Whatever it is, it's fun. We have a constant turnover in membership with people changing jobs, getting married, or moving. But still, Read-Riders is a convivial bunch.

In fact, some of the Read-Riders think the chief advantage of our system is riding back and forth to work with congenial people.

On top of that, Read-Riders is a good deal financially. We meet monthly installments of $200 on our bus, pay for licenses, gas, parking, insurance, and upkeep. As treat-for $15 a month

urer, I pay our expenses by collecting $15 a month dues from each member.

This is cheaper than taking a bus or train. Public transportation would cost a minimum of 90 cents a day. Figuring 21 working days a month, that's $3.90 more than our dues.

We have one other advantage. We make better time than the public busses because we don't have to stop for as many passengers. I make only six stops after we leave the north Royal Oak service station where the bus is gassed, serviced, and parked at night. Most of our passengers climb aboard there.

We start at 7:55 a.m. In winter, a station attendant warms up the motor for us, so the heaters are going full blast before we get going.

ALL I HAVE TO DO each morning is set my brief case alongside the driver's seat, flick on my portable radio, and turn the big steering wheel toward downtown Detroit, straight down Woodward Avenue and 14 miles away.

I would rather drive The Rocket in traffic than my own car. Even a woman could drive this bus, if she wasn't wearing spike heels.

I drop the last passenger at the Penobscot Building in the heart of downtown Detroit by 8:40 a.m. Then I drive to an out-of-the-way parking lot where it costs only $12.50 a month for each of the two spaces the bus fills. That's about half what we would pay for a closer lot.

Before I go to my office, I still have time to walk back every morning and join seven other Read-Riders for a fast cup of coffee.

We start back home at 5:10 p.m. sharp, and by 5:15 I've picked up all the riders. We're back at the service station by 5:55.

I stay in Detroit to bowl once a week. Credit man Bill Wagner takes the wheel for me that night, or when I'm on vacation.

In the last three years, we've been late for work only twice. Both times, it was because we were slowed to a crawl by severe snowstorms.

Commenting on our service, one of our riders, John Cole, says he has three reasons for preferring our setup—convenience, economy, and companionship. He likes being sure of a seat each morning, and as a former car pooler he likes having "someone else" (namely, me) bucking traffic for him.

I guess that about sums up everybody's feelings, whether they're secretaries or managers. And we have some of each in Read-Riders, along with advertising men and insurance agents. I'm a technical writer for an advertising agency. One of our members admits to being chief clerk for a railroad!

We get along so well that we all get together twice a year with our spouses—once at Christmas time and again for a summer outing.

An organization like ours isn't hard to get started. All it takes is a group of people with common working hours, plus a guy or girl with a driver's license, who's reliable and can stick to a schedule that suits the majority.

Once you get a driver, you need an insurance policy for liability and collision-damage protection. And, of course, you need a vehicle.

WE PAID $8,000 for The Rocket. Our other bus was cheaper. Being an older girl and secondhand, she only cost $800 plus the investment of about $1200 to reupholster the seats and put in a new motor. When we get The Rocket paid for, we'll invest the monthly payments in a fund to replace her when she is old and feeble.

For me, driving a bus is fun. And I get a big whiz out of my 27 back-seat drivers. Take a typical morning: Fran Magill climbs up the steps to board the bus, and I hear Ron Mansell say, "Gee, you sound peppy this morning, Fran. Clump. Clump. Clump." Then one of the girls sits down and gets kidded while the girl behind her remedies something—the zipper in back of her dress. It wasn't zipped the last two inches. From one of the rolling bridge games, I hear everybody yell when a player makes a slam.

By 8:40 a.m. the Rocket has deposited all the passengers in downtown Detroit.

You see why we call it "Fun Bus." We have other names on the special destination sign up front that helps to show that ours is a private coach. In addition to the usual "Private Coach" sign, we can display "Read-Riders Special," "Read-Riders Rocket Express," or "Read-Riders Only!"

In spite of these signs, strangers try to get on when we stop to pick up a member. Then I have to tell the would-be passenger that it's a private bus and I can't pick him up.

Sometimes, though, if there's a vacancy in the organization, I tell the stranger, "You can come along as our guest and try us out for a day."

Many a new Read-Rider has been born that way, after a card-playing, songfesting, convenient, economical ride downtown.

"We think alike about so many things. Take Tampax, for instance. Mother's the one who told me about it. She's such an active person, and she knows I like to be active, too. She explained how Tampax absorbs internally. How it's unfelt and invisible when it's in place. And that means you can tub or shower and be just as active as you like every single day all year 'round. It's wonderful when your mother understands so much about what's important to you."

Many mothers tell their daughters about Tampax because they want to spare their girls the discomfort and embarrassment of "the other way." Tampax® internal sanitary protection is so much nicer, more convenient. There's no odor, no chafing, and no disposal problem. Tampax users number among the millions—both married and single women. They say Tampax is a better way. Why not ask your mother, or some older woman you can confide in? Our good reputation is your reassurance. Tampax Incorporated, Palmer, Mass.

Resident Asks Help to Enjoy Boardwalk Area

VIRGINIA BEACH—The boardwalk is one of the most important things in Virginia Beach and I think a little more attention should be paid to it," Malcolm Firth told City Council Monday afternoon.

Firth, a retired Army man who has made his home on Holly Road for about a year, appeared before the Council to ask them to clean up the beach and boardwalk and restore the Junior Chamber of Commerce benches that were toppled during Hurricane Esther.

City Manager W. Russell Hatcher told Firth that the Jaycees would be asked to replace the benches and a clean-up job would get underway when some of the city employees presently working on the widening of 17th Street were free to do the work.

For Study
The Council approved an appropriation of $5,000 for the study committee of a proposed merger between Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County. The Board of Supervisors recently approved $10,000 for the same purpose.

Elmer Tarrall, representing the electrical board, presented a resolution before the Council commending the efforts of the late James V. Caffrey, the city's first full time electrical inspector.

The resolution was incorporated in the minutes and the Business Unit

UCF Drive Is Underway Here

VIRGINIA BEACH—About 175 businesses in the area will be called on before Tuesday in the second phase of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne United Community Fund drive.

The first phase was held during the summer when about 116 summer businesses, including hotels and motels, were solicited. This drive, headed by Roy Neil, ended late in August.

The Business Unit Division, headed by Jack Haden and Earl Slatum as co-chairmen, held its first report meeting Monday night. Although only about half of the businesses have been called on the response indicates a great increase over last year's drive, Slatum said.

The drive, which incorporates about $5 to 40 workers, got underway October 9 and will run through Tuesday.

Perhaps one of the main factors in the great increase this year, J. B. Wood, unit chairman, said, was the recent opening of the United Services Building on 19th Street and Pacific Avenue.

The third phase of the drive will get underway the last week in October and extend through Nov. 3 when the women's division, headed in this area by Mrs. E. B. Tankersley, when solicit in residential sections.

The entire drive will close after Nov. 3 when all reports will be completed and turned in to the Norfolk office.

Postmaster Exams Here Being Taken

VIRGINIA BEACH—Examinations for postmaster at the Virginia Beach Post Office are now being given. The United States Civil Service Commission announced last week.

Application forms may be obtained from the Commission in Washington, D.C., or from the local post office. Closing date will be Nov. 7. Salary for the position is $7,500 a year.

Stock Sale of Cavalier Club Now Planned

VIRGINIA BEACH—A large group of community-spirited citizens met last week to work out the financial problems of the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club.

Since the club was bought some months ago by the Southwestern Development Company members have been attempting to raise $650,000 to purchase the land.

The first plan was for members to buy $1500 bonds to furnish the money to buy the club. Response from this effort was too light to make the plan work. Under the present set up $300,000 has been borrowed from four banks—the National Bank of Commerce, the Seaboard Citizens Bank, the Southern Bank of Norfolk and the Bank of Virginia Beach.

This loan will be paid back at the rate of $4,000 per month, including interest and principal, which will come from operation of the club facilities.

The next step will be to sell 3,300 shares of stock, at $100 each, to interested persons. With this $330,000 the members will not only be able to pay for the property but will also have $40,000 for expanded club operations.

These stockholders will be incorporated in an organization to be known as the Cavalier-Birdneck Land Corporation. Persons who had previously bought the $1500 bonds will have that amount converted to 15 shares of stock.

Children Theatre Play December 9

VIRGINIA BEACH—The first production of Virginia Beach Children's Theatre, "The Bird's Christmas Carol," has been scheduled for Dec. 9 at Virginia Beach High School.

The theatre is sponsored by Friends School and Mrs. Mary Deal is the director.

Tryouts will be held Oct. 25-27 at the school from 3 to 5 p.m.

The characters will include five "adults" (for older children): Mr. Bird, Mrs. Bird, Jack Bird, Elfrida Clifford and Mrs. Ruggles; and eight parts for smaller children.

Little Theatre's 'Blythe Spirit' In Busy Rehearsal Sessions

An idea for a novel by a British playwright, followed by a scene and the return of the playwright's dead first wife, is the basic plot of Noel Coward's comedy, "Blythe Spirit" which will be presented by the Virginia Beach Little Theatre October 31 and November 1 at the Virginia Beach High School Auditorium. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

The improbable farce features Bob Ghez as the playwright; Betsy Maxwell as the ghost of his first wife and Carey Jones as his very much alive second wife, Anne Penington, who also directs, portrays the Medium and Norman Lucas and Mary Linda League are the couple present at the playwright's home during the scene, Carol Joyner is the maid.

Originally presented in Manchester, England in 1941, the Coward farce made its American debut with Clifton Webb, Peggy Wood and Mildred Natwick in starring roles. As a matter of fact, the author himself portrayed the lead on television several years ago.

New Blue Law Eyebrow Lifter

VIRGINIA BEACH—The state's Blue Law, prohibiting the sale of certain articles on Sunday, came onto the Virginia Beach scene Sunday with a slight lift of the eyebrow.

"We had many inquiries," Police Sergeant Henry Capps said, "but the police department knows so little about it themselves, since we haven't received a copy of the law, it was difficult to advise anyone."

The public, though accepting the law reasonably well, handled it their own way in a few instances.

W. L. O'Connell, manager of Peoples Drugs on Laskin Road, said one man came in Sunday looking for a household item to help him with needed repairs at home.

"I couldn't sell the item to him, of course. But later in the day I noticed it was gone. He needed it so badly I guess he just took it."

This happened throughout the day O'Connell said. "We kept finding dimes laying on the counter where people would come in, pick up an item they needed, such as books, buttons or such, leave the money for it and walk out."

Business in the Virginia Beach store has dropped to about half, he said. The law will cause two, possibly three, hour shifts to be cut out.

"Naturally this is going to effect the personnel. It will especially effect the part-time help," he said.

The main problem now seems to be the interpretation of the law. One store manager reported that he was restricting the sale of certain items only to find that a manager on another shift was selling them. "We each took a different view on what was to be sold," he said.

A spot check among other drug stores and grocery stores showed that the law did not cause too many headaches the

Pancake Sale Next Week

VIRGINIA BEACH—The Virginia Beach Exchange Club will hold its annual Aunt Jemima Pancake Party Wednesday from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Fire Station.

Proceeds will be used for the club's youth welfare fund. Price of the meals will be $1.00 for adults, 50 cents for children.

Family Hit by Fire Twice in Past Five Years

VIRGINIA BEACH—Complete desolation struck the Franklin Stafford family again Monday for the second time in five years.

Their 16th Street home was gutted by fire Monday morning and all household goods, furniture and clothing were destroyed. Five years ago everything they owned was wiped out in floods in West Virginia.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Stafford and their two children, Fran, 5, and Teresa, 8-week-old, were uninjured, their small dog suffocated in the fire.

Just three weeks ago they bought three rooms of new furniture—now it is only ashes. Until they can find another apartment, the family will stay with Mrs. Stafford's mother.

Mrs. Stafford's mother, where Stafford has been employed for two years, started a fund for the family this week to help them get a "fresh start." Contributions may be sent to the store.

Donations of household goods and clothing are also needed. Sizes include: Teresa, 18 month size; Fran, size 5; Mrs. Stafford, size 12; and Stafford, pants, 30 waist, 30 length and medium shirts.

Merger Group Meeting Friday

Consultant May Report on Consolidation of City-County

VIRGINIA BEACH—The legal consultant employed by the study committee for a possible Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County consolidation may have a report for the group when they meet Friday at 9:30 a.m. at City Hall.

Harry Frazier, an attorney with the Richmond firm of Hampton, Williams, Gay, Powell and Gibson, was obtained by the committee last week as legal consultant assisting the committee with secretarial work.

The City Council Monday voted to appropriate $5,000 for the study group to assist them in a feasible plan for a possible merger. This brings the total amount of appropriated funds to $15,000. The Board of Supervisors approved $10,000 last week toward the study.

Headed by J. W. Wood and Sidney Kellam as co-chairmen, the committee also consists of Frank Dickinson, Clayton Q. Nugent, Lee Bonney, Roger L. Riggs, A. L. Bonney, Charles Burlage, Alton Williams, D. W. Gregory and Roland Chandler.

The possibility of a merger between the city, with over 8,000 population, and the county, with more than 90,000, came before the public last month with a statement from Mayor Frank A. Dusch and Board of Supervisors Chairman Paul E. Brown.

First A Plan
If a workable plan can be drawn up by the study group, it is possible that the plan and the Virginia Beach City charter will be brought before the General Assembly when it meets in January or February.

The detailed plan, which must contain a proposed new charter and meet with the approval of both governing bodies, would be sent to Princess Anne County Circuit Court which would order a referendum and advertise it.

GALILEE BAZAAR

The annual Galilee Episcopal Church bazaar is scheduled to be held on Nov. 15, according to an announcement made Wednesday.

Mutual Federal Building New Princess Anne County Branch

NORFOLK—Mutual Federal Savings and Loan Association of Norfolk today announced plans for the establishment of its fifth office in the Tidewater area. The new branch, approved this month by the Federal Home Loan Bank in Greensboro, will be located at the southeast corner of Virginia Beach Boulevard and Haycock Drive. It will be the only federal savings and loan office located in Princess Anne County.

Mutual Federal now has branches in Portsmouth, Virginia Beach and on Little Creek Road in Norfolk. The main office of the association is at Boush and Bute Streets in downtown Norfolk.

An architectural rendering, released for publication today, reveals an adaptation of the classic design carried out in all of the firm's offices. President Clayton Q. Nugent, in making the announcement, said that special high-fidelity speakers will be installed on the roof of the building to carry the music of the bells to the surrounding neighborhood.

Mr. Nugent said that the decision to establish facilities in Princess Anne County was prompted by the remarkable growth rate of that area—one of the highest in the United States. It is the aim of the association, he said, to take its services to the public with the greatest degree of convenience possible. The savings and loan industry, the president pointed out, has established a phenomenal growth rate since the end of World War II principally because of this attitude of public service.

Seahawks Face Unbeaten Eleven

The Virginia Beach Seahawks get back into Group Two competition this week when they face unbeaten and group leader Northampton Friday night at Northampton. Beaten last week by Group One Suffolk, 16-0, the Hawks hope to upset the favored Northampton, a team that sports a 5-0 record for the season.

Northampton Coach Carl Kane has a high regard for the Virginia Beach team. He says the Hawks are the biggest team, physically, on the Northampton schedule.

In the Suffolk game the Red Raiders got their first score on a Seahawk fumble at the Virginia Beach 43. A pass sent the Raiders on their way and two plays later they had a score.

Virginia Beach is 2-1 in the conference and they are determined to trip the high-flying Northampton eleven. Coach Bowyer of the Hawks believes his team is ready mentally for the test.

The Seahawks came out of the bruising Suffolk game in good shape.

The Hawks gave a good account of themselves last week against Suffolk. They held the Raiders scoreless through the first period and gave up lone touchdowns in the second and third quarters. The Red Raiders kicked a field goal in the final period.

Hampton Latest Victim of P.A.

Followers and coaches of the Princess Anne Cavaliers wish that they could start the current football season over again. After losing their first two encounters the Cavaliers have been roaring and last week ran roughshod over Hampton, 34 to 0.

First Bow Creek Hole-in-one Posted

PRINCESS ANNE PLAZA — The first hole-in-one at Bow Creek Golf and Country Club was made Sunday by Dr. A. Lombard.

Playing with Mickey Kramer and Lee Hofheimer, Dr. Lombard made the shot on the second hole, a 168 yard par 3, by using a 4 iron.

Also on the course Sunday afternoon was a foursome made up of J. Glenn Taylor, president of WAVY-TV, Kurt Webster, Paul Downs, and John Aragona, builder of the club.

This week Princess Anne takes on unbeaten Oscar Smith and its homecoming game at Cox Stadium Friday night. Kick-off time is set for 8 p.m.

Smith has been working on pass defense all week in anticipation of the passing prowess of the Cavalier's Buster O'Brien. His ace receives is sophomore Chuckie Carr.

The first two touchdowns against Hampton were on passes from O'Brien to Carr so it is understandable why the Smith eleven has been drilling to stop this attack which is becoming the most feared in the district.

Coach Pete Sachon seems to have his Cavaliers over their jitters and on their way to a successful season. They have lost to Great Bridge and Norview but have dumped Granby, Newport News and Hampton.

In the Hampton game Steve Miller was a defensive standout for the Cavaliers. He recovered three fumbles and blocked a punt.

IMPERIAL OF 1962

IMPERIAL LEBARON FOUR-DOOR SOUTHAMPTON

A forthright challenge to everyone who plans to buy a luxury car this year

In a few days, you will receive a personal invitation to drive a 1962 Imperial. Not the usual vague "see your dealer" . . . but a specific challenge to compare your own car with the best Imperial we've ever built.

At your convenience, a dealer in your area will deliver a 1962 Imperial to you . . . for a thorough comparison-tour that you conduct by yourself.

We believe anyone planning to invest from five to seven thousand dollars in an automobile is entitled to the unembroidered facts right from the car itself.

Naturally, our dealers explain the advantages of torsion-bar suspension . . . tell you how the alternator supplies current even while the engine idles . . . quote engineering data on the superior performance of our new transmission . . . and answer any other question you ask about Imperial.

But you can find out only so much about Imperial by mere listening. To give the facts substance and meaning you must drive and compare.

So, when our invitation arrives, take us up on it. It obligates you not at all. And whether you eventually buy an Imperial or not, you'll never forget that once you drove a car which handled and accelerated and thrilled as a great car is supposed to.

R.S.V.P. Even though our invitation may somehow miss you, an Imperial comparison-tour may easily be arranged by writing on your letterhead to: General Manager, Imperial Division, 12260 East Jefferson, Detroit, Michigan.

Midget Football

The Blue Devils of Coach
Bobby Barco unleashed a potent air attack against a stubborn defense of the Wolfpack, Saturday to defeat the Wolves 20-7 and take over the top spot in the Virginia Beach Midget football league. John Donohoe connected with Bill Mayo on two scoring aeriels, one covering 40 yards and the other good for 30 yards. Steve Mundy added the other tally on a 3-yard buck over center. The Wolfpack talley came on a 60-yard jaunt by Tim Wood in the early stages of the game.

Defensively Rocky Van Patten, Mike Todd and Eric Hansen did a memorable job for the Blue Devils while Mike Strickler and Zack Clement spotlighted the Wolfpack defense.

In the second game the Hornets played their second tie in as many games, as the Bulldogs Buddy Mathews broke loose on a 75-yard run with the kickoff opening the second half of play, after Mike Doolin of the Hornets had run the game opening kickoff back 70 yards to put them in front 6-0.

Both teams failed on the PATs resulting in a 6-6 tie.
Craig Waring of the Bulldogs drew high praise from Coach Entwistle of the Bulldogs for a job well done with only four days of practice. Chip McQuilkin, Hornet quarterback was also very outstanding. Defensivly, Gary Price and Mike Doolin were towers of strength for the Hornets, while Earl Austin, and Billy Flarmont were stalwarts for the Bulldogs.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

The UCF Needs YOU

The second phase of the annual United Communities Fund campaign for funds is now underway in Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County. This phase of solicitation is among the business places in the area. The drive began on October 9 and runs through October 24.

In August the UCF conducted its fund raising campaign among hotels and motels here and the response came as a pleasant surprise to UCF officials. The contributions ran some 50 percent better than a year ago.

The UCF does not belong to the officials or volunteer workers in the fund drive. The UCF is the property of every man, woman and child in the community or area the Fund serves.

Later this month the UCF will conduct the third phase of its program, that of soliciting in the residential areas. It is to be emphasized that the volunteer solicitors are working for YOU. They give their time to this worthwhile project and each individual should be ready to make his or her contribution when the worker calls.

The UCF this year established an office in Virginia Beach and the people of the area are now able to avail themselves of the service of several agencies of the UCF. The Virginia Beach office of UCF is located at the corner of 19th street and Pacific avenue.

The UCF deserves the support of all our citizens. We trust that everyone will give his fair share as the fund drive progresses.

Something We Need Is Thrift

This week the spotlight is focused on Thrift as we celebrate National Thrift Week. The theme this year is one that could remain year after year. It is "save regularly—you'll be glad you did."

In this day and age there is a great need to exercise thrift in our economy, in our government, and in individual lives. The habit of saving is essential to the growth of our economy and no age is too young for a person to begin acquiring this thrift habit.

There is an unequalled independence derived by individuals who do their own saving for present and future needs. But, saving must be done consistently and regularly.

National Newspaper Week

This is National Newspaper Week and this is the 22nd annual observance. This is a time when we reflect on the work of the nation's press.

The theme of National Newspaper Week this year is most appropriate, we believe, in that it is "Your Newspaper—Heritage of Truth—Frontier of Freedom."

Your newspaper plays a vital role in the maintenance of our freedoms. The Sun-News, in its place in the overall picture, likes to feel that it is rendering a service to its readers and to the area it serves. It certainly has only the welfare of its readers and area in mind.

There is little difference between the jobs of the large metropolitan newspaper publisher and the small town publisher, except that the small town newspaper publisher's job is harder.

There are about 1,500 big newspapers in the United States vs. about 10,000 small-town, small-sized, local newspapers. While the big fellow reports to no one but himself, the small-town publisher reports to every man, woman and child in his town and in the community his paper serves. This is not meant to be derogatory to big city papers. They perform their own kind of services.

But, along with these facts about newspapers we would like to remind our readers that behind every page and subconsciously underlying each editorial is a code of ethics to which we subscribe.

These canons of journalism were drawn up and adopted by the American Society of Newspaper Editors in their annual conventions of 1924 and 1925. The 1926 convention of Sigma Delta Chi officially adopted the Canons also in behalf of the Journalistic Society.

These Canons state that "the primary function of newspapers is to communicate to the human race what its members do, feel and think. Journalism, therefore, demands of its practitioners the widest range of intelligence, of knowledge, and of experience, as well as natural and trained power of observation and reasoning. To its opportunities as a chronicle are indissolubly linked its obligations as teacher and interpreter."

It is with these Canons in mind this newspaper exercises its function. If we waver, the course is not by intention.

SURFSIDE '61

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company took one giant step toward progress over the weekend with its installation of Direct Distance Dialing for the more than 200,000 subscribers in the Tidewater area—Norfolk, Portsmouth, Virginia Beach, Suffolk, Princess Anne, Whaleyville and Great Bridge. This simply means that by picking up your telephone receiver you have direct contact with about 50 million other telephones throughout the United States and Canada. All you need is the combination.

A little Blue Book, distributed by the company, is your key. There you can find the distance state's prefix number, add the number you wish to reach, dial and talk... that's all there is to it. All that, is, providing you dialed the right number. A slip of the finger might connect you with California (408) rather than Wisconsin (608). This is not as serious as it sounds, however. By reporting your error immediately to the regular long distance operator, she will cancel the charge.

If you wish to reach a number within the state you must remember one important thing—dial "1" followed by the seven-digit number you are calling. It's that simple. If you are making a person-to-person call, or any call that requires help from an operator, dial "0" and go through the regular channels.

Since only seven digit numbers can be used in DDD, all Princess Anne numbers had to be changed. The number 428 now precedes all regular numbers and 821 precedes all Knots Island numbers. Blue books carrying these changes were recently mailed out to all Princess Anne subscribers.

As a representative of this paper, I was privileged to attend the news conference luncheon the C&P Telephone Company held last week at the Golden Triangle at the invitation of local manager L. Floyd Patrick. The lovely young woman giving the informative lecture, Mrs. Flora Burns, asked me if I would make a call to anyone in the United States so that the conversation could be amplified in the room and show how simple it all is. With such an opportunity I couldn't find a single person I knew that lived in a DDD area. Shows what a backwoods gal I really am!

After the luncheon Mr. Patrick took me on a tour of the Norfolk C&P building and it was quite a revelation. Not much of the mechanical operation registered with me but the work of the many operators was most impressive. In one spotless room there were over 50 women sitting at the information board. Every time a person dials information the call goes directly into the headset so that there is no waiting for an answer. The long distance room is filled with rows of complicated looking boards and women smart enough to operate them. An operator is trained individually for 10 days by a supervisor before she is permitted to use the board.

Telephones are one of the things people take for granted. Only when it doesn't work do we become aware of it. But behind the scenes are hundreds of men and women and expensive equipment working around the clock to provide this service. I, for one, have become more appreciative of their efforts.

The Alan B. Shepard Convention Center's Bill Lillyman recently sent a speed letter to Toronto, Canada, for reservations at the Westbury Hotel. When the letter was returned to confirm his request it was accidentally routed to Cmdr. Shepard at Langley Field. He sent it on to Lillyman with this notation: "This is yours—I get enough mail as it is! Regard, Shepard." Such is the price of being famous.

Victor Borge presented his hilarious "Comedy in Music" show to an enthusiastic capacity crowd Friday night at Norfolk's Municipal Auditorium. For more than two and a half hours the fabulous Mr. Borge kept his audience in stitches and it was quite an accomplishment since most of them were sitting uncomfortably on hard folding chairs and bleachers. His delightful antics were only outdone by his few serious piano selections but no matter what he did the crowd loved it. The real highlights of the evening came as a surprise to everyone, including Borge, when he accidentally splintered the piano bench in one of his more enthusiastic antics. He is one comedian who can do more with a sly look or sour note than most entertainers can do with pages of written copy. He is truly an artist.

While the men are looking over the latest 1962 model cars at the Automotive Trade Fair this week end at Princess Anne Plaza, the women will have an opportunity to see what the well-dressed woman should wear with each model. Collin A. Studs, owner of Rose Hall, has prepared a fashion show that will be sprinkled with humor as well as a little county history in its formalities. It isn't designed specifically for the women, he said, it has a bit of the man's angle too. It should be interesting to see what women might wear in the new cars.

Young Karen White was most impressed with Washington after a trip there over the weekend with her mother Mrs. Donald F. White of Bay Colony. When asked what all she had seen she replied "Eleven dead squirrels, one dog, one opossum and one bird lying on the road!" The White House, Washington Monument and Smithsonian Institute can't hold a candle to that.

Who knows what the art world is coming to? Everything from old scraps of paper and bits of broken glass has been incorporated into paintings. Now its worms. Virginia Beach's Mad Mogli, with a shop in the 21st block of Atlantic Avenue, features paintings done by earthworms. He merely dips them in oil, being careful to keep their hands clean, then turns them loose on canvas for some pretty weird effects.

Always coming up with progressive ideas, the Princess Anne County School heads have done it again. They recently put into publication a "School News and Views" pamphlet for school personnel and interested persons. The first edition contained six pages filled with pictures, by-lined stories and many informative tidbits. Under the supervision of Sup't. Frank W. Cox, the paper is edited by Joseph J. Owens Jr., with Miss Louise Luxford, Mrs. Mildred Wilson and Frank Taylor as associate editors and Mrs. Ruby Ann Davis as art editor.

He has held executive positions with the Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch and the Associated Press on the European continent and in the states. In 1959, he was named president of the AP Managing Editors.

Robert Otey, photo editor for AP's Washington Bureau, will conduct the workshop on "Photography," and Robert Mason, managing editor of the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, the workshop on "Writing."

WHY WE CARE — As hair stylists, we are artists—and we wouldn't be in the beauty field if we didn't believe in creating an art form. We accept each customer's individual needs as a new challenge and a new opportunity for us to do our very best. We study carefully to learn how to correct certain tiny flaws in your appearance as we study your hair. This again brings psychology into the field of beauty. If we make you lovelier this will bring you confidence. It will also draw admiration for you and you'll enjoy a new sense of well being and happiness.

WOMAN'S CLUB OF CHESAPEAKE BEACH
CHESAPEAKE BEACH—"To accomplish the good or the great," the Honorable Mills E. Godwin, Jr., told the members of the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach, "over one's own personal gain, there must always be those with foresight and genuine interest and concern for his fellow man, who are not afraid to make a beginning." Senator Godwin spoke to the Club on the occasion of their 21st birthday anniversary.

He was introduced to the audience by Mr. Sidney Kellam, former Treasurer for Princess Anne County and Chairman of the National Democratic Committee from Virginia.

The Democratic Choice for Lt. Governor in the November election, pointed out "that those who were not afraid to begin, founded our Country. He further stated that "We, today, are enjoying a way of life that has seemingly been "handed to us on a silver platter", but our way of life as we live it was made possible by those who, through great faith and a driving desire to find a better way of living, an escape from the greed of kings and the tyranny of dictators, were not afraid to make a new beginning."

Senator Godwin climaxed his remarks with a reference to a Benjamin Franklin story. Following the great historical meeting in Philadelphia, the purpose of which was to arrive at a form of government for our Nation, Mr. Franklin was approached by an anxious waiting group. "What was the decision Mr. Franklin? What kind of government have you given us—a king—a democracy? The great gentleman is said to have replied, "We have given you the greatest of them all—a Republic—if you can keep it."

Mrs. George Robbins, Program chairman for the day, introduced Mrs. John Judge who played several selections on the organ, following which she played for the audience to "Sing Along" with Mrs. Colon L. Powers.

A brief history of the Woman's Club was related by Mrs. Elwood A. Hudson. She praised the work of the young club of 21 years ago, described their efforts for Community improvement at Chesapeake Beach. "They lived," said Mrs. Hudson, "through World War II, and through the changes which followed it, never giving up on the first big project they ever undertook—to provide their area with a Community Center for the special need of their Youth for recreational program. She described their efforts to keep out undesirable businesses with "no design for the betterment of our residential area", and the many ways and means projects which ultimately led to the construction of the present Community Center which also houses the Volunteer Fire Dept. Since its construction quite a few years ago, the two clubs have maintained at their expense, the Community Center. Said Mrs. Hudson, "In the beginning there was just Chesapeake Beach, but today we have a different story. We are made up of a membership which comes from all the areas abounding us—we are neighbors and members together. Progress has brought to Chesapeake Beach the new Bay-Bridge Tunnel and the Tunnel will bring the world to our doorstep. Little Chesapeake Beach is now an intricate part of a thriving, growing Bay-side. The Woman's Club, as always, will continue to grow with a growing Community. We give credit to those who have brought us to this point today, and wish godspeed at those who will carry us into the future."

Special guests invited to the Birthday celebration included in addition to Senator Godwin and Mr. Kellam, Mrs. Sidney Kellam, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll G. Clough, Mr. and Mrs. James Darlene of Lynnhaven, and Mrs. Robert Ingram, President of the Bayside Junior Woman's Club.

Thomas Jefferson Struck By Art Early In Life

In 1766, young Thomas Jefferson went to Philadelphia, then the largest and most prosperous city in the colonies, to stay at the home of Dr. John Morgan, a physician and leading art collector. His purpose was to receive a smallpox inoculation, but the 23-year-old Virginian came away with a lasting taste for art.

This early encounter with an excellent private collection led Jefferson to begin a lifelong quest after paintings, prints & sculpture. As early as 1771, when Monticello was new, its rooms and halls held at least 17 paintings and three terra cotta figures. Later, during Jefferson's residence in Paris as our ambassador to France, he attended art sales and added considerably to his collection which soon grew to be one of the finest in the country.

After Jefferson's death, the collection was broken up and sold and this singular interest of our third president was virtually forgotten by his many biographers.

However, several of the handwritten catalogues were preserved, and when the Virginia Museum decided to re-create the collection for a special exhibition this month in Charlottesville, the lists were still intact.

They reveal Thomas Jefferson as a collector of unusually fine taste with an early interest in religious and moralistic subjects, and a later liking for portraits of historical figures and works by his contemporaries.

With the aid of Monticello's curator, James Bear, the Museum has organized an exhibition called "Pictures Jefferson Wanted" which will open at the University of Virginia Museum next Friday under the auspices of the Albermarle Art Association, a Virginia Museum Affiliate. It will be a major event for Charlottesville this year, which is celebrating the 200th anniversary of its founding.

In addition to 20 paintings by Rubens, Van Dyck, Rosa, Kneller and others, the display will also contain three rare Jefferson catalogues. An 1809 list was lent by the University of Virginia, another compiled between 1789 and 1794 was supplied by Mrs. Page Kirk of Charlottesville, a descendant of Jefferson's, and a post-1790 list was sent from the Massachusetts Historical Society.

The collection will contain Kauffman's portrait of Dr. John Morgan from the University of Pennsylvania Museum, Duplessis' portrait of Benjamin Franklin from the Boston Museum of Art, and a portrait of John Locke by Kneller from the Virginia Museum. A copy of the latter still hangs at Monticello. Other pictures were lent by the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the National Gallery of Art, the Wadsworth Atheneum, the Ringling Museum, the New York Historical Society and the Newhouse Galleries.

"Pictures Jefferson Wanted" will be on display daily at the University of Virginia Museum from October 20 through 29 from 2 to 5 p.m.

BASKIN BELIEVES IN INDIVIDUALISM

VIRGINIA BEACH—With a degree in engineering to his credit and several years of experience as a consultant engineer behind him, Gordon Baskin, principal of Linkhorn Park Elementary School, came to the education field six years ago because he "couldn't keep away from it."

His interest in youngsters had already led him into tutoring mathematics so with the ever-present need for teachers and the encouragement of his wife, Frances, herself a teacher, he accepted a position at Oceana School.

Then Principal
After teaching there a year and a half he was appointed principal of Linkhorn. "That was the real highlight of my life," he said.

A firm believer in individualism, Baskin has been considered, and considers himself, somewhat of a "maverick" in the public school system. But this trait has perhaps contributed to his popularity with parents for he is on a first name basis with most of them and is usually available for consultations or a quick visit.

Space influence
The Russian Sputnik was one of the most important things to happen in education in years, he said. Not only did it create a stronger academic program, but it also made parents more aware of schools and the education system.

"You can't have a really good school system without the intense effort and interest of parents," he said. "The schools are their business — after all, they pay for them! It's their duty to find out what's going on and why."

"Today, more than ever, parents discuss their school. This is a healthy thing. And controversy is also a healthy thing. It is good for parents to discuss their ideas, pro and con, with the teacher and principal. You don't hide problems. You face them... meet them... and explain them."

Really delving into classroom problems and their solutions, Baskin spent most of the summer mer writing a school curriculum for the school's teachers in which he took each grade level explained what should and could be expected and what type of program should be offered.

Baskin does not believe in a "crash program" in mathematics and science at the expense of other subjects. A strong current events program is imperative, he said, but a varied program will help the youngsters better understand people.

While obtaining a master of arts degree from the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, which will be conferred in June, Baskin has been teaching an extension course in mathematics at the college three nights a week for three years.

Married to the former Frances Booker, a native of Princess Anne County, they have four children, Courtney, 12, Gordon, 8, Alan, 6, and Ursula, 4. They make their home on 50th street.

A native of South Carolina, Baskin spent five and a half years in the Army before being discharged as a major and received his BS degree at the

Home Builders
Honor Sancilio

A special award was presented to Mr. Lawrence A. Sancilio at the September membership meeting of the Tidewater Association of Home Builders. The award was for his outstanding services as Chairman of the 1961 Home Show. The Show, held in May at the Norfolk Arena was very successful. Although Mr. Sancilio maintained that the other members of the Home Show Committee contributed as much as he, the Board of Directors of TAHB was of the opinion that his leadership and personal efforts were the major factors in the Show's success.

Mr. Sancilio, head of Larasan Realty Corporation, has been very active in TAHB affairs. He served as Association Secretary in 1960, and has been a member of the Board of Directors for the past three years. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Multiple Listing Service, and has served on the Board of Directors of the Norfolk Real Estate Board.

John Skillman to Chairman Minstrels

John F. Skillman, production chairman of the Princess Anne Ruritan "Minstrels of 1961" has been re-named chairman for the forthcoming "Minstrels of 1962". Skillman recently announced that preliminary arrangements have begun and that tentative dates for the '62 show are set for early spring.

The Sixth Annual Minstrel will be directed by John S. McFall, Jr. McFall has served as director now for four consecutive years, and has gained the distinction in this area of fostering the preservation of one of America's earliest forms of original entertainment.

Skillman also announced that a final accounting of this year's production indicated that the show was most successful financially.

Wade Williams
Joins WTAR-TV

NORFOLK—Wade Williams has been appointed weatherman at WTAR-TV in Norfolk. He comes to the station with a background of fifteen years in the entertainment and broadcast field. He will report the weather at 6:40 and 11:10 each night on Channel 3. The appointment was announced this week by Harold Seldinger, Director of Television, Programming and Operations.

Williams, a native of Durham, N.C., was a scholarship student at the Feagin School of Drama and Radio in New York in 1942. This was interrupted by a three-year tour of duty with the U.S. Air Force as a pilot. After separation, he returned to Feagin and was graduated in 1947. He has done six seasons of summer stock as an actor and director with professional companies in the east.

Williams came to Norfolk in 1954 and joined a new radio station at Virginia Beach where he served as Program Director for three years. In 1960, he won first place in the Virginia Associated Press competition for Metropolitan stations for his coverage of the "African Queen" incident.

This last season, Williams was one of the founders of the Sandpiper Playhouse at Virginia Beach. He served as general manager and artistic director.

European Tour

(This is first of several stories by Mrs. Dale Fairless Witt, presently touring Europe with the Virginia Beach Travel Service-WBOF sponsored "Europe in Autumn" tour, reporting on building trends in various key cities. Mrs. Witt took the trip in her position as president of the National Association of Home Builders Women's Auxiliary and as a consultant for Viking Corp., builders of King's Grant.)

By DALE FAIRLESS WITT
Wonderful Copenhagen! Certainly lives up to its name and reputation. What a clean, well-organized, happy city!

We arrived at 8 a.m., on a huge SAS jet, after flying all night on one of the smoothest of flights I've ever taken, and checked into the hotel. A quick change of shoes, a whisk to our faces, a pass of the lipstick, and away for adventure!

The first stop was at the showroom of the "Royal Copenhagen Porcelain Manufacturing". Just to look at the exquisite artistry of porcelain molded into a myriad of shapes, was an experience to remember. All are on display as if each was a separate gem. Dinnerware, vases (vases), porcelain figures delicate glazings in porcelain—children, birds, flowers, oriental figures and the pieces!!!! The same things, if you could get them in the states, would be at least four to five times as expensive. My companion for the day, Mrs. Janet Borra, a collector of Christmas plates, ordered a current plate for her collection.

Because I wanted to know more about the housing in this lovely city, I called the Ministry of Housing, as I had been instructed to do by NAHB. They were most gracious and suggested that we have lunch at the "Seven Little Houses". First some "Schnapps," then a baby shrimp sandwich, and finally tour of the wine cellar (wines we've never heard of...).

The Ministry had arranged a tour of the city to study their housing at 1 p.m. Delegated to take us, was Mrs. Dorrit Blegard, one of Denmark's leading women architects. This afternoon (even if there were no more events and we returned to the United States) has made this WBOF Beach Travel Agency Tour really worthwhile.

WHAT DID WE LEARN... We visited the new area of development that the government had reclaimed and sold to associations to build apartments and row housing. This project was made attractive to the builders because of low interest loans and much federal aid. When we entered the area the immediate impression was gardens with magnificent buildings rising from large expanses of green area. Different levels, different companies building, seems to give all of this a very pleasing appearance. Interspersed between the buildings are many small shopping areas, recreation areas, and a swimming pool.

Next we saw "Communal Building", designed by Arene Jacobsen, AIA; this entire area is governed separately from Copenhagen.

As the questions popped, Mrs. Blegard had the answers: No, the homes do not have two bathrooms, the most expensive, seldom do.

The downpayment is usually 1/10 of the total and loans run from 60, 40, or 25 years. The carpenters are paid about $1.20 an hour, most of the work is done by piece.

A large home in a best neighborhood, would cost about $60,000 dollars, or more. Definite shortage of cheap apartments or housing. A shortage of wood, plenty of brick.

Where are the screens, as all the windows seem to fold out? Curtains are on the windows at the schools.

Above the entrance to the apartment homes in some areas, they have a different statue of a child, so the little ones can find their way into the right building.

Instead of printed word signs, the stores also have a pictorial type sign; a pretzel in front of a Bake Shop, a steer in front of a meat store, etc. Very picturesquely and also makes it a great deal easier to find what you are looking for, if you don't understand Danish.

Common greens abound, many lakes are scattered throughout the city. Everywhere we saw children in shorts, playing either soccer or football.

Golf is for an exclusive few, tennis for some, but because it is compulsory in the schools, all learn to swim.

On the way back to the city, we saw a multi-story apartment building, built specifically for invalids, beside an orthopedic hospital. The ramps are designed for wheel chairs, the floor plan and the entire operation is designed for invalids, with a restaurant providing food to their apartments, if they desire.

Another point of interest was the University of Copenhagen, the only one in the country with thousands of students. The multi-story dormitory buildings are used as hotels in the summer when school isn't in session.

Back to the center of the city to the hotel, and now, if we last, out for dinner at the Royal Palace.

Director Stokes Arrives
For Forthcoming Event

VIRGINIA BEACH—The Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County has set a new precedent in the large New York firm of Jerome Cargill Productions with their forthcoming "Out of This World" cabaret follies. The space theme is new to the company, director Tom Stokes said, and an entire new costume wardrobe had to be made.

Stokes, who has worked with Cargill for more than 15 years, arrived here last week to assume his duties as director of the show. He is staying at the Saxony Motel.

Cargill, one of the world's largest amateur production firms, handles shows of this type for women's organizations all over the United States, Stokes said, and it is unusual to run into a brand new theme.

He added another director might possibly have done the space theme before but "not to my knowledge." Under the Cargill set, the material, music and costumes are up to each director. There are about 30 full time directors now working with the company and about 12 part time, Stokes said.

No Space
A huge costume plant in New York City houses the thousands of costumes adapted to various shows. Everything from rumba outfits to cowboy suits can be found there. Everything, that is, but space costumes.

When the Junior Women presented the idea to Stokes a few weeks ago he returned to New York where he and the costume designer worked out the show's wardrobe. Most of the costumes will follow the flowing ancient Greek design. Stokes said, since most people associate that type of apparel with "Buck Rogers" type costumes.

Stokes, who spends his weekends writing fresh material for "his" shows, lives in Thomasville, Ga. in a "big old rambling house." He got into show business after participating in a hometown Cargill production. Before that he was assistant sports editor for an Illinois newspaper and also wrote advertising copy.

Book Planned
Writing is still an important part of his life. Twenty-five years of research and five years of writing have gone into a book, "The Book of Nobility," which he hopes will be published by next spring. The book traces every line of nobility in each European country from its earliest beginning to present day. If

Civic Chorus In '61-62 Season

The Virginia Beach Civic Chorus began its 1961-1962 season Tuesday, October 10th, at the Bristow Hardin School of Music, 312-35th Street, in Virginia Beach. Rehearsals will be held every subsequent Tuesday at 8:00 P.M. throughout the current season. Mr. Bristow Hardin has very kindly consented to permit the Chorus to meet in his private studio to encourage the group in their untiring efforts to form a large civic chorus for Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County.

The Virginia Beach Civic Chorus is a group of spirited music loving local citizens who love to sing. Your passport to join is a desire to sing. Recruitment is now underway for all voices.

The Virginia Beach Civic Chorus is under the musical direction of Mr. Charles Dawa, Princess Anne County School Band Director.

Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial By Jury" and Menotti's "Old Maid and the Thief" will be presented during the Christmas season.

P.O. Will Return Russian Parcels

The Post Office Department will return parcels to their senders, without requiring payment of the usual return postage, shipped to Russia through the General Parcel & Travel Company, Inc., 135 West 14th Street, New York, New York, and returned to the United States because of insufficient prepaid duty.

The decision to return the packages without additional postage was taken in the public interest after the shipping firm ceased paying return postage. Approximately 2,300 parcels have been returned to the New York Post Office since the last payment of return postage by the shipping firm on September 22.

It is estimated that senders of the majority of the parcels can be identified from evidence of mailing in the hands of persons for whom the firm acted as agent.

The parcels will be returned to their owners by the Post Office after proper identification is made.

Persons who have reason to believe that packages mailed through the General Parcel & Travel Company, Inc., may have published it will be used as a research book, he said.

Although he deals exclusively with amateurs, he never has problems with the shows, Stokes said, even stagefright doesn't upset him.

"Stage fright is the healthiest thing in the world for a show," he explained. "It makes a person alert so that he can give his best performance. Even professionals such as Helen Hayes have 'butterflies' before each performance. In my 15 years as a director I have never had a person to freeze and refuse to go on. I guess everyone has a little ham in them."

Stokes meets enthusiasm almost every place he goes, he said, "but Virginia Beach has the most enthusiastic group of people I've ever worked with."

The show is scheduled Oct. 27-28 at the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center.

NORFOLK—The 1962 Volvo sports coupe will be just one of many models to be exhibited all day Saturday at Foreign Motors Inc. in Norfolk.

FIVE FOUR THREE COUNTDOWN TWO ONE ZERO

The countdown has been completed. At the word "zero," electronic miracles happen. The rocket soars skyward, and seems to penetrate the infinite. But it hasn't. Man's greatest efforts fall far short of solving the mystery that is life itself. The answer is known only unto God. And man's greatest troubles still concern not the universe but man himself, and his fellowmen.

The greatest scientists today realize even more acutely than most of us the limitations of mankind. From deep, personal experience they know how desperately man needs God's love and His guidance. And they know, too, that no matter how "invincible" their rockets may become, in the end, true peace can be achieved only by God's own workings within the hearts and minds of men.

Pray for this kind of peace in church next Sunday.

Virginia's Art

By Leslie Cheek, Jr.

Director, Virginia Museum of Fine Arts

The nationally known director of the State Museum describes the great masterpieces of art in the Museum's collection—the cultural heritage of all Virginians. This is one of a series of articles which will appear each week during the Virginia Museum's 25th Birthday year.

Remembered Summer Pleasures, I

"LANDSCAPE WITH A VIEW OF CHATEAU"

Landscape in which we take so much pleasure now and the viewing of which is so especially a summer pleasure, so much so that even our highways are built with parking spaces for viewing particularly fine prospects, was not considered a proper subject for painting for many centuries.

The Romans largely ignored it; the medieval painters only used elements from it in a decorative way, and the Renaissance artists used it as a setting for religious, classical or allegorical subjects. It was not until the end of the 18th Century that landscape as the sole subject of a painting was accepted.

Therefore, even at the beginning of the 17th Century when John Breugel, the Elder (1568-1625) and those around him wished to paint a canvas such as the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts' "Extensive Landscape with a View of a Chateau" it was necessary to make it tell a story of some sort. In this case a hunting party, that of the Archduke Albert on a falcon hunt, has been tucked into the lower right hand corner.

But the painter's heart and eyes were clearly set on the view of the Castle of Mariemont rather than on the hunting party. Indeed, it is almost possible not to see the figures of the hunters at all, so great is the concentration on the landscape itself.

And how glorious it is with its rolling fields, its heavy foliage, its limitless sky all given point by the mass of the castle.

New Tourist & Restaurant Products Will Be Displayed At Hotel-Motel Meeting

Virginia's 650 million dollar tourist and restaurant industry, will be exposed to new products, ideas and business concepts, with the opening of the three-day Dixie Classic Hotel-Motel-Restaurant Exposition in Richmond, October 17, at the Hotel John Marshall.

The three-day convention will be the largest convention in the history of the industry in Virginia, according to M. D. Booth, President of the Virginia Restaurant Association.

Booth said thousands of products for use in hotels, motels and restaurants will be exhibited and demonstrated. Displays and demonstrations have been planned to show ways of saving time, effort, money and improving service and sanitation for the eating out public. A minimum of 90 exhibit spaces have been allocated. The exposition is designed to show hotel, motel and restaurant operators how to make their places of business more attractive for their guests. Guest speakers include nationally famous authorities in the hotel-motel-restaurant field, as well as prominent members of the state's tourist and restaurant industry, Booth said.

"A huge menu display is expected to be one of the biggest hits of the convention, especially with the women", Booth said. The display consists of hundreds of menus from all types of restaurants across the nation. There will be a special display of menus from throughout Virginia.

"The Dixie Classic Hotel-Motel-Restaurant Exposition is the result of combining two individual, and sometimes competing conventions into this one magnificent display", Booth said. Last year's convention in Roanoke was wonderfully received, and thanks to much hard work by members of the Virginia Hotel-Motel-Restaurant Federation and the Virginia Restaurant Association, we expect the 1961 Dixie Classic to set records for participation and attendance as far as the tourist and restaurant industry is concerned. Booth stated that since we provide a tremendous outlet for Virginia farm products, we feel a very close kinship with the farmers of Virginia, and will continue our efforts to feature Virginia farm products on our menus.

Well-Brewed Coffee Is One Of Life's Delights

Some like it dark, some like it light, But everybody likes it when it's made just right!

Here's a new twist on an old rhyme that refers to none other than your morning coffee. Really good coffee should retain all its rich flavor and delicious aroma and, of course, it simply won't unless it's properly made.

Maybe you've forgotten the rules of proper brewing or, it might be, you've never heard of them at all. Either way, here are the basic directions for the perfect cup and, also, a few hints on attaining the right strength for your coffee.

First of all, start with a clean coffee maker, fresh coffee of the proper grind and fresh cold water. For one average-strength serving, use one Standard Coffee Measure (or 2 level measuring tablespoons) of coffee to each ½ of a measuring cup (6 ounces) of water. Always be consistent in brewing time: Percolate gently 6 to 8 minutes only; for a Vacuum coffee maker, stir and hold in upper bowl no more than 8 minutes; or for Drip, boiling water should go through the coffee in 4 to 6 minutes. Always use at least ¾ capacity of your coffee maker and serve the coffee at once. Don't forget that brewing your coffee too long (or boiling) makes it bitter.

Now, for those who like their coffee a bit stronger, just make that a heaping measure of coffee, brewing it the normal length of time. On the other hand, if you prefer your coffee weaker, it should be diluted with water after the coffee's made, as directed above, not before. Stretching coffee — by using extra water in the coffee maker — will produce nothing but coffee-colored water with no flavor at all. When you dilute it after it's poured, you retain all the flavor at the exact strength you desire.

Next week will be United Nations Week—so why not plan an "international" dinner.

The very idea of eating internationally is stimulating and challenging. You might plan to have soup from Denmark, main dish from Italy, salad from Spain, bread from France — dessert from America and of course coffee from Brazil.

Recipes can be found in most of the cook books that will be to your liking—and of course you may rather plan your meal — using recipes from other countries that I have not mentioned.

I hear from reliable sources that a one of the international dinners served at the White House — Mrs. Earl Warren's Fudge Cake recipe was served — Here's the recipe.

FUDGE CAKE
4 squares unsweetened chocolate
½ cup water
2 cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup butter
1½ cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs unbeaten
½ cup milk

Heat chocolate with water in top of double boiler. Stir over boiling water until chocolate is melted and mixture is thickened. Add ½ cup sugar and cook 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Cool to lukewarm.

Measure sifted flour, add soda and salt sifted together 3 times.

Cream butter, add 1½ cups sugar and cream until very smooth. Add eggs one at a time — beating thoroughly after each addition. Add flour mixture alternately with milk in small amounts, beating after each addition until smooth. Add chocolate thoroughly.

Bake in 2 greased 9-inch layer cake pans—350° oven about thirty minutes or until springs back when lightly touched. Use fluffy white icing between layers and frost with chocolate icing on top and sides. Decorate with halves of walnuts or pecans, which ever you like.

Chocolate Frosting
2 cups confectioner's sugar
½ cup cocoa
Pinch salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ stick soft butter
2 tablespoons coffee
1/8 cup evaporated milk

Mix sugar, butter salt vanilla, coffee and milk together and beat until smooth, adding more milk to make easy to spread. If you like a more chocolaty frosting add a little more cocoa.

Local Youth Is Fraternity Pledge

HANOVER, N.H. — A Dartmouth College sophomore from Virginia Beach, was pledged to the Sigma Nu Delta fraternity here recently. He is Robert C. Goodman, Jr., a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Goodman of Goodspeed Road.

More than 400 sophomores, juniors, and seniors were pledged by the 24 fraternities on the Dartmouth campus. Freshmen take no part in fraternity activities.

After four evenings of open fraternity visitations and limited afternoon room visitations, IBM machines matched rushee's choices with fraternity preference lists to make the final decision for both rushees and fraternities.

Dartmouth fraternities provide the basic social and recreational facilities for about three quarters of the upperclassmen. Membership in each fraternity is limited to 65 men with 18 seniors living in the houses.

Goodman was graduated from the Norfolk Academy in June of 1960.

Search for Truth Is A.R.E. Subject

"The Last Five Years—A Personal Search for Truth" will be the subject of a talk to be given by Robert Redeen of the "Voice of America" at the Association for Research and Enlightenment, Atlantic Avenue and 67th Street, on the Sunday Forum program, October 22nd at 3:30 p.m. Mr. Redeen has been with the "Voice of America" for the last ten years, in which time he has traveled around the world and lived in the Far East for two years. His own personal search which he will talk about started in India, he says.

A question and answer period will follow Mr. Redeen's talk, which will add to its interest. A buffet dinner will follow the program, which is open to the public.

half weevil, be sure to get the fertilizer on before October 15. If you use granular heptachlor to control the weevil, it too must be applied before October 15. Then you can topdress any time during the dormant season.

Shoulders says the fall fertilization with the heptachlor-fertilizer mixtures has given excellent results in Virginia in both weevil control and top yields.

Seat Belts Top Safety Factor

Says Engineers At VPI. Seat belts are for smart drivers. They're received the nod of approval from many people, including agricultural engineers and safety experts at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

A seat belt often makes the difference between the quick and the dead. Cornell University scientists estimate that seat belts, if widely used, could save 5,000 lives each year merely by holding people inside the car in accidents.

A Cornell study also showed that 12.8 percent of car occupants ejected through open doors were killed, but only 2.6 percent of those who remained in the cars were killed. Thus the risk of death is five times greater if you are thrown from the car, you are safer if you are held in place by a seat belt. Everyone is safer when the driver is kept behind the wheel and can stay in control of the car.

A separate seat belt should be provided for each passenger in the car, and that the seat belts should be fastened any time the car is moving.

Choose a belt that measures up to the safety belt standards set by the Society of Automotive Engineers, and see that the belt is fastened to the car structure according to the manufacturer's instructions.

Feeder Store Business Will Fill Many Farms

Virginia cattlemen are being urged to try to wean calves weighing 500 pounds or more. At the same time the experts are saying that feeding calves and marketing them as yearlings will fit many Virginia farms.

The buyer looking for yearling feeder steers wants them to weigh from 550 to 750 lbs. So, it would appear there is a basic discrepancy in what the specialists are advising.

Not so, it is true that we recommend to the cow man that he raise calves as large as he can, and then recommend to the man grazing yearling feeder steers that he buy the smaller calves in order to have them at the most desirable market size the next year. It looks as if the two are not compatible.

And also recognizes the hard, cold facts, that for some time to come we are going to have too many lightweight calves around, enough to satisfy requirements for the yearling feeder business.

As long as this situation exists cattlemen should take advantage of it and graze the smaller calves while letting the heavier animals go directly to the feedlot.

Cow and calf herds just do not fit in well with some farmers' plans, and here is where the yearling feeder steer business may offer a chance to market the available grass.

A person in this business of feeding steers should consider using corn cobs and alfalfa hay for his wintering purposes. Calves do much better on this type of feed.

This system of cattle production fits the part-time farmer very well and fits the many small farms which we have. If you need cattle on your farm, and you know that cows won't really suit, look around this fall and check into the feeder steer business. I think you will like it.

Notes from Your COUNTY AGENT

By E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.

New Bride: "I cooked my first meal last night and it was a huge success."
Friend: "It was? Tell me about it."
New Bride: "Yes, my husband is going to get us a cook."

Fertilizer, seed, and a good season are three key factors in successful small grain production. You can't do much about the weather, but good production practices will pay off.

Usually small grains are planted in fields that successfully grow row crops such as corn or soybeans. Soil suited to such row crops is ordinarily suited also to small grains. Often farmers don't use enough fertilizer for a good crop. The recommended program is to apply part of the nitrogen and all the phosphate and potash at seeding. Then topdress with nitrogen in the winter if needed. At least 20 to 30 pounds of nitrogen, 40 to 100 pounds of phosphate and 30 to 60 pounds of potash should be applied at seeding. This can be obtained in 400 to 700 pounds of 5-10-10, 5-10-5 or 5-20-10 or equivalent materials. The top small grain producers are using the higher rates of fertilizer. Don't forget to topdress with nitrogen in the winter if lodging is not a problem.

A soil test will help indicate the fertility level and fertilizer and lime needs. Soil boxes can be obtained from my office. The second important thing is to use high quality seed. There is an ample supply of certified seed available for fall plantings of most of the popular varieties. Plant a variety recommended for Princess Anne County. If in doubt I have a list of adapted varieties.

New Field Crop Varieties Evaluated At Research Station
Scientists travel a long road before they pass along to farmers their recommendations for field crop varieties.

The cost of the travel pays off, as evidenced by the steadily rising yields of crops.

At the Agricultural Experiment Station at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and the various outlying field stations, new varieties of field crops are constantly being developed and released. Some will be adapted for use in Virginia; many will not. There's no way to tell without testing them in the various agricultural areas of the state in comparison with the varieties now being used. The experimental varieties must be tried under various climatic conditions, soil types, fertility levels, and disease and insect populations before the scientists can say yea or nay about their use in Virginia.

The scientists also keep a close check on the varieties now in use to see if new diseases or insects, or new strains or races of old diseases and insects, are attacking and making them unsuitable.

The scientists are, of course, interested in yields of varieties. They also garner information on maturity date, plant height, standing ability, winter survival, quality, and other factors. Information from the tests is summarized annually and made available to professional agricultural workers, seedsmen, and others who need it. The information also is the basis for the varietal recommendations made to farmers in Virginia.

Not Enough Lime Used, Says VPI Agronomist
Virginia farmers aren't using enough lime!

This fact is pointed up in the summary of the reports on 77,000 soil samples tested in the soil testing laboratory in the agronomy department at Virginia Polytechnic Institute during 1960.

W. W. Lewis, agronomist at VPI, says 41.7 percent of the soil samples tested below 6.0 pH. A pH test of 6.0 to 6.5 is considered best for most crops in Virginia. Some crops such as tobacco, peanuts, and alfalfa have different requirements.

Over 22 percent of the potash tests were low, 65.4 percent were medium, while 27.6 percent of the phosphate tests were low and 31 percent were medium. Lewis says the tests vary in different sections of the state. Generally, soils from the coastal plain will test lower in potash. Western Virginia will generally have lower phosphate tests. Soils and past fertilizer practices are responsible for the variations.

Lewis says Virginia should be using around 1,000,000 tons of lime each year, but the actual rate runs only a little over 600,000 tons.

During the last few years trouble with barley has been traced to the need for lime. Summary on tests from barley fields shows that over 37 percent of the samples test below 6.0 pH.

A summary of alfalfa samples shows that 49.1 percent of the samples test below the lowest recommended limit for efficient production. And 65.3 percent of the samples from alfalfa fields tested medium or low in potash.

TOP YIELDING ALFALFA NEEDS PLANT FOOD

Four tons of alfalfa per acre? Sure—scientists at Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station do it all the time. And so can you! The secret lies partially in plant food aplenty, the scientists say. Agronomist John Shoulders says use of adapted varieties plus good management plus adequate fertilizer adds up consistently to 4½ tons per acre on experimental plots at the Station.

Last year the average yield on Virginia farms was only 2½ tons. Lack of plant food was the main limiting factor, Shoulders believes. He points out that a 4-ton alfalfa yield requires 180 pounds of nitrogen, 48 pounds of phosphorus, and 180 pounds of potash from the soil.

The season for topdressing is nigh. Alfalfa can be topdressed during the dormant season or after the first cutting if applied before growth begins again.

If you use a heptachlor-fertilizer mixture to control the alfalfa

FOLLIES REHEARSALS SETTING FAST PACE

VIRGINIA BEACH — It's almost "D" Day for the Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County. Their "Out of this World" Cabaret Follies will open Friday for a two-night presentation and dance at the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center.

Unsuspected and delightful talent has sprung out of every corner of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County to join professional entertainment in the show.

The "Out of this World" theme will include an assortment of celestial stars, galaxies and "heavenly bodies" to dazzle a public dancing to the Tommy Gwaltney orchestra from 9 to 11 p.m.

A vocal rendition of this theme by Chuck Oliver will enhance a "show girl" routine proving that local beauties can compete with Broadway.

Betty Maxwell and Bob Gwaltney will step out as dignified characters in a rousing "duet."

That fireball of a show chairman, Mrs. Robert Fentress, will give an exciting example of what really goes on in outer space.

Intricate dance routines by Tom Stoke, Cargill director and performed by a hard-working mixed chorus will keep a fast-paced show on its toes.

Mrs. V. K. Almond Jr., and Angie Alexander, area amateur, and professional combination of its best.

Highlights: Versatile "Pete Scoppa", a precision showgirl dance number, an all-male "Fashion Show" designed to make you overhaul your entire wardrobe.

Members of the Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County still have tickets to ensure good seats, especially on Friday night. See them at the Bank of Va. Beach, 31st Street Colonial Store, or Alexander Beegles and the Surf Rider Restaurant at Va. Beach. Call GA 6-7157 for table reservations for ten or more persons. (area pppe ovenB

Blue Law Statement Issued By Police Chiefs

VIRGINIA BEACH — Police Chiefs Reeves Johnson of this city and James E. Moore of Princess Anne issued a joint statement this week soliciting the help of merchants and the public in abiding by the Blue Law.

"So far we have had no trouble about the law," Chief Johnson said, "and have had no complaints."

The statement said: We shall expect operators of businesses and the general public to abide by the terms of the Blue Laws like any other law of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

"It is expected that certain problems and questions will arise, and some areas of this law may require an interpretation as to its meaning and application."

"We shall request the Commonwealth to advise us on such questions as may be brought to our attention."

Season Closes

This will be the last convention of the season at the Cavalier. The winter schedule of events at the Captain's Table and Ship's Lounge will be announced later.

UCF Drive Is Lagging Behind '61 Campaign

PRINCESS ANNE — Princess Anne County Schools are one of only two agencies in the Tidewater area that failed to reach a 100 percent solicitation in this year's United Communities Fund drive.

The announcement was made this week in "The Beacon," the pamphlet published by the UCF and sent to workers during the campaign.

Percentage wise, the school system is number one in collecting their goal, having gone over the top with 119.5 percent.

It was also stated in "The Beacon" that the UCF drive is only 88.5 percent short of its $1,494,097 goal with a week left in the campaign. To date they have collected $575,265.

The solicitation of about 175 businesses in the Virginia Beach area were called on last week and results are due at local UCF headquarters later this week. The business unit was headed by Jack Haden and Earl Slattum.

The Women's division, headed by Mrs. E. B. Tankersley, is presently soliciting in residential areas and will be completed before Nov. 3.

Little Damage To Boardwalk

VIRGINIA BEACH — An extremely high tide and a violent, rolling ocean early this week caused little damage along Virginia Beach's famous oceanfront.

A great deal of sand fill was pulled from beneath the boardwalk between 20th and 24th Streets but a dredge is already working to correct the situation. "It should take about 5 days to replace it," Elsworth Morris, general superintendent of the Virginia Beach Erosion operation, said.

Morris also pointed out that the "sand is rolling in nicely along the beach and with a couple of good days it will be in as good a shape as it was before the high tide."

Several roads leading into Bay Colony were under water by Sunday night from high tide in Lighthorn Bay but caused no damage other than traffic inconvenience. Holly Road was the only one into the area that remained dry.

What Was It?

H. W. Simmons, a partner in the 30th Street Be-Lo Store, inspects damage to one of the front windows caused by an explosion last week from an unknown source. Two bag boys saw a flash of light as it happened but military officials deny any knowledge of what caused it. Several home windows in the area were also broken. (Staff Photo by Phillips)

Beach Hospital Plans Not Hurt By Fund Denial

VIRGINIA BEACH — The General Hospital of Virginia Beach's application for federal Hill-Burton funds was refused last week but the now privately-owned hospital is still scheduled to open Nov. 15 as an open-staffed community hospital.

The application was refused, according to hospital officials, because "the total funds available was not sufficient to fill the needs of all applicants & allotments were made by the Commission to those having greater need for hospital facilities."

"This does not mean we are out of the picture for Hill-Burton funds, but, we believe, simply that our allotment of these funds is postponed and will be forthcoming with a future application, probably about a year from now."

Plan Continue

Detailed plans and working drawings of an addition to the present 25th Street hospital group will continue with these plans and specifications so that construction may begin next October if the Hill-Burton funds are approved.

The campaign goal of $950,000 has not only been reached but is "somewhat over-subscribed," Brooke said.

"Accumulating funds are being placed in sound investments, assuring safety and moderate return of income."

Alteration in the present building to increase its capacity to about 50 beds will be made as rapidly as possible after it is taken over November 15, he said.

Nash Is Elected Civic Club Head

BAY COLONY — Monroe Nash Jr. was elected president of the Cavalier Park-Bay Colony Association at the annual meeting last week in the Council Chambers.

Other officers include Capt. Noah W. Gokey, USN, (ret.), vice president; Ernest E. Ball, secretary; Col. P. W. Root, treasurer; and Capt. J. R. Verbyck, USN and James N. Ball Jr., directors.

"We expect to make some pretty avid pursuit of a Civil Defense program for our area," Nash said, "and also want to follow very closely the developments in the proposed city-county merger."

Industrial Site Considered For County By Board

PRINCESS ANNE — The County Board of Supervisors took action Monday on such important matters as a proposed industrial site on Bayshore Road at Davis Corner and the possibility of buying the privately-owned Aragona Village sewage treatment plant.

The Board petitioned the State Highway Department to provide $36,000 from state funds to pay for drainage and other improvements on the 22-acre industrial site. The funds are set up by the state specifically for the development of such sites.

Frank Miller, general manager of Hampton Roads Sanitation District Commission, appeared before the Board to inform them that his agency will operate the sewage treatment plant if the county will buy it.

Now owned by Aragona Utilities Corp., the plant serves about 2,700 homes in the Village and returns an estimated annual revenue of $124,000.

The purchase was presented to the Board by Carroll G. Clough, chairman of the Princess Anne Water and Sanitation Authority and also supervisor from Bayside District. The proposal has been tabled.

Hopewell Victim Aided By Local Rescue Squad

VIRGINIA BEACH — Someone possibly owes his life to the Virginia Beach Police Department and W. H. Phillips of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Rescue Squad.

A call came into the police department last Thursday from an emergency crew in Hopewell requesting blood for an emergency operation in that area.

They asked the rescue squad to meet them between here and Hopewell with a package of A-negative blood from the blood center on York street in Norfolk.

The police dispatcher called Phillips who within 47 minutes made the trip to Norfolk, picked up the blood and made contact with the ambulance crew from Hopewell.

It was announced that no one had been able to find who needed the blood or why.

Cavalier Group Meets Wed.

VIRGINIA BEACH — Subscribers to stock in the proposed Cavalier-Birdneck Land Corporation will hold an organization meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center.

At that time the board of directors will be elected and a proposed charter selected.

Only subscribers who have fully paid their pledge by that date will be entitled to vote. E. H. Church, trustee, said.

The proposed Cavalier-Birdneck Land Corporation will be comprised of stockholders in the present Cavalier Yacht and Country Club.

A new plan was introduced last week in the members' attempt to buy the land and buildings from the present owners, the Southwestern Development Company. The purchase price is $650,000.

Four banks — the National Bank of Commerce, the Southern Bank of Norfolk, the Seaboard Citizens Bank and the Bank of Virginia Beach — have loaned the group $380,000. The rest of the money will be raised by selling 3,300 shares of stock for $100 per share. This will give the organization $40,000 for club expansion.

A representative of the State Highway Department spoke to the Board on suggested methods of eliminating traffic problems at Chinese Corner caused by congestion at GEX store.

The Board agreed to buy a 45-acre plot south of Rosemont for a total of $22,168 for additional sanitary land fill property.

They gave Virginia Electric and Power Co. the right to start a survey on street lights for Gardenwood Park at Kempsville and also gave the State Highway Department permission to conduct a survey on possible roads and ditches in the same area.

The Board adopted a resolution to be sent to the City of Norfolk requesting the city to extend water lines to the Lake Smith Terrace subdivision.

Also on the agenda Monday was the acceptance of bids to buy 3 new Chevrolet cars for the Police Department.

Interest In Hidden Treasure Seems To Be Family Trait

VIRGINIA BEACH — Interest in treasures hidden deep beneath the waters might well be a hereditary thing. At least it looked that way to Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Barnes of the Mayflower Apartments.

Their grandson and his mother, Mrs. R. W. Barnes Jr. of Riverside, Calif., recently made headlines in The Daily Enterprise of that city by discovering many valuable items from the bottom of the Sana Ana River.

Silver Bracelet
Mrs. Barnes Sr. has been a great lover of the sea for many years, she said, but the only thing she has ever "discovered" was a silver charm bracelet bearing the names George, with the date 2-17-59, Baird V and Henry Alexander, both dated 11-6-60.

"I found it this summer near the 'Thunderbird,'" she said, "and asked all up and down the beach trying to find its owner. I wish someone would claim it."

Young Rickie, who is actually Richard W. Barnes III, and his mother found such items as a man's gold wedding band, dated 1901; a silver Knights of Pythias medal, dated 1884; a 1757 English shilling; rings, pins, brooches, precious stones, earrings and many assorted coins.

The treasure hunt started 3 months ago when Rickie, 7, came home with a compact containing several old American coins, dating back to 1868, he had unearthed in the river bed.

Mrs. Barnes Jr. also became interested in the project and joined her son in the search.

Mail Service Is Extended

J. T. Crosswhite, Jr., Acting Postmaster at Virginia Beach, today announced extension of mail delivery service to residents of the new King's Grant area effective Saturday, October 28th.

This new service is in line with the Post Office Department's policy of providing better mail service in former rural areas which are developing into concentrated residential communities.

Officials in the local Post Office regard this extension of service as another step in the continuing process of affording good mail service to an expanding population.

Mr. Crosswhite stated that final plans had been completed and that a Postal employee would contact each of the residents affected before October 28th, furnishing them with information regarding placement of mail boxes and use of house numbers. Special delivery service will be provided on a seven days per week basis and collection boxes will be placed at convenient locations for deposit of outgoing mail.

Local Boxers In State Meet

A 13-man boxing team representing the Virginia Beach Boxing Club competed in the State Golden Glove tournament in Petersburg Tuesday and Wednesday.

The local team, coached by Henry Capps and John Fitzgerald, were one of the favorites to come away with the team championship. Since the bouts were held late Wednesday night the Sun-News was unable to get the final results prior to going to press.

These fighters taking part in the Petersburg tournament were Bob Nichols, Art Brown, Jim May, J. P. Quinlan, George (Swede) Nelson, Dutch Johnson, Lee Williams, Harold Wallrich, Jimmie McClain, William Cross, Bill Scott, Charles Price, Roy Gregory and Herbert Britt.

AREA BOWLING NEWS

THUNDERBIRD BOWL

Here we go again, another year is well under way at Thunderbird. It's so good to see our old friends back and to welcome the new bowlers. As soon as the 1st school bell rang the bowlers started shaking the dust from their shoes and bag up at the control center we are starting to hear the same good sounding voices of our bowlers, one person isn't bending enough another dropped the ball, and on and on. Much as we enjoy our summer visitors, it's always so good to get back in the old routine. People talk about the color in the leaves in the fall, have you ever seen a league bowling? The shirts are a variety of colors and are prettier every year. Haven't found out yet why bowlers go to such varied colors, have a friend who wouldn't be caught dead wearing a red blouse, but darn if she doesn't wear a bright red bowling shirt. On to the leagues

PIONEER MIXED LEAGUE

This league is back again Monday-evenings, but with a new starting time, this year they start bowling at 8:30 p.m. Southern Materials is back again and bowling up a storm again this year. They have added a new player to their roster, Ann Pawid. Ann is new to this team, but not to the game of bowling. Ann carries an average of 175, and is fascinating to watch. She has a terrific backswing, you would swear it's impossible to put the ball as high as she does, you have to see it to believe it.

Team No. 2 is in first place, with Lincoln National Life team right behind them. Dick Temperer rolling for Lincoln National had the high game for the evening with 216. Jean Swindell asked us how soon we would again start writing this article, so here you are Jean, roll some real special scores for me.

N.A.S. OFFICERS WIVES

Betty Bird, bowling for Coaches Sporting Goods had the high set and high game for this league. Betty had a 169 game and 459 set. She lead her team on to win four points over 31st St. Cleaners. Jean Harper had the second high set with 444.

COFFEE TIME LEAGUE

This league has increased this year, they are now a 12-team league. The Jelly Rolls won 4 big points this week. Their team captain rolled the high set for the day, Betty Schappacher led them on with a 48 set. The Du-Nuts also won 4 pts., with Lou Cashman leading the way with a 473 set and the high game of 190.

NAS Oceano Civilian League

I am real happy to say Skip Sawyer was high for this league tonight. Skip rolls on Thompson's Amoco team and came up with a pretty 295 game and 596 set. Skip is a real fine bowler and is only 17. Think how good he will be by the time he's 21. One day this summer, Skip came in for a practice game and bowled a 286, rolled ten strikes in a row. Gloria Waters rolled the high set for the ladies with a 191 game and a 488 set. Something real special for Mildred Wrobel, Mildred bowls for Grimsdeth Market & in her third game she won an all-spare patch with a 176 total. Congratulations Mildred, this is fine bowling.

THUNDERBIRD MAJOR

Taste Fries won 4 points over Kelly Supply with Lee (dad) Amundson rolling the high set for the evening. Lee had 196-192-203 for a 591 total, nice consistent bowling. Now let's see you do it every week. Lee, Lloyd Sine rolled high game with a 220.

Kinnach's Military League

This is a newly formed league for servicemen and we here at the Thunderbird are very happy to have these boys with us. Every week someone in this league comes up with a good high set and game. This week it was Robert Cowan, rolling for the Skyriders. Bob rolled a big 235 game. Phillip Hendy on the same team had high set with 556.

Town & Country League

This is another league I can count on for some good scores. Ruth Henke, rolling for Hilltop Market had high set with 527, this sure helped push this team into first place. Thank you, Ruth, I say this cause it's my team. Dolly Lee, bowling for D. E. Bonney Texaco rolled a pretty 501 set. Dolly also had high game for the night with a 215. Lorraine Amundson is starting to pick up again. Lorraine came up with a pretty 478 set for Atlantic Fuel Oil. Glad to have Jackie Wolcott and her crew back bowling with us. Jackie's team is sponsored this year by Radio Station WBOF.

BALL & CHAIN LEAGUE

Lee Amundson did some fine bowling tonight again, after just missing 600 on Tuesday night. He succeeded in reaching it tonight. Lee rolled 197-185-224 for a 606 set. Doc Sechon also had a pretty game with 200 on the button. In the afternoon, Vic Barrett came in to roll a few games and he was bowling beautifully and I kept telling him to save those good games for this league tonight, but now he wishes he would have, they lost four points to Clay & Will Wilson. Now next week they can get back in first place if Vic can save his games for the evening.

NIGHT OWL LADIES

There were some nice sets rolled by these ladies tonight. Lou Cashman rolling for Ray's Variety rolled another 500. Lou had a 502 tonight. Lou is a nice consistent bowler. This is obvious by her average. She is holding 164 in this league. Another fine bowler in this league is Joye Atwood. Joye also has a 164 average, and tonight rolled for Wilkins Chevrolet, Joye had 500 right on the nose. Nice bowling, girls.

P. A. SUBURBAN

When our famous Globetrotter, Johnny Addenbrook returns from Europe he's going to be pleasantly surprised at how well his teams are doing. Tonight his team won 4 points from Pallette-Ives Team, sparking the team was Walter Poff with a 214 game and 580 set. The Alley Cats also got hot and won four over the Arclighters. D. Templer rolled a 215 game and 576 set. High game for the night was bowled by Ben Prickett with a 221.

PINDUSTERS

This league is one of my favorites to watch. Not only are they improving all along, they are fun cause they are so enthusiastic. Last year most of these girls were new bowlers, so it of course makes us feel good to see how much they are and have improved. The Gayblades and the Pincurlers each won four points this morning. Ping Johnson rolled high game for Gayblades and Carolyn Maul had high game for Pincurlers. Last year I would some times write that Sue Marer was not hitting them like she should, and every time I would do this, Sue would bounce back with a good score. Sue promised me a 500 set last year and this year I hope she'll come up with a 550. Come on, girls, I love writing about your high scores.

Fire and Policemen's League

I have nothing but kind words for this league. The first few weeks of bowling these men would forget first names on the recaps, so I mentioned this to their president and secretary and low and behold they are handing in completed recaps. We appreciate this so much. George Baler, bowling for POP had high set with a 548, while Andy Holland rolled high game of 199.

How you can receive a check signed by Uncle Sam twice a year

When you buy an H Bond you can be sure of receiving your first interest check in six months—and every six months till maturity. Every year the U.S. Treasury mails out more than 3 1/2 million interest checks worth $149 million to the folks holding Series H Bonds.

Why buy Series H Bonds? H Bonds are especially good if you're living on a retirement income or want to invest for current income.

If you own E Bonds you can trade them for H Bonds at anytime. (A nice feature of trading is you don't have to pay tax on the accumulated E Bond interest until your new H Bonds mature or are cashed.)

Guaranteed growth. Your Bond money now earns 3 1/2% interest held to maturity. Your money can't be lost because Uncle Sam replaces destroyed Bonds. And you can get your money with interest anytime you want it. Every Savings Bond you buy is a share in a stronger America. Why not ask your banker for all the details?

You save more than money with

U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

For 49 years America's newspapers have published Savings Bonds ads as so close to the Government. The Treasury Dept. is grateful to The Advertising Council and the newspaper for their patriotic support.

Norfolk Symphony Orchestra To Open 42nd Season Oct. 30

NORFOLK — On Monday, October 30, at 8:30 P.M. at the Center Theater, Norfolk Symphony Orchestra opens its 42nd season with a concert which should be long remembered. "We have several interesting new musicians and the most promising orchestra ever," say Edgar Schenkman, Conductor of the 65-piece orchestra. Jorge Bolet, the soloist, a one of the world's truly distinguished pianists. The program includes two concertos, and Overture, and a full Symphony, and is a balance of stimulating now with well-known and well-loved music.

Season tickets to the seven concerts of the Norfolk Symphony and Chorus are still on sale, and good reserved seats are available for reasonable rates—$12.00, $7.70, and, for students, $5.50. Call Mrs. Pierre Schmitz, MA 2-2231, or Arena Theater, MA 7-1916.

Seats to this single outstanding concert will be on sale at the Center Theater Box Office from 7 P.M. until 8:30 concert time on October 30. They may be reserved by calling Mrs. Schmitz. Enlisted service personnel and students may purchase tickets for $1.00.

Jorge Bolet is a pianist who has appeared with most of our leading Symphonies and has toured the U.S. and Europe in concert performances. Winner of many honors and awards, he has delighted and moved audiences so profoundly with his playing that he was the obvious selection to play the keyboard Liszt for the motion picture biography of Liszt. The film was "Song Without End," and it won an Academy Award for its distinguished sound track recording of Bolet's playing.

Bolet was the soloist who played the premiere performance of he La Montaine Piano Concerto in 1958 with the National Symphony, and it is fitting that he should play the Norfolk premiere of this Concerto by the young American composer who spent two years in Norfolk as an enlisted man during the war. La Montaine attended many rehearsals and performance of the La Montaine Piano and has good friends in Norfolk who have watched his career with pride. His Concerto, which combines lyric beauty and rollicking jazz, won the Pulitzer Prize.

The opening concert of the Norfolk Symphony on October 30 with the Norfolk premiere of the exciting Concerto and the outstanding pianist should provide Norfolk audiences with a memorable experience. The program is:

Brahms: Tragic Overture
La Montaine: Piano Concerto
Mendelssohn: Italian Symphony

UCF Drive Needs Lift

Early reports indicate the United Communities Fund campaign is sorely in need of help, and fast. The first report meeting held Tuesday fell somewhat short of the same meeting a year ago.

The UCF campaign this year is attempting to raise a record $1,494,097 which is somewhat higher than last year's goal. Much of the increase is due to new agencies in the UCF.

The first report meeting resulted in about 38 percent of the goal being reported. At the same time last year the meeting brought forth 42 percent of the goal.

A highlight of the first report meeting was the whopping report made by Gordon Baskin, principal of the Linkhorn Park School, who reported faculty and pupils of the Princess Anne County schools had donated $6,106 on a quota of $5,110.

The Princess Anne County school report has set a fast tempo for the drive and General Chairman James Hawkins has urged the other units to try to catch up.

The ladies, who do the tough house-to-house solicitation, are conducting a blitz campaign and expect to reach their goal this week.

To make this year's UCF drive a success demands the full support of the citizens of the area it serves. Be ready to contribute when called on and the UCF drive will again have a successful conclusion as it has had every year since its inception.

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING

On The March

The forces of socialism in the United States are on the march today. And now, as in the past, their primary target is the taxpayer, publicly-regulated electric utility industry.

Take, for instance, the recent action of a House Committee in voting in favor of a 2,000-mile federal transmission system which would link three federal dams in five western states and cost an estimated $176 million. This is a totally unnecessary project for the private utilities in the affected area have offered to move the federal power over their own lines, either existing or planned, at a moderate cost. And the private utilities, of course, would pay heavy taxes on the revenues thus received while the federal system will be both tax-free and tax-subsidized.

One authoritative source says, "Even the 2,000-mile federal grid proposal is only a prelude to more grandiose plans of the government ownership forces involving tens of thousands of miles of line. These would eventually include extremely high-voltage lines, to send power as a substitute for shipments of coal, gas, or oil over vast distances, and to connect all geographical areas, even the industrial eastern seaboard."

If there were no other way to produce and distribute all this energy, the plan would have a justification. But there is another way—the private enterprise way. In mid-September, the utility industry, speaking through the Edison Electric Institute, announced its own plans to spend $8 billion over the next 10 years to build 100,000 miles of transmission line. The point is perfectly simple: The industry, allowed the opportunity, will both produce all the power we can consume, from any energy source, and will carry it to the industries, farms and homes of the users.

Another point needs to be stressed. We are involved in a cold war with communism which grows grimmer every day, and in which the final stake is survival itself. Shall we make the fatal mistake of imitating the communist system, which is based on iron-handed government control over all a nation's basic resources?

Not Sacrosanct

Everyone agrees that we must spend every dollar that an adequate national defense demands, staggering as the total may be. But this does not mean that all defense spending is sacrosanct, and must be accepted as necessary without question.

The General Accounting Office—which is the watchdog of federal spending—has reported on numerous instances of waste in defense outlays. For instance, it says that millions of dollars worth of replacement equipment was needlessly bought in 1960 by the Air Force, and that this could have been avoided had the AF maintained effective control over equipment in its supply system. It says also that, over a recent period of years, the military bought a large number of expensive industrial machines when identical or similar equipment was available in idle status.

So it goes, down the list. The sums involved run far into the millions. It's time we got a dollar's worth of defense for every dollar spent.

"Nothing is so galling to a people, not broken in from birth, as a paternal, or, in other words, a meddling government, a government which tells them what to read, and say, and eat, and drink, and wear."

—Macaulay.

A story in this paper last week stated that Malcolm Firth, who appeared before City Council to ask that they clean up the boardwalk, was a retired Army man. This is not true, Firth said. The only time he was ever in service was during World War I when he was in the Navy. The Sun-News regrets this error.

Realty Firm In Name Change

Mr. Frank P. Whitehurst, Jr., Virginia Beach Realtor, announced last week that Whitehurst Realty Company is the new corporate name for one of the most active Virginia Beach real estate firms, formerly known as Tynes-Whitehurst and Company, Inc.

In making his announcement, Mr. Whitehurst, President of the Realty Co., said, "Whitehurst Realty Company continues to serve the people of this community without interruption, and we sincerely hope that with our new organization and our years of experience at Virginia Beach and in Princess Anne County we will retain the confidence of our many old friends. We took forward to serving everyone in their real estate needs."

Whitehurst Realty is active in all facets of real estate, including residential, commercial, farms and acreage, and in land development. West Alanton, a community of fine, custom-built homes, located just two miles north of Hilltop on Route 615 is an excellent example of res-

SURFSIDE '61

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

Nearly 10 years ago I had an opportunity to see the fabulous "Cinerama" in New York City. Now it has been brought right to our doorsteps with its opening last week at the Roanoke Theatre in Norfolk, the only theatre in Virginia or North Carolina equipped to handle the huge film. Interest in the show was apparent at the premiere last Tuesday when it played to a full house.

"Cinerama" is not just a film—it is an experiment by the movie industry to produce more realistic entertainment. Their first effort has its faults. All experiments do. The wide, wide screen, which brings the viewer right in the middle of the film, at times is sectioned by a difference in color. Being so close the viewer is slightly overwhelmed by all that's going on around him and the sound in spots seems extremely magnified.

But "Cinerama" achieves what it set out to do. It actually does give the viewer the feeling of being in the picture. So much so that when the camera flew in the pilot's seat through Grand Canyon and places no plane had ever been before, I got airsick. My stomach did flip-flops when I "rode" the roller coaster. And my heart almost stopped when I "fought" in the bullring in Spain.

The film held one thrill for me that could only impress someone from my hometown, Plant City Fla. Cathy Darling, one of the stars in the Cypress Garden scenes, is none other than a former school mate, Marian Helzer. Since the film was produced several years ago many changes have taken place. Marian if never could bring myself to call her "Cathy Darling" is now a wife and mother.

At that time, however, she was Plant City's claim to fame, having started at Cypress Gardens as a model, then becoming a star attraction in the water show and finally taking top honors in beauty contests throughout the state.

BLOOMING BLOOMER!

Mrs. Nellie P. Matthews of 69th Street has a gardenia bush that is working overtime . . . it blooms in the spring (like a good bush should) but comes back with another bloom that sometimes lasts as late as Thanksgiving. There seems to be no reason for this, Mrs. Matthews said. It's just an ordinary gardenia bush, about 10 years old, but apparently enjoys its own blooms.

SECRET MESSAGES

A bottle containing a note lying on the beach brings visions of shipwrecked sailors, the romance of the South Seas and the excitement of the unknown. For 17-year-old Gayle McKnight of Bay Colony the discovery of two such bottles brought a $1.00. The note was really not a note at all but a card bearing some rather pertinent information and the request that the card be returned to the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution in Woods Hole, Mass.

Gayle returned the cards and received the dollar for her trouble. She learned that several thousand similar bottles had been released by the institution in collaboration with the Fish and Wildlife Service and other government agencies in a study of ocean currents and the drift of floating objects along the Atlantic coast. She also learned that both bottles had been released August 18.

Now that the cards are back in the hands of the institution they are probably once more drift on the Atlantic waiting for another cooperative person to find them on the beach and further the study of ocean currents.

ALWAYS AN ANSWER

The attractive Mrs. Julia Nelms, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, attends many Chamber meetings across the country throughout the year where she spreads good-will and creates an interest in Virginia Beach as the "perfect vacation spot." When she attended one of the meetings in Natural Bridge last week, where she served on a panel for an open discussion, she drew attention to the beach by being mentioned in the widely read "File 13" column of the Sunday edition of The Roanoke Times.

The notation, which came to Bill Lillyman at Convention Center Monday from friends in Roanoke, states: "Perhaps the chamber of commerce representative with the best story at a convention at Natural Bridge last week was Mrs. Julia Nelms, executive secretary of the Virginia Beach COC."

"She said that since she was first of all a mother and a wife, she felt she was eminently qualified to answer one particular request which came to her office among the approximately 500 letters she receives daily."

"Please asked a bride-to-be who was planning to spend her honeymoon at the Beach, 'Send me full information on what to expect.'"

DEVILS, TOO

Better "batten down the hatches" friends, Tuesday is Halloween. And a lively one it will probably be.

Each year, it seems to me, the youngsters get more interested in "trickin'" than they do in "treatin'". Or at least it takes more treatin' to prevent the trickin'.

Last year I ambitiously decorated the front of the house with large grinning candle-lighting Jack-O-lanterns and other traditional paraphernalia only to find that my efforts succumbed to the destructive hands of little goblins and spooks early in the evening.

Since I had a big container of candies, chewing gum and cookies for all who trailed by I couldn't understand why the decorations were literally ground into the earth.

Only yesterday, as I pulled the remaining decorations down from the attic, was I enlightened.

"I know why the kids tore the stuff up last year," our 7-year-old son knowingly confided. "They didn't like what you had for them."

FUN, FUN, FUN

This week-end promises to be a big one. The Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County will present their "Out of this World" cabaret. Folies at Convention Center and the floor show they have planned is a lulu. Some of the beach's most prominent businessmen will appear in rather unlikely outfits in a "fashion show", six housewives have a kick number comparable to the Rockettes and the specialty numbers bring some surprising talent.

Also promising to be highly entertaining and informative is the Automotive Trade Fair being held today, Friday and Saturday at Princess Anne Plaza. Not only will there be a fabulous display of the latest model cars and experimental cars that didn't make the grade, but also a fashion show by Rose Hall, special music, rides for the kiddies and prizes galore.

In keeping with the festivities the Cape Colony Club will jump into the week-end schedule with a Halloween party Friday night. This will be the adult's chance to deck out in some right fancy costumes and do a little treating themselves.

New Dauphine Car Unveiled

The new Dauphine Deluxe, a luxury version of the economy Dauphine, was unveiled here Wednesday together with the complete line of 1962 Renaults, Frank Blocker, Jr., President of Eastern Auto, announced.

In conjunction with Renault's national announcement, Vincent Grob, executive vice-president and general manager of Renault, Inc., said the new model increases the company's 1962 line to four models. To be marketed in the U.S. now, are the Dauphine, Dauphine Deluxe, Dauphine Gordini and Caravelle.

Renault, Inc., of New York, is the American imported and marketer of cars produced by The Regie Renault, the world's sixth largest automobile manufacturer.

Featuring major engineering advances and exterior styling improvements, the Dauphine Deluxe is expected to play a major role in Renault's objective of capturing 15 percent of the U.S. Market next year, Grob said.

Introduced on the new Dauphine Deluxe is the fully synchronized three-speed transmission which enables the driver to shift into low gear before the car comes to a complete stop, assuring him of low speed power for quick acceleration. Combined with the 32 hp water-cooled rear-mounted engine which delivers up to 40 mpg, these Dauphine Deluxe features give the driver top performance and economy.

The new model, like Renault's other 1962 models, features a Solex, downdraft, one barrel carburetor with an automatic choke which permits easy starting in all climatic conditions. The carburetor system provides top economy fuel-air mixture.

Featuring exterior styling of classic simplicity, the four-door Deluxe is durably constructed. Its fully utilized body is independently suspended on all four wheels, providing a tight, smooth ride. The Aerostable system automatically varies the stiffness of the suspension to meet varying load and road conditions through coil springs, shock absorbers and a cushion of air.

Anti-corrosion battery terminals provide longer battery life in the Deluxe—and the other Renault models for '62. Renault's special terminals prevent formation of harmful acid deposits.

The high performance, luxury Dauphine Gordini, first introduced in the U.S. in April, 1961, has a powerful 40 hp engine with four-speed transmission. Its interior and exterior styling is the same as the Dauphine Deluxe.

The sporty Caravelle—winner of the latest Fashion Academy Award for automobile styling beauty—has incorporated engineering improvements on other Renault models for 1962. Powered by the 40-hp engine, with a four-speed gearbox, the Caravelle combines economy with the ultimate in luxury.

October Meeting Of YDC Cancelled

VIRGINIA BEACH—The October meeting of the Young Democrats Club of Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County has been cancelled due to conflicting events, according to president E. A. (Sonny) Culverhouse.

"We want every member to turn out at the polls Nov. 7 and help give the Democrats a sweeping victory in the state," Culverhouse said. "It is also important for each Young Democrat to contact his friends and neighbors and get them to vote."

Beach Band To Give Concerts

The Virginia Beach High School Band has been invited to go to Florida as the guests of the Hialeah Band in late January, 1962. They will give concerts in Jacksonville and Miami . . .

In order to go on this Good Will Trip for the resort area, the Virginia Beach Band Parents and Boosters need to raise approximately $2,700.00 for the transportation of the band members.

This is quite an honor for our band to have been chosen, and all of the residents and merchants of Virginia Beach should be proud of them.

In addition to transportation money, the band needs uniforms and more instruments. Some of the talented students of VBHS Band are not able to participate at football games, parades, etc., for either lack of a uniform, a hat, or an instrument. Some of these children will not be able to go to Florida for this reason.

Parents and boosters of the band intend to raise the money needed to have one of the finest bands in Virginia.

The first project to raise the funds needed will be a family fair, November 18, 1961, which will be an all-day, fun day for Virginia Beach, beginning at 10 a.m. It will include an Auction and Rummage Sale, Country Store, Cake Walk, Games and Prizes, rides, pony rides, fortune telling, hot dogs and cokes, a complete dinner in the evening for the hungry, young and old . . . plus all types of booths, side shows, etc.

Halloween Party At Cape Colony

VIRGINIA BEACH — The spoons will be swinging Friday night at the Cape Colony Club when the members hold a Halloween party.

A buffet will be held from 6:30 to 9 p.m. with dancing later in the evening to music furnished by one of the Buddy Myers Orchestras.

A spook house will be set up in the bar and will feature such hair-raising attractions as dancing legs over a boiling pot of brew, a guillotine with a basketful of severed "heads" and many more.

Prizes for costumes will be awarded in the following categories: most original couple, funniest couple, "sexiest" girl, most original boy and most original girl.

Chairmen working on the event are Mrs. W. C. Haycox, Mrs. Roy Jarrett, Mrs. J. L. Strole, Mrs. James Midgett, Mrs. Andrea Hodgson, Mrs. H. A. Black and Mrs. Grayson Whitehurst.

Court House P-TA Festival Nov. 3

PRINCESS ANNE — Court House Elementary School P-TA will sponsor a Harvest Festival November 3 at 5 p.m.

The main attraction at the event will be the appearance of television personalities Bob & Chaucery who will appear at 6:30, 7:30 and 8:30 p.m.

Included in the festivities are a cake walk, spook room, sweet shop, china and jewelry shop, dart games, country store, macar bar, calendar throw, fish pond and toy shop.

There will be an adult-supervised nursery and an attended parking lot.

Tax Bills Mailed By County Office

PRINCESS ANNE—The mails were swamped with tax bills last week when Princess Anne County Treasurer V. A. Etheridge sent out 30,000 personal property, 20,000 poll tax and 40,000 real estate tax forms.

Payment deadline for all bills is Dec. 5, 1961.

This is the first year poll tax bills have been mailed separately, Etheridge said.

Some problems with returned mail has been caused by changes made in the postal service recently due to the large growth in the county. Most of the returned mail is for London Bridge, which has been taken over by the Va. Beach Post Office, and Lynnhaven which has caused mail route numbers to street addresses.

"The responsibility rests with the taxpayer to inquire about his bill in the event he has not received it," Etheridge pointed out.

Hardin School To Present Recitals

VIRGINIA BEACH—The Bristow Hardin School of Music will present the first in its series of Student Recitals at the Studio on 35th Street, this Saturday evening promptly at 7:30.

Students chosen from the piano classes of Elizabeth Cornick, Charles Hardin, and Bristow Hardin have been chosen to perform a program of piano solos.

Students participating in the program are: Katherine Woodhouse, Anette Ferrell, Pamela McKittrick, Leighton Meredith, Robin Dunn, Charyl Solomon, Lyndie Costenbader, Dianne Stanton, Mary Dekker, Dale Anna Dean, Hygd Hardin, Helena Rodriguez, Talbot Jordan, Bruce Campbell, Bruce Holland, Cindy Stuart, Carol Wood, and Laura Polle, Amy Ferebee, and Mary Keyes Ferebee.

The public is invited to attend the recital and remain for the social hour that will follow the program.

Friends School To Hold Book Fair

VIRGINIA BEACH—Friends School will hold its Fifth Annual Book Fair at the Meeting House Nov. 1 through Nov. 4. It will be open Nov. 1-2 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Nov. 3 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Nov. 4 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

"Gay Is The Party" Theme Of Garden Club's Fall Tour

"Gay Is The Party" is the theme of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County Council of Garden Clubs fall tour. The tour will be held November 1st, from 10:00 A.M. to 4:00 P.M.

Area garden clubs are diligently at work to bring the public some unique and attractive ideas for party giving in their own homes. As the season of parties and get togethers draws near, they hope to present workable ideas for all those who are planning their holiday entertaining.

Set in a great variety of homes and interior decors, this year's tour promises to be a most interesting and helpful event. Each home on the tour is being decorated by a different garden club in the area, each with a different party theme.

Homes are:
1. Mr. & Mrs. James H. Crocker, North Alanton, Theme: "We Gather Together"; Cavalier Garden Club.
2. Mr. & Mrs. Lee LeCompte, Bay Colony, Theme: "Tree Trimming Treats"; Jr. Va. Beach Garden Club.

3. Mr. & Mrs. C. B. Meredith, Bay Colony, Theme: "Elizabeth's Christening Day"; Bay Colony Garden Club.
4. Dr. & Mrs. Edwin Schoen, Birdneck Point, Theme: "The Play's The Thing"; Woodhurst Garden Club.

5. Mr. & Mrs. Strew, Birchwood Gardens, Theme: "The Kickoff"; Birchwood Garden Club.

Tour Committee Chairman: Cavalier Garden Club—Mrs. C. M. Rau, GA 8-7672.
Jr. Virginia Beach Garden Club—Mrs. Carolyn Motley, GA 8-4231.

Bay Colony Garden Club—Mrs. W. A. Whitehurst, GA 8-5670.

Woodhurst Garden Club—Mrs. G. M. Whitehurst, Jr., GA 8-5136.

Birchwood Gardens Garden Club—Mrs. T. R. Schmalz, 341-4315.

"We Gather Together" in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Crocker, of North Alanton, for a lovely and formal Thanksgiving dinner. Mrs. C. M. Rau and members of the Cavalier Garden Club are working to incorporate various ideas that can be used not only in the formal elegance of the traditional home but with many other decors as well.

In dramatic contrast to the traditional, formal scene to be found in the Crocker home is the modern setting of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Schoen's home in Birdneck Point; in which the Woodhurst Garden Club will present "The Play's The Thing". Mrs. G. M. Whitehurst, Jr., Committee chairman, and her committee bring you after the theater party theme in which they will blend the dramatic styling of the Schoen home into ideas which may be used in homes of all types.

Fall! And what could be more a part of the season than a football game! The Birchwood Garden Club has selected this theme for the party ideas to be found at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Strew in Birchwood Gardens. Mrs. T. R. Schmalz and her committee, leaving the football game and the elements out of doors, have brought in all the fun and warmth of this marvelous season.

In the Early American setting of the C. V. Meredith home in Bay Colony we shall find "Elizabeth's Christening Day". The Bay Colony Garden Club, whose committee chairman is Mrs. W. A. Whitehurst, has brought out all the warmth of this occasion in this lovely home. For a portion of their display they will use an exquisite family collection of silver baby cups. Stressing again what you may do in your own home, you will find interesting ideas on unique gifts and some lovely wrappings for just such an occasion.

Christmas! The singing of gay carols, the peace of old and loved hymns, the aroma of freshly cut greens, and all the hustle and bustle of this season; all these may be found in the home of Mr. & Mrs. Lee LeCompte of Bay Colony. The Junior Virginia Beach Garden Club, whose committee chairman is Mrs. Carolyn Motley, have selected the fascinating title of "Tree Trimming Treats". How better to get each one of us in the party mood than with the anticipation of the joyous Christmas season. In the LeCompte home as well as all of the other homes on the tour we are certain that each and every person attending the tour will find stimulating ideas which can be used in your very own home; which, after all, is the prime purpose of this tour.

The Council and its president, Mrs. E. F. Blake, Jr., would like to invite everyone on the tour for refreshments at the home of Dr. & Mrs. Schoen, between the hours of 2:00 P.M. and 4:00 P.M. Donation for the entire tour is $1.50. For anyone wishing to go to individual homes the contribution is $.50 per home. All proceeds of the tour will be used for beautification projects selected by the Council.

Virginia's Art

By Leslie Check, Jr.
Director, Virginia Museum of Fine Arts

Remembered Summer Pleasures, II

BEAUVAIS TAPESTRY DESIGNED BY BOUCHER

Another summer pleasure which has always been enjoyed and still is, is the pleasure of being entertained in the open. One of the most traditional forms of this sort of entertainment is that of the country fair.

A glimpse of such a country fair in 18th Century Italy may be seen in the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts' Beauvais tapestry from the series called "Les Fetes de Village a l'Italienne" designed by Francois Boucher (1703-1770). There are two subjects in the single composition, one of a quack doctor selling his wares and the other a showman running a peep show.

Boucher had been commissioned to do this set of designs soon after he had returned from a four-year stay in Italy. Oudry, the new director of the Beauvais factory which had not been prosperous, had seen Boucher's entry for the Academy in 1754, the year of Boucher's admittance to that body, and felt that his designs might help to restore the factory to prosperity.

Oudry's judgement was quite right, for Boucher's designs were an immediate success and stayed on the looms of the factory for over forty years. In fact Beauvais soon overtook the factory of the Gobelins to such an extent that the directors of the latter factory complained to the Crown in 1754 and said that "to prevent the decadence of the Gobelin factory, it would be necessary to attach to it M. Boucher," since "for nearly twenty years the Beauvais factory has been kept up by the attractive paintings made for it by M. Boucher."

And small wonder! Boucher had advanced from the pompousness of his first prize at the Academy, gained when he was twenty, his canvas bearing the ridiculous title "Evilmesodach, Son and Successor of Nebuchadnezzar, Delivering Joachim from Chins in Which His Father Had Too Long Held Him," to the joyousness of the Museum's tapestry.

This change had been brought about largely by his stay in Italy where he seems to have spent much of his time sketching and painting from nature rather than studying the old masters. In fact he once said "Raphael seemed faded, Caracci gloomy, and Michelangelo distorted." That he indulged in such heresey is our good fortune, since it led to this marvelous evocation of a summer pleasure.

NEWS FOR VETERANS

Thomas A. Moore, Area Director in Norfolk for Tidewater, Division of War Veterans' Claims, a service officer for many years assisting veterans and their dependents, associated with the Virginia State Government (not Veterans Administration); which agency represents the claimant; operating under the Directorship of Harry F. Carper, Jr., of Roanoke, located in the V. A. building, makes his regularly scheduled itinerary visit to Virginia Beach at The Alan B. Shepard Convention Center 19th St. and Pacific Avenue (the "Dome") on Thursday, October 26, 1961.

Moore's hours to interview and make appointments to see that day are NOON (12 o'clock) to 2:00 P.M. Moore can be contacted also at his office, 305 McKevitt Building, 203 East City Hall Avenue in Norfolk, telephone MADison 2-9671. Under the Norfolk office is a branch in the Northampton County Courthouse in Eastville, which also services Accomac County Mondays and Thursdays.

There has been a recent in the regulations covering apportionment of veterans' compensation or pension so that the division will not be made on the percentage basis previously used. The most common cause for apportionment of a veteran's benefit is his failure to contribute to the support of his wife and children.

Several factors are now considered in the VA decision as to the amount of an apportionment based on estrangement. The new determination is figured on the amount of benefits payable, other income and resources of the veteran and his dependents, and the special needs of each.

In case of a request by an estranged wife for an apportionment, an investigation will be made by the VA to determine her actual need for money. The percentage rules in the old apportionment tables will not be applied to new cases, but current apportionments will continue as they are until further award action is necessary. A veteran, however, has the right to request that his case be considered under the newly revised regulation if he feels that his current apportionment is causing a hardship to him and is not needed by the estranged wife.

Prices on Rambler Automobiles Cut

DETROIT—Aiming at a record 500,000 sales year, American Motors today announced reduced prices on all models of its 1962 Ramblers—with reductions as high as $230 and with new major built-in features included as standard equipment.

"Of 27 regular models offered, 13 show price reductions of $112 or more, and 7 of these are reduced by $209 or more," Roy Abernethy, executive vice-president, said.

"Rambler price reductions are being made on the basis of two factors," he said. "First, the decision of American Motors to share progress with customers by constantly increasing value in terms of better products and lower prices as volume increases, and second, a revision of dealer discounts to bring Rambler discounts in line with all other competitive compact cars."

Advertised-delivered prices on American Motors' top volume series, the Rambler Classic, have been reduced $50 to $230. Price cuts on the new, more compact luxury Ambassador V-8 range from $209 to $228. In the economy Rambler American series, Custom and "400" models are reduced $112 to $156, and the lowest-priced Deluxe models are reduced slightly.

"On a model-for-model basis, Rambler American prices, beginning at $1,846, are the lowest offered in the U.S. automobile industry," Abernethy said.

Abernethy emphasized that American Motors is the only company in the industry which announces actual advertised-delivered prices that are the same as those posted on stickers attached to cars in showrooms. The "factory list" prices which other companies announce do not include the Federal excise taxes and delivery charges, which amount to about 10 per cent on all cars, he said.

As an example of extra-value features included in all 1962 Ramblers as standard equipment, Abernethy cited self-adjusting, double-safety brakes; a lifetime ceramic-coated muffler and tailpipe. These features alone add retail value of nearly $60, he said.

Other features which are standard equipment for the first time on most models include: new suspension system which increases riding comfort and ease of handling and makes possible 33,000-mile chassis lubrication intervals, battery on all models guaranteed for two years or 24,000 miles, and oil filter on all models, boosting normal oil change intervals to 4,000 miles.

"A further example of exclusive new Rambler value is the E-stick, a newly-developed clutch transmission, which eliminates the clutch pedal. Available on the American series for $59.50, it is about one-third the cost of a fully automatic transmission," Abernethy said.

"In addition," he said, "all Ramblers have single-unit body construction, galvanized rocker panels and are deep-dipped in rust-preventive primer. Classic and Ambassador models have Rambler's exclusive fiber-glass headliner as standard equipment."

"In past years other manufacturers have realigned their series name designations by simply changing the name with little if any relationship between the product offered and the public image of the name designation," Abernethy said. "In reducing our number of series from four to three by discontinuing the Super series, we have not followed this practice. Our Custom models are equal or improved in appointments over the 1961 model Customs, and the same is true of the '400' models as compared to the 1961 Custom '400.'"

PRINCESS ANNE—The giant automotive trade fair opens today at Princess Anne Plaza on Virginia Beach boulevard and the show looms as the greatest auto show ever staged in the Tidewater area. The three-day extravaganza is sponsored by the Virginia Beach Automobile Dealers Association.

Auto Trade Fair Fashion Show Sophisticated

What will the well-dressed woman wear with the latest sports car? The sleek black limousine? Or the about town station wagon?

Men should be interested in seeing what attire what automobile when Rose Hall presents a fashion show written especially for the men at the Automotive Trade Fair at Princess Anne Plaza Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m.

The eight professional models will be dressed exactly as men wish women would dress and the whole show is strictly from the man's point of view.

Most of the fashions will be of sophisticated design and there will be no teen-age clothes exhibited. All together there will be 54 fashions ranging from the daylight clothes (sportswear) to the well-after-dark designs (evening gowns). The commentary will be narrated by its writer, Colin A. Studds, owner of Rose Hall, and his assistant, Mrs. Suzanne Forbes Lawton.

The narrative will point out many interesting historical facts about Princess Anne County and especially the Lynnhaven district. Studds said, "and will tend to show why it's so important that Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County always keep their historical value."

The show, featuring all the 1962 models of American cars, will be open each day from 10 a.m. until 11 p.m. The show, itself, will be located in the new building in the Princess Anne Plaza shopping center.

Several experimental model automobiles are scheduled to be displayed at the show. One of these is the Ford car of the future. In addition there will be other fabulous factory experimental cars.

The show will not be confined to automobiles, either. There will be displays of the latest Merrywood models homes, jet planes and military displays.

A 25-cent donation will be the price of admission to the show with children admitted free. All proceeds will go to the Princess Anne County Memorial Hospital building fund.

Dealers participating in the show are Alphin Motors, Coates Motor Company, Everett-Jordan Motor Company, John Copeland Motor Co., Marshall Rambler, Inc., Wilkins Chevrolet, Inc., Brooks-Shorter Motor Co., Ene-Rhoe Ford, Holt Buick, Malbon Motor Co., and Meekins Pontiac Corporation.

Thunderbird Again Tops Ford Lineup

Thunderbird for 1962 retains its traditional classic styling, incorporates more than 100 engineering improvements, and offers two special new models: A two-seat sports roadster and a vinyl-covered hardtop Landau model.

Combined with the regular hardtop and convertible, the two new models increase the luxury car line to four models—the widest selection of Thunderbirds since the car's introduction in 1955.

Pointing out that the new Thunderbird retains the car's famous characteristics—the distinctive roofline, crisp fender lines, unique console and trend-setting interior—Lee Iacocca, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager, added that "totally new engineering features make the 1962 Thunderbird the most advanced, yet most practical, car in the industry."

All four 1962 Thunderbird models will be introduced in Ford dealer showrooms Oct. 12.

SPORTS ROADSTER

The new sports roadster features a molded fiberglass tonneau cover with padded head rests which transform the four-seat convertible into a two-seat car.

Special features of the new roadster include:

—Wire wheels with chrome plated spokes and rims and simulated knock-off hub caps. Narrow band whitewall tires will be an optional feature.

—A special emblem mounted on the front fenders below the Thunderbird name script and on the tonneau extension between the front seat backs. The emblem is a gull-wing bird superimposed on a red, white & blue crest.

—An assist bar, provided for the comfort of the passenger during cornering. It will be hung from the underside of the instrument panel.

LANDAU

The new Thunderbird Landau model has a vinyl-covered roof available in black or white colors. The Landau has a distinctive "S" bar on the side of its rear roof panels.

STYLING

The fashionable styling of the Thunderbird is enhanced in 1962 by a new, square-block design grille that gives the car an appearance of power and motion.

Additional new exterior features of the 1962 Thunderbird include rear quarter ornamentation consisting of three rectangular, ribbed ornaments mounted horizontally, and new taillights which combine the stoplights, taillights and parking lights as one unit.

INTERIOR

New luxury and convenience features blend in the 1962 Thunderbird's rich interior.

The car's classic yet functional interior design is revealed when the doors are opened to their full width of more than four feet, permitting effortless entry to front and rear seats.

The new Thunderbird again has the unique individual bucket seats in front, divided by an attractive and useful console, & simulated bucket type rear seats. For greater convenience of the driver and passenger, the temperature and optional air conditioning controls have been moved to the console.

The rayon carpeting this year has been improved for better wear and longer life by the addition of nylon, and the front compartment heel pads now are made of sturdy vinyl, rather than rubber, to stand up under hard use much longer.

The unique swing-away steering wheel, which has been ordered by nearly 77 per cent of Thunderbird buyers since it was made available on the 1961 model, is standard equipment for 1962.

Improvements in lighting and instrument pointer visibility also add convenience and safety to the 1962 Thunderbird.

Engineering improvements

under the hood and body of the new Thunderbird give it better riding characteristics than any previous Thunderbird.

The unitized body is double-protected against rust and corrosion. The underbody and superstructure are fabricated from zinc-clad steel, and the body is dipped in a zinc-rich bath after assembly. The Thunderbird then receives three primer coats of paint followed by two finish coats of a hard, durable enamel that never needs waxing. A heavy undercoating gives the Thunderbird its third layer of protection against water, slush and salt, an exclusive quality feature in the Thunderbird's price class.

The Thunderbird's durable aluminum muffler also has been improved in 1962. All critical parts, including resonators, now are made of stainless steel for longer life.

Even better in 1962 is the Thunderbird's renowned short-stroke, low-friction, 300-cubic-inch engine. Its advanced induction system features the easy breathing intake manifold which gives the car exceptionally flexible performance.

A new, 30,000-mile disposable fuel filter keeps water and foreign particles from entering the engine and its four-barrel carburetor incorporates some 15 improvements over 1961, providing greater smoothness at idle, cruising or for fast, passing spurts.

With the engine's full-flow oil filter and the elimination of the crossover valve, oil change intervals now can be extended from 4,000 to 6,000 miles.

New factory-installed long-life coolant eliminates the need for regular fall and spring cooling system changes. Anti-freeze now needs changing only once every two years or 30,000 miles, and the engine is protected to 35 degrees below zero.

Brake improvements also add to the car's overall quality excellence in 1962. A new, larger master cylinder reduces pedal effort yet increases braking power, and a new type of lining

Haygood Services Are Announced

ARAGONA VILLAGE — The Haygood Memorial Methodist Church will hold two worship services each Sunday simultaneously with Sunday School with the first service at 9:45 a.m., followed by a second at 11 a.m.

Each Sunday evening at 7:00 p.m. there will be a Methodist Youth Fellowship for young people between the ages of 12 and 21.

The church is located on the corner of Bayshore and Baywide Roads in Aragona Village. J. G. Long Jr. is the minister.

—more durable and highly fade-resistant — recovers faster for smooth, wire braking.

Another feature that helps make the 1962 Thunderbird the finest ever produced is the car's improved sound insulation. Some 45 pounds of sound-deadening materials—absorbent aluminum insulation, thick fiber and mastic felt, undercoating and fiberglass—have been added under the new Thunderbird's hood, to wheelhouse, dash, instrument panel, passenger and trunk floors, roof panels and rails, package tray and quarter panels.

OPTIONS

The 1962 Thunderbird offers a wide range of standard equipment that is optional on most other cars, including the 300-cubic-inch engine, dual range automatic transmission, power steering, power brakes, back-up lights, undercoating, padded instrument panel and sun visors, electric windshield wipers and interior courtesy lights.

The 1962 Thunderbird interior harmonizes in a flow of color from the instrument panel to the doors, seats, floor and console. Seven basic colors are available: blue, turquoise, beige, black, red, silver mink, and chestnut.

Seat cushions inserts and bolsters are offered in seven vinyl combinations, five vinyl and bedford cord fabrics and seven all-leather.

The exterior enamel finishes, designed to last longer and stay brighter, are available in 12 colors.

Terry Corp. to Open Pembroke Farm Community

PRINCESS ANNE — The Terry Corporation broke ground last week for the development of the Pembroke Farm into a residential community. Opening for the community is expected in early 1962.

As officials of the Terry Corp. looked on the Grier S. Johnson contracting firm bulldozers began to break ground for the first streets in what used to be grazing land and farm land.

The Pembroke Farm which contains a home of Georgian architecture dating from the Revolutionary War, is located in Princess Anne County between Aragona Village and Princess Anne High School, fronting on Virginia Beach Boulevard and extending North to Lynnhaven River.

The Terry Corporation plans call for approximately 1,200 housing units to be built on this tract plus a regional shopping, churches, a recreation center & schools.

Plans are being made to keep the Pembroke home intact.

The Terry Corporation will be both developers and builders of this tract of land. Now completing more than two hundred homes at Malibu, the Terry Corp. has built and sold more than 1,000 homes in the Tidewater area.

1962 CORVAIR MONZA

NEW FACE, SAME SPORTING HEART

We might as well tell you straight off: Corvair's the car for the driving enthusiast. Think that lets you out? Maybe. Maybe not.

Until you've driven one, you really can't say for sure, because Corvair's kind of driving is like no other in the land. The amazing air-cooled rear engine sees to that. You swing around curves flat as you please, in complete control. You whip through the sticky spots other cars should keep out of in the first place. (Especially this year, now that you can get Positraction as an extra-cost option.) You stop smoothly, levelly with Corvair's beautifully balanced, bigger brakes.

And Corvair's found other new ways to please you this year. A forced-air heater and defroster are standard equipment on all coupes, sedans and both Monza and 700 Station Wagons. So are dual sunshades and front-door armrests and some other goodies. You'll note some new styling, inside and out. Nice. And safety-belt installation is easier, too, and cheaper. Another extra-cost option well worth considering is the heavy-duty front and rear suspension; it turns a Corvair into a real tiger.

So you can see we haven't really done much to Corvair this year. Why on earth should we? If this car, just as she is, can't make a driving enthusiast out of you, better take a cab.

And here's America's only thoroughbred sports car, the '62 CORVETTE. We warn you: If you drive a Corvette after your first sampling of a Corvair, you may well end up a two-car man. And who could blame you?

Roll for about 1 minute or until the cheese bubbles and partially melts. Serve immediately.

Halloween Party Pumpkin
Yield 1 cheese pumpkin
3 cups finely shredded sharp cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons softened butter
3 teaspoons finely chopped onion
3 tablespoons pickle relish
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/8 teaspoon chili powder
Slices of green pepper
Stem from the green pepper.

Combine cheese, butter, onion, pickle relish, Worcestershire sauce, and chili powder. Blend. Mold the cheese mixture into a round pumpkin shape. Push creases into the sides of the pumpkin with the forefingers. Cut thin strips of green pepper into several lengths. Press these strips into the creases on the side of the pumpkin. Top the cheese pumpkin with the green pepper stem. Chill. Place the pumpkin on a serving plate and surround it with several kinds of crackers. Serve as a spread with the crackers.

Here are other Halloween recipes that might please your witches.

Chocolate Almond Chiffon Squ. (Cats or Owls)
(Makes 49 pieces)
3 tablespoons (3 envelopes) unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
¼ cup water
1 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips (1 6-oz. package)
¼ teaspoon almond extract
¼ cup ice water
½ cup instant nonfat dry milk crystals
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Confectioners' sugar or flaked coconut

Sprinkle gelatin on ¼ cup cold water in large mixing bowl. Combine sugar, syrup and ¼ cup water in 2-quart saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until syrup reaches rolling boil. Boil for 5 minutes without stirring. Remove from heat. Add chocolate to gelatin. Pour syrup over gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add almond extract. Cool at room temperature to consistency of thick syrup (45 to 60 minutes). Stir occasionally. Pour ¼ cup ice water into mixing bowl. Add instant crystals and whip until soft peaks form about (3 to 4 minutes). Add lemon juice and whip until very stiff (about 3 to 4 minutes). Using same beater, beat into gelatin mixture. Blend until mixture is smooth. Pour into buttered 9-inch square pan. Chill 1 hour. Cut into 49 pieces (make 7 cuts on each side), or cut into cat or owl shapes. Roll in confectioners' sugar or coconut.

PUMPKIN PETE
Yield: 8 Sandwiches
8 ounce package sliced processed cheese
8 slices whole wheat bread
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
¼ cup chili sauce
Sweet gherkin pickles
Toothpicks

Using a 2½-inch round cookie cutter, cut circles from the cheese and bread slices. Combine mustard and chili sauce. Spread each circle of bread with this mixture. Top each with a circle of cheese. To make the pumpkin face, cut 6 pickles into quarters and arrange on the circle of cheese as follows: with kitchen shears cut 8 of the quarters into different shapes for the mouth. Use the remaining quarters for the pumpkins eyes. Slice 4 pickles in half to make the stems. Fasten each stem to the pumpkin with a toothpick. Place the sandwiches on a baking sheet.

Friends School To Aid UNICEF

Tuesday evening some 100 of Friends School children will be among more than 2,500,000 American boys and girls who will devote their Halloween's fun to save the lives of other children in more than 100 countries aided by UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund.

Under the sponsorship of Louise B. Wilson they will meet at the Friends Meeting House at 2:00 P.M. where they will receive stickers and tags.

"All participants in the program will have proper identification," Mrs. Wilson said. "Only children bearing the UNICEF symbol are authorized to collect contributions to the Fund."

At the same time, over 11,000 other communities will hold a similar program, sponsored nationally by the U. S. Committee for UNICEF. Last year he small coins collected Trick or Treating for the Children's Fund totalled $1,750,000.

"This figure gets all its heart-warming, gratifying meaning when it is translated into terms of UNICEF aid," Mrs. Wilson said. "A single penny can mean the vaccine to protect a child from TB, a nickel can supply penicillin to cure a child of yaws, a crippling, highly contagious tropical disease. A dime can buy enough DDT to protect a child from malaria for nearly a year, and a quarter can mean the antibiotics to save a child from the blindness of trachoma."

For $1.00 UNICEF can ship enough dried skim milk for 500 glasses to areas where it is most needed. A dollar also represents 500 vitamin capsules for children suffering from malnutrition. Assisted governments match the aid received at least two and a half times, Mrs. Wilson emphasized.

After the collection, the Trick or Treaters and their escorts will meet a Friends School for a Halloween party at which time their "treats" of coins will be counted.

ANNOUNCING

'62 RENAULT

EASTERN AUTO
11th & GRANBY MA 7-8321

Some small but important changes in the '62 Dauphine

Probably the biggest news about the '62 Dauphine is the price: $1395. That's about $200 less than the Dauphine cost a year ago. Yet it's got a lot of important improvements. The new transmission, for an instance. We've synchronized the low gear, which means you can shift down without stopping, slide through traffic on the run.

Some other small but significant changes in the '62 Dauphine: the engine now runs even quieter, because we've improved the piston design. Exteriors are dip-painted to get a protective coating into places spray painting can't reach.

We've also brought out a doled-up model, the Dauphine Deluxe. It's got all-vinyl interiors, foam rubber seats, 4-position backrests on the front seats, two ashtrays in the back, a lot of nice touches. It costs a little more and it's worth it.

Then there are some things so good we didn't dare change them: such as Renault's famous gas economy—up to 40 mpg. The 12-month or 12,000 mile warranty. Or the unimitable Dauphine style, which makes some people ask for a repeat when you tell them how little it costs. We repeat, $1395.

Beachlawn Has New Pastor

WILBUR C. PRESSON

The members of the Beachlawn Baptist Church, Virginia Beach, Virginia announce that the Reverend Wilbur C. Presson, formerly Assistant Pastor of the Norview Baptist Church, is the new pastor of the Beachlawn Baptist Church.

Rev. Presson is married to the former Betty Underdown of Norfolk, Virginia. Their family includes: Susan, 9, Scott, 3, and Stephen, 2.

Rev. Presson has completed six years of formal training; 3 years at Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C., four years at Baylor University in Waco, Texas, and six months at Southwestern Seminary in Ft. Worth, Texas. During this time he served in personal evangelism in hospitals, prisons, and homes for the aged.

He also has served in the following churches: West Greenville Baptist Mission at Greenville, S.C., Willow Springs Baptist Church at Walnut Springs, Texas, West Austin Baptist Church at Austin, Texas, Perry Street Baptist Church at Marlin, Tex., and Berea Baptist Church at Elizabeth, N.C.

Rev. Presson is a man of great missionary vision, who's compassion for the lost sent him to the Orient in 1959 "on faith". Locally Rev. Presson has such collateral duties as Secretary & Treasurer for the Norfolk Baptist Pastors Conference, Church Relations Director for the new television station WYAH-TV (Channel 27 (UHF)), and is presently serving as southeast states representative of the "Japan for Christ Crusade."

The members of the Beachlawn Baptist Church are proud to have Rev. Presson as pastor and cordially invite the attendance of all to worship with them.

Barr's Store Will Have 1c Sale

November 2nd is the day eagerly awaited by citizens of Virginia Beach when the Barr's Rexall Drug Store opens its doors for the famous Rexall Original 1c Sale. For the first time, this nationally advertised event lasts 10 days and provides the unusual opportunity of purchasing Rexall Drug products at two for the price of one, plus a penny.

Originating in 1913, this event offers hundreds of sale items such as medicines, toiletries, stationery, household and personal needs. Shoppers will also find plus-values in Money Savers and Surprise Buys which are not on the 1c Sale, but were gathered particularly for this event to offer at greater savings.

The sale is being advertised in national magazines, Sunday newspaper magazine sections, on television and radio. "Our customers look forward to the 1c Sale", Mr. Mason explained. "Many have come in for our Advance Shopping List, checked off the items they want, and given it back to us to fill for them. On the first day of the sale, or any day thereafter, they can come in and pick up their orders. Saves time, while they save nearly 50% on their purchases. There's still time for those who prefer to shop this way, but they'll have to hurry... the sale starts soon."

Seatack Principal

Children More Aggressive Now

(This is the fourth in a series of articles to appear each week on the men and women who serve as principals of Virginia Beach & Princess Anne County Schools.)

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS
VIRGINIA BEACH—Children today are more aggressive than they were 20 years ago because they have so many more opportunities—this is the opinion of Miss Mary Lucille Johnson, newly appointed principal of Seatack Elementary School.

"When I was growing up the average school had one or two rooms. Three rooms was a big school. Today's youngsters are very fortunate to have so many advantages."

Along with these advancements, however, is an increase in the educational requirements, she pointed out and they are "stepping up all the time."

"It really keeps a teacher busy to stay ahead of these youngsters. No longer can she sit behind a desk and rely on a degree. She has to spend her summers going to school. And she has to find new ways to present the same course. A teacher should come back every year with something new to tell her pupils."

Travel is another great help to teachers, she said. Their experiences from trips can be applied to the classroom and be informative as well as entertaining for the students.

After receiving her master's degree from Columbia University in New York in 1954, Miss Johnson "practiced what she preached" and spent several summers touring California, New England and the four provinces of Canada. This summer, however, she plans to go back to school for some refresher courses.

Getting to know parents is

one of her most important duties, the small, quiet principal said. Only through contacting them personally and talking to them about the school curriculum and problems can she develop a school-parents-student understanding.

"I have found that no matter what problem a child might have it can be corrected if we go to the root of the trouble—and that is usually in the home. Once the parents understand what the schools are trying to do for their children they will lean over backwards to help."

Discipline problems stem from lack of supervision in the homes, she said, but most unruly youngsters have found that they must abide by school rules.

The county's afternoon playgrounds have been a tremendous help in combating discipline problems. Even adults have taken a greater interest in the schools through the adult program, she said.

Though a native of Norfolk, Miss Johnson considers Princess Anne County and Va. Beach home because she has taught here for 33 years — "this is

Young People Set for Trick Or Treat Event

PRINCESS ANNE — Many youngsters throughout the county will don Halloween costumes in keeping with tradition Tuesday and go "trick-or-treating" throughout the county.

Some of the youngsters will be putting their efforts to a good cause by asking for contributions to UNICEF, which benefits children all over the world.

Included in the county program are the first three grades of Linkhorn Park School, Gullies Episcopal Church, Thalia Methodist Church, Old Donation Church, Heywood Methodist Church, & Baylake Methodist Church.

Mrs. Phillips Hansen and Mr. John Bradshaw are coordinators of the UNICEF program. Milk cartons for the collection were donated by Regis Dairy in Norfolk.

where my children are."

When she can find spare time, she devotes it to working on youth projects of the International Council of Women and the Alpha Lambda Chapter of the Phi Delta Kappa national sorority. She is also a member of the YWCA and attends St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Miss Johnson's appointment as principal of Seatack came after previously serving as teacher of arithmetic, social studies and art in the seventh grade. She also served as chairman of the seventh grades and chairman of the executive committee of the school.

She is a graduate of Booker T. Washington High School in Norfolk and Virginia State College in Petersburg.

When I talk to God I'm sure He listens. I'm too young to realize there is such a thing as a miracle.

I admire the convictions of my Mother and Father. They have shown me by their example that they live what they believe.

Because I've learned to trust and depend on those who love me, I haven't any silly illusion of self-sufficiency. It makes sense to trust and depend on God.

I'm proud and happy that I'm a Christian—so I'm not afraid someone might laugh at me for believing the Truth.

But, of course, my faith is no accident. I'm in Church every Sunday to worship God. Religious training is a major part of my education. I'm one of the millions of Christian youngsters who are the hope of this frightened world.

And when I talk to God, I don't just talk to Him about ME. I talk to Him about YOU!

BAYSIDE LIONS CLUB MET WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The Bayside Lions Club met Wednesday night, October 18 at 7:00 P.M. at Shore Drive Inn. The president, Gordon Hughes, presiding.

Mr. Lewis Thurston, program chairman for the evening, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Frank Wise of the U.S. Maritime Administration. Mr. Wise, a veteran with over thirty years service in the U.S. Maritime Administration talked to the club briefly on the history of the Administration. He said it was organized in 1936 and their purpose is to regulate shipping in time of war. They have the power to take over all shipping in time of emergency and they also work with the civil defense. During World War II the Administration played an important part in the movement of convoys, etc.

According to C. B. Ostrander, first vice president and chairman of the Halloween candy sale, the "sale" is doing very well. The money derived from the Halloween candy sale will be used in the club's sight conservation work.

The Bayside Lions Club annual turkey shoot with Charles McCoy as chairman, will take place November 18 and 19 at the Waltonian Gun Club. According to Mr. McCoy the club's advance sale of tickets is very good.

Club members, members of the Little Creek Amphibious Base Fire Department and the Boy Scouts have been collecting broken toys and clothing in the Bayside area to be used, when they are fixed up like new, in the Bayside Joy Fund. The club distributes Joy Fund baskets & toys and clothing during the Christmas holidays to needy families in the area.

tion to his congregation Sunday morning.

Rev. Rice will be going to the Conejo Valley, Calif. This is a new area which is opening up 40 miles north of Los Angeles. According to Mr. Rice there is no church there now and it will be up to him to "round-up" the congregation and establish a church. At the present time there are 13,000 persons living in the Conejo Valley and by 1970 it is expected there will be 80,000. This valley is in a mountain range north of Los Angeles and the well known television program "Gunsmoke" is shot there.

Mr. Rice has been serving the Bayside Church for the past 5 years. When he came it was a mission church and has now grown to about 456 members. Under his leadership new classrooms have been added and a new Social Hall.

Copenhagen and Denmark Impresses Virginians

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Friendly "Enemies"

Just about my closest friend in town is old Colonel Harmon, our banker. Yet, when I was a kid, I actually thought he was my enemy!

Whenever I wrote an editorial, there was sure to be an angry letter from the Colonel, taking the opposite side. Seemed pretty clear he'd just as soon I was out of business. But in the Depression, when it looked like the Colonel would have to shut down, it was Colonel Harmon who offered the loan that kept me going. Startled, I asked him why. "Well," he growled, "just because I don't agree with a man, doesn't mean I don't value his opinion. Besides—if you'd closed up, who'd I have to argue with?"

From where I sit, one of the wonderful things about America is the way people respect each other's opinions. For example, the Colonel doesn't happen to share my preference for a glass of beer, but he understands I have a right to feel the way I do. It's tolerance like this that keeps our friendship "in business."

Mrs. Witt took the trip in her position as president of the National Association of Home Builders Women's Auxiliary and as a consultant for Viking Construction Corp., builders of King's Grant.)

By DALE FAIRLESS WITT

A night in Copenhagen is a night to remember! Promptly at eight we were led by a charming Englishman, Mr. Elliott, complete with black homburg, to the awaiting limousines to have dinner and see the show at the Royal Palace. "Aquavit" or "Schnapps," as the Danes call it, seemed the drink of the evening mixed with Tonic Water. The club was filled with men (I wonder why—a very nice place, too, but very few women) and there was Johnny Adenbrook, Mr. Duncan, and all of their women on this tour. The floor shows (we stayed for two) were a combination of Madrid, France, and what have you, but was topped off with an amazing little puppet that must have been controlled electronically, as no strings or anything visible were attached, who painted pictures in three colors. Simply amazing!

Since Copenhagen is so famous for its Cherry Herring, a bottle of this was produced, very tasty. As the hour grew late, the numbers dwindled, so off to two "late" spots of Copenhagen.

By far, the best was the Adlon. A respectable, popular place to go with two excellent bands, and at 3 a.m. the entire place looked as fresh as if it were 9 p.m. Excellent food snacks, and the floor is large enough to dance on.

Its 1 p.m. and just time for lunch topped off with whipped cream, ice cream, and fruit, will be wearing size upon return to the tour; moderated by our very charming guide, Mr. Elliott, who had worked with the underground during the occupation (1940-1945) and had spent nine months, after capture, in a cell similar to the one displayed at the Resistance Museum.

All the policemen are non corruptible, according to him, and their colors are scarlet and yellow. The telephone number for the police department is 1448, which is the year the present regime started.

We passed Tivoli and its gardens, which are closed at this time of the year, but looked like an exciting place to visit if we come again. On past beautiful buildings to the riding stable which is very pretty.

By-the-way, we have seen beautiful women, healthy looking true, but beautifully, stylishly dressed with coiffures and make up to rival any Hollywood celebrity.

Again during this tour you observe constantly, the bikes and whole families riding. So often, the father or mother, with a protecting hand on the child riding alongside. The baby sitting in the jump seat, even behind or in front. They even have skirt guards on the bicycles and also a hook for the brief case, seen mostly on the men's bikes. (I bought a jump seat yesterday, so I can ride my Marcia when I return home.) No license is required, but certainly dexterity is, as the buses and cars appear to miss them by inches. Perhaps the biking is why the girls have such beautiful, well-shaped legs (this was pointed out to me of course).

Copenhagen at one time was simply known as "The Harbor." We drove along the harbor, seeing the Diesel Ship Yards and stopping to observe the guard at the Royal Palace and to see where Princess Margaret, the successor to the throne, will soon leave her palace. She is currently attending Cambridge in England. The guards are not allowed to smile, but we did manage to get a twinkle out of one for our picture. Then we saw the "Little Mermaid" statue that Hans Christian Andersen made famous. The story goes the little mermaid came out of sea and grew legs, only to find her Prince could not marry her; so she sat on the rock by the sea and pondered as to her fate. The flag is everywhere and if there is a split in it, it is royalty or Army or Navy.

The entire country is practically Lutheran, the state religion, with 95% belonging. There are 48,000 Catholics here. The Clergy of the Lutheran Church is paid by the state and weddings and funerals are free, but the people that belong to the church must pay $1.50 tax to the church. We visited one of the churches, with magnificent architecture it was finished just before the occupation and had tried in order to keep the Germans from getting the materials. Only the perfect yellow bricks were used and the rest thrown out. These have built about 3 solid blocks of homes and shops surrounding the church. The church is very barren and has chairs instead of seats. While inside the church two little girls approached me smiling and asked me a question. We never found out what the question was, as I spoke no Danish, and they spoke no English; but when we finished talking with hands and eyes we were fast friends and they knew I had four children at home. They followed the bus waving their good byes. The language of children is universal.

In Denmark, the families don't seem to be large so we questioned Mr. Elliott, only to find that the taxes are very high, but they decrease with the number of children; similar to our exemptions, except that for every child after the fourth one gets a subsidy for, and if you have four, you no longer pay taxes.

When a Mother expects a baby, she is given free medical and hospital care, plus a nurse to visit her once a week after the child is born until it goes to kindergarten. When she works, she places the child in a nursery where he is put in the nursery's clothes, is fed, bathed, plays and sleeps, and is dressed for the mother in his own clothes, and the mother is given a bottle of milk to take home with her. All this with no charge.

When the child goes to the first grade, it is compulsory he go to school until he is fourteen. At that time, if he shows promise, he goes to the "Gymnasium," which is like our high school, for four to six years. All of this is free. If he desires to go on, he goes to the University. Here all he pays for is a room and food, with all doctor and dentist bills paid by the country. Even in the country the agricultural workers may go to school like a University, with classes arranged to fit their schedule of work.

Today being Saturday, all the stores close at 1 p.m. All the people seemed to be in the parks playing and a great crowd was assembled outside the stadium (which holds 50,000) to watch the "Rugby" games (Danish football). No cars are manufactured here, although General Motors and Ford have assembly plants. There is very heavy duty on any other cars. All gas is bought from America and cost 75 cents a gallon.

This is a truly beautiful, clean country, and has no evidence of littering to mar the beauty. Buildings, which with litter and without landscape would look like our worst slums, have instead, charm and look very pleasing to the eye. Perhaps redevelopment applies to more than the old buildings, but also to the pride of the people to do with what they have. More flower seeds and a few cans of paint should be given away, instead of shuffling these people around as often.

A wonderful afternoon and tomorrow a full day in the country. Tonight we go to "The Pearl of the Sea" with an Englishman and a Scotman joining our party. We're getting more cosmopolitan each day.

Evening of October 7, 1961

Upon recommendation of Teddy Barrett, the bartender at the Hotel Richmond, we left for dinner across from the infamous side of the street, divided by the canal, to an unnamed restaurant specializing in Far Eastern Food. Located in a low level, you enter and wind your way around billiard tables to a small dark dining room filled with the far Eastern curio of masks, bamboo shades, tapestries. We were accompanied by a charming Englishman who said his specialty was "selling women," mannequins, that is. He travels the continent, providing glamorous models for the show windows of Europe, which as we learned, take a very specialized business requiring a sculpture.

We had Rystaffel (Danish word), carried here with eighteen separate individual condiments.

After dinner, we went to the Palace Hotel to the Ambassador Room, a most ornate room. Good music, a revolving dance floor (which is difficult and puzzling to dance on, and who needs wine with that?), plus the beautiful scene and ladies of Denmark to gaze upon.

Here we were joined by a couple from Iceland going to see Switzerland and several English and Scots gentlemen. The party complete, we went on to the second floor of the Palace Hotel Restaurant, which we didn't know existed the night before. Here a revolving Carousel Bar complete with horses. Beer we wanted, but could only get it if we had sandwiches, so again we are eating—but since it consisted of the delicious baby shrimp, no one minded.

Comparison conversation about languages, customs, homes, and countries of Iceland, United States, Scotland, and England, made the evening interesting and they were fun people! We learned we speak American... not English, as we have been taught to think. As a seven hour excursion is coming tomorrow, we didn't assist with the closing, which would be 5 a.m., but instead for six hours sleep, we hope.

SUNDAY, October 8

Today, a full day tour started early at 8:30 with Danish party, would have loved juice, but had coffee instead. Over here you pay for coffee separately at every meal, but breakfast,

About 40 meals for two Danish caps. Mr. Elliott our guide today, with his tweed cap, his pipe, and his country cap, was very very English. Since he is very articulate and remembers all sorts of weird facts about the various Kings, (most of them Fredericks) and their Queens, he makes the tour interesting.

We drove out along the docks and into the country of Zealand, which is the island that Copenhagen is located upon, and as its Sunday, many bikes and family's on excursions were riding along beside us. The speed limit is 32 miles an hour; the roads everywhere in the city or country are in wonderful condition and very well marked.

We passed electrical wires which, our guide explained, bring electricity to Denmark from Sweden, as they have the water fall to create electricity. In the years the water fall is small, the electricity is sent from Denmark to Sweden and made from coal imported from the U.S.A.

The first stop today was to look through the gate at the Royal Palace and then on to a small village of Helsingør to see Frederiksborg Castle, which was built in 1610. This being Sunday, church was being held in the castle and we had to wait for a few minutes to allow the people to enter the church; several had babies for christening. The castle has 70 rooms, of which we saw 48. All of the rooms are very ornate and all have pictures of Frederick the IV.

On through the countryside to Elsinore and here, along the lakes, we saw modern homes next to small hatched roof houses; but all were spot and clean and flowers were everywhere. The countryside resembles the Valley of Virginia in many ways, with its rolling hills and trees. We asked about the cows and our guide said they were called "Danish Red Cows," the fanciest breed, that is. Turkeys are growing everywhere and are used for slugs for the cows. Since these cows are strictly milk cows, the beef, unless imported is inferior, but the pork and poultry is very good. Truck gardening is done in nurseries and imported. Only Beef Sugar is used.

Upon arrival at Elsinore, we had our first glimpse of Sweden, which is across the water, a fifteen minute ride by ferry, quaint village. Elsinore was famous by Shakespeare and his "Hamlet." Every year at Kronborg Castle, "Hamlet" is produced with a different actor, from a different country, playing the lead.

We had lunch at the Marjory Restaurant, which is a combination casino, nightclub; and, as of this day, serves its famous buffet and we sampled a little of each along with, by now, a drink. We have become accustomed to considering the price of several others: Aquavit (Schnapps) and Beer, seem to be THE DRINK.

On the way back to Copenhagen we saw another famous restaurant, "The Pearl of the Coast," which looked very attractive and we very much enjoyed a unique bar with little 4-inch square, private television screens for each patron. About 10 minutes later, we had lunch at the same place. Everywhere in front of the stores—something we would love to copy—are automatic vending machines, which are used for selling after the store closes, for everything: apples, fruit, bread, milk, paper, soap, etc. So, in a sense, the stores are a party shop and really indulgent—the whipped cream is real and not air—the chocolate is rich and the whole effect was delicious.

Notes from Your
By E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.

SMALLER — "You think that nephew of yours is not as big a fool as he used to be?"

Filbert — "I know he isn't, he's lost at least 30 pounds."

A PROFIT OR A LOSS

Even with the wheat stabilization program now in effect, wheat is still an important crop in our county. One of the major factors in producing high economical yields of wheat is the method of fertilization you use. This fertilization program has been talked about a great deal over the past several years since wheat has become important to us. Some folks want to fertilize one way while others believe that a second way is better.

VPI, through extensive tests, has shown that small grain must be fertilized in the fall and the spring for the highest economical yields. The Experiment Station, through the Extension staff, recommends that complete fertilizer be applied at the seeding time, followed up with the nitrogen topdressing in the spring, between February 15, and March 15. The tests conducted by the Experiment Station, have been proven out in Princess Anne County in two wheat fertilization demonstrations.

In 1960, the fertilization demonstration was conducted by L. J. Furlough. In 1961, the demonstration was conducted by R. E. Sawyer, and son-Cooperating in both of these demonstrations were Dr. S. S. Thornton, Agronomist for Royster Guano Co., W. T. Townsend, Agronomist for Allied Chemical Nitrogen Division, and Irvin McClanan, of Farmers Fertilizer and Seed Corporation.

The purpose of the demonstrations were to demonstrate the proper and recommend methods of wheat and other small grain fertilization to realize the greatest net profit above fertilizer costs. In each year, on each farm, five different fields of wheat were fertilized five different ways.

The first fertilization method showing the greatest net profit above fertilizer cost was 300 lbs. of 3-18-18 per acre plus 40 lbs. of nitrogen topdressing in the spring. The average net profit for this method for two years was $63.67 per acre.

The second highest profit was realized when five hundred lbs. of 5-10-10 was applied per acre at seeding time followed with 25 pounds of nitrogen topdressing in the spring. The average net profit above fertilizer cost for this method for two years was $61.68.

The third highest net profit was found when no fertilizer was used at seeding time, but received 50 lbs. of nitrogen at seeding time in the spring. The average net profit for his method for two years above fertilizer cost was $59.97.

The fourth highest net profit was received when no fertilizer was used at planting time, but rather received five hundred pounds of 10-10-10 in the spring as a topdressing. The average net profit for this method for two years above fertilizer cost was $52.98 per acre.

The lowest net profit in these demonstrations was received by applying five hundred pounds of 10-10-10 in the fall at seeding time was no topdressing in the spring. The average net profit for this method for two years was $52.21.

Four of these five demonstration fields received the same poundage of nitrogen, phosphate, and potash per acre. One field received the same amount of nitrogen, however, did not receive any phosphate and potash. Here it is to be realized that in every case, with the exception of just the nitrogen in the spring, that the same amount of money was spent to fertilize the wheat on all five acres.

The profit above fertilizer cost for the low, was $52.21 for the low, and up to $63.67 for the high, and about the same amount of money was spent on fertilizer in every case. This makes a difference of about $11.50 more money-per acre, that can be realized, just by rearranging the fertilizer analysis and the time of applying the tiller.

McCLANAN, NEW MANAGER OF MARKETING ASSN.

The Princess Anne Marketing Association is well underway with the marketing of its green sweet potato crop under the leadership of Mr. Irvin McClanan.

McClanan is now moving the off-quality potatoes into greenhouse channels for baby food containers, canning contracts, and for flaking purposes.

Artificial Lighting Recommendations in Poultry Houses Differ

Poultrymen have long known that a hen will lay more eggs in the winter time if her daylight hours are extended by artificial lighting.

But there's been some disagreement about how this should be done. Now, it seems scientists agree that egg producers can save up to $1.30 per light fixture in laying houses by using 60 watt bulbs instead of 100 watt bulbs.

Recent work at Cornell shows there is no advantage in supplying a light intensity greater than that of one 60-watt bulb per 200 square feet of floor space.

In a 5,000-bird flock allowed 2 1/2 square feet of floor space per bird, savings will amount to about $82 per year by using 60-watt bulbs in place of 100-watt bulbs.

Other lighting experiments, such as those at Washington State University, show that a reduced day length during the growing period and an increase in light during the laying period, especially after the production peak, is a desirable practice.

It was found that when the light period was increased from nine to 16 hours from hatching to 20 weeks of age, birds were about 150 grams heavier than those exposed to other light treatments. These pullets came into egg production at 18 weeks of age, but they produced a large number of small eggs at the beginning of the production period.

Another group of pullets hatched 16 hours of light at hatching with gradual reduction to 9 hours at 20 weeks of age. Light-intensity was increased after they were put in the laying house. These pullets maintained a higher rate of production than pullets from other treatments.

PLASTIC COVERS PAY ON BUNKER-TYPE SILOS

Plastic covers for bunker-type silos will more than pay for themselves. Attention is called to recent work by the United States Department of Agriculture Investigators.

These researchers found that about 10 pounds of additional dry matter was preserved from every square foot of surface sealed. This 10 pounds of surface would be worth a minimum of 15 cents, they figured.

The cost of one square foot of four mil polyethylene plastic is only about two cents. So, obviously, the cover more than pays for itself, even if used for only one year.

In a covered bunker silo with a capacity of 134 tons, the loss to spoilage was 19.1 percent of the total dry matter. In a similar sized silo left uncovered, spoilage amounted to 36.1 percent of the total dry matter.

Why did you think about the silages? Cows produced more milk, ate more pounds of dry matter, and lost less weight when eating the covered silage compared to the unsealed silage.

Far too many dairymen decide not to use a cover because they don't see much surface spoilage on an uncovered bunker. They need to remember that visible spoilage accounts for only about one-eighth of the total dry matter losses. Also, the 3 inches of spoiled silage often found in well-packed bunker silos is actually 10 inches or more left on the floor of a thicker layer representing possibly 10 to 12 percent of the original silage.

In order for a cover to be effective, it must be free from air leaks. A layer of sawdust or other weighting material should be used with any silo cover.

FARM FEEDING SYSTEMS CALL FOR CAREFUL PLANS

tion has its own problems. Feeding systems must be engineered for a specific operation.

Whether old facilities are used in the installation or a completely new system put in, certain basic decisions must be made. These are based on present needs and should allow also for future expansion.

Facts are needed on quantity of material to be handled (based on feed requirements of the type and number of livestock on the farm) the kind of materials being fed, location of present facilities, type and amount of equipment needed to give capacity and the desired product to be fed.

Also to be considered are the storage of required products for later processing; conveying equipment—size, layout, types; and the use of a flow diagram to show the simplest, most efficient way of doing the job.

Some materials handling principles will help guide the planning. Move materials as little as possible, let livestock help as much as is feasible, provide for continuous flow and eliminate unnecessary operations, and mechanize operations that can be done so efficiently.

Professional assistance is available to Virginia farmers from agricultural engineers with power suppliers and from consulting engineers. County agents have access to the resources of the agricultural engineers at VPI who can offer help in the design and layout of feed processing and handling system.

It is often wise to get all of the information and assistance you can before making large investments in new equipment.

VA. GROUPS PLAN PERFORMANCE TESTED SALE

November 16 will be show window day for Virginia Angus and Hereford breeders taking part in the Virginia Performance Testing Program.

VA. GROUPS PLAN PERFORMANCE TESTED SALE

Animal husbandmen at VPI say a three-phase sale will be held at the Culpeper Agriculture Enterprises Pavilion in Culpeper, beginning at 10 a.m. Only performance tested cattle will be offered. The sale will be sponsored by the Virginia Angus Association, the Virginia Hereford Association and the Virginia Beef Cattle Improvement Association.

Featured in the sale will be a select group of 34 ROP bulls ranging from 13 to 20 months of age just off an official 140-day feed test. Choice and fancy bulls which have met the minimum daily gain on feed test of one pound per day will be offered. Also selling will be a select offering of bull calves, grading choice and fancy with a minimum pre-weaning gain of 1.85 pounds per day non-creeping basis. The third phase of the sale will be a large group of choice and fancy grade heifer calves with a minimum pre-weaning average daily gains of 1.8 pounds. A large lot of commercial heifers meeting the same standards will be sold.

The VPI officials say this kind of sale is a new venture in Virginia, and is recognized as a "step in the right direction" for the beef industry. This is the first time for performance tested calves to be offered for sale at auction.
